THE SCRANTON TRIBUNE-THURSDAY, OCTOBER 27, 1898,

Causes Dyspepsia Wakefulness and Insomana

The habit of dining out at night is bound to bring about a great deal of suffering. The stomach is overloaded without the necessary activity to aid the digestion. The toesing about at night and sleeplessness are the immediate results. Dyspepsia and Indigestion are sure to follow in its course.

One glassful of Johann Holf's Malt Extract taken before retiring will remove all this trouble. It will aid the proper assimilation of the food and produce a healthy, sound sleep.

should also be taken during the day with every meal, particularly by reak and debilitated people and children who lack the necessary power to digest solid food.

The genuine Johann Hoff's Malt Extract has a remarkable nutritious action, both tonic and invigorating, and has proved to be of great value in chronic diseases.

Beware of imitations. Take only the genuine Johann Hoff's Malt Extract. Johann Hoff: NewYork.Berlin, Paris,

The Republican rally which was held in Weber's rink on Tuesday evening was largely attended. At 7.39 o'clock Burgess James E. Watkins called the meeting to order and afterward called upon ex-Burgess William P. Griffithe to act as chairman of the vening. The first speaker was Hon. James M. Evans, or "lago" as he is called, Mr. Evans spoke elequently on the principles of the Republican party. The other speakers were Attorneys R. A. Zimmerman and M. W. Lowry, The former gentleman also spoke on the same subject and spoke with much force. The Taylor Silver Cornet band was present and enlivened the audience with some very choice selections. Mrs. Roberts, of California, is visit-

The three miles of track are necessary owing to the round-about course takon, the elevation of one of the tunnels being 225 feet above that of the head of the shaft, where the coal is dumped. One tunnel cuts the Clark veln at a distance of 559 feet from the opening, one cuts the Marcy vein 200 feet from the opening, and the third starts at the out-cropping of the Clark vein. One of the tunnels is ventilated by means of a rock plane driven from the shaft workings, another is ventilated with a twelve-foot fan, operated by compressed air, and the third has natural ventilation. These three tunnels increase the capacity of the colliery between 600 and 800 tons per day.

EUVING CULM HEAPS.

A syndicate from Philadelphia has bought the large culm pile owned by the Raub Coal company at Luzerne, During the past few months this syndicate has purchased several of the large culm banks throughout the Wyoming coal field and is at present successfully operating a culm washer that is utilizing the large bank of culm at the Haddock colliery at Luzerne.

A small breaker is now being built through which the culm from the newly purchased pile will be run, as will ilso that from the Waddell breaker, which previously has been dumped on the Raub calm pile. For some time the syndicate entertained the idea of the syndicate entertained the idea of propelling the machinery in their new creaker by water power from the creek 8 that runs near by. The idea was soon $ abandened, however, owing to the weight of the cuim in the elevators be-5 ing thought too heavy for the current of water.

The washer will be ready to commence operation about the last part of November and will employ several men.

Amazing values in this sale of fine muslin underwear

In reality there are four great lots of gowns, all at popular prices. This sale is the result of an overstock of tine goods on which we have cut the price, in some instances down to one-half the former mark. Every garment is high class and must not be confounded with goods sold regularly at such prices. In the course of the last ten days some of the lots were thinned out considerably, but were immediately filled in with other goods, and in most instances EVEN HIGHER GRADES than those that were closed out. We promise some of the grandest values you ever saw in fine goods at prices that have never been equalled before. Convince yourself,

WEDDED YESTERDAY.

Miss Nellie T. Loftus was married yesterday morning to John P. Loftus, of Scranton. The ceremony was performed at 6 o'clock by Rev. T. F. Coffey in St. Rose's church. Miss Mary Burke acted as bridesmaid, while Stephen O'Hara, of Scranton, was groomsman. Bride and maid were attired in gowns of gray bengaline covert cloth. A wedding breakfast was given at the home of the bride's sister. The couple left on the 8 o'clock train on a wedding tour that will extend for some weeks and will include Philadelphia, New York and Boston.

MORRISON'S "FAUST" TONIGHT.

The electrical and mechanical effects in the Brocken scene in "Faust," which will be seen tonight at the Grand, with the only Lewis Morrison in his wonderful and original creation of Mephisto, are of such complete magnitude that in addition to the local theatre staff, seven electricians and riechanics are carried by the organization. This scene is one of the most wierdly fascinating ever produced and is nightthe subject of much admiration. Many seats have already been reserved at Reynolds' drug store, but there are still some desirable ones left.

YESTERDAY'S EXCURSIONISTS.

Owing to the rainy weather the excursion from New York city was not a very large one. The first section arrived in this city, having ridden from Honesdale in a driving rainstorm. Many of the excursionists staved at Honesdale instead of coming through to Carbondale. There were not a multitude gazing over the fence that still encloses Memorial park. Although the gate was unlocked, not many of the visitors took advantage of the chance to seat themselves.

Comfort for Women.

Sometime ago Pullman's Palace Car ompany built three parlor cars for the B. and O.'s New York trains and the radical departure from other cars of Court House Square. this character lay in the toilet room for ladies which was eight feet in length. Recently the same company built light new sleepers for the New York-St. Louis line of the B. and O. and the designer of the cars has evidently been impelled by the popularity of the ladies retiring room in the parlor cars to give to the ladies a vast deal more space than they over had before in sleeping cars.

These new cars are said by the Putiman people to be the finest ever turned out and the ladies retiring room is exceedingly commodious, and contains, besides other tollet necessities, a dresser with a long pier glass. The cars are finished in vermillion wood decorated with inlaid marquetry work and the upholstery on the backs and seats is entirely new and different from any heretofore used, being a sort of moquette with a dark green border and a center patiern of bright color. A similar design of ornamentation has been applied to the ceiling, giving the car an arabesque effect. They are also supplied with all the modern appliances such as wide vestibules, antitelescoping device, air pressure water system and are lighted with Pintsch gas. A very pleasing effect is obtained by the oval windows of opalescent glass, the first that has been used in the construction of sleeping cars.
