AN APPEAL FOR AID.

Issued in Behnir of the Home of the Good Shepherd-The Needs of that Worthy Institution Set Forth.

The following appeal in benalf of the Home of the Good Shepherd has been issued:

We have in our midst many charitable institutions that in their peculiar spheres are accomplishing a good and a noble work, but among those charities that are especially worthy of public aid and en-coragement, the Home of the Good Sheperd seems to be the most powerful tency in the reformation of the unfor-nate and the fallen. The highest culogy that can be presented of the work ac-emphased by this charitable institution a to exhibit a catalogue of the merito-ious labors in the field of charity to hich it has been dedicated. The Sistors of the Good Shepherd ex-of their elevating influence. No distinction of religious belief, no enormity of time, no degree of human degradation an deter these good, faithful workers for he elevation of humanity from fulfilling to noble and sublime destiny for which he order was instituted. hey feel that it is their divine mission taler the guidance of a truly Christian impulse to instruct the Ignorant, cure the sick, clothe the poor, redeem the fallen, and to enable the unfortunate who are committed to their care to begin anew the battle of life, repentant.

Where a man in the sight of a whole ation under the eyes of admiring friends all devoted relatives sacrifices himself for his native land, he exchanges a few days of life for ages of glory; he sheds hastre upon his family and raises it to wealth and honor. But the devoted sis-ters of the Good Shepherd whose lives are spont in the recesses of the cloister, and who work faithfully, silently and unobtrusively for the most unfortunate of womankind, make greater and nobler sacrifices without the encouragement of spectators, without public applause, and Sthom any hope of reward in this life ther than consciousness of duty, faith-

In the performance of these plous duties they find no consolation but in the teach-less of Christ, and no encouragement but in the hope of an eternal reward in the life to come. And the sisters' labor is a public bene-
