The committee of arrangements has spared no expense in preparing an elaborate programme for the occasion. Lawrence's full orchestra will furnish the music.

"UNCLE DICK'S DARLING."—The new Standard Dramatic society will produce "Uncle Dick's Darling" at the Lyceum on Nov. 25 for the benefit of the Home of the Good Shepherd. W. P. Quinn, who has been the manager of the company, has been forced to resign owing to the pressure of his personal business, and has been succeeded by M. J. Coyne and Robert J. Rankin.

TRIED TO USE A KNIFE.—Alexander Alexinsky was arraigned in police court yesterday morning charged with being drunk and attempting to stab his friend, Abraham Getts, late Wednesday, in a South Washington avenue saloon. Special Officer Firestein presented the prisoner from accomplishing his apparent desire. Patrolmen Peters, Evans and Sartor assisted by the special officer, placed under great duress Alexinsky and John Decker who interfered with the officers. Mayor Bailey fined them $5 each.

DANGER LURKING IN OUR IMAGINATION

IMPRESSION ON THE MIND STAYS THERE FOREVER.

From Hearing Dr. Smith on the Subject of Imagination Before the Teachers of the Institute One Is Impressed with the Necessity of Guarding Well the Mind from Evil Thoughts Or Influences. Superintendent Hower, of Wayne County, on Irregularities.

Miss Harris was the first speaker of the afternoon session of the teachers' institute yesterday. Her topic was "The Impression on the Mind." Family life is community life. It is not an extension of the life of the community. If the pupils will observe the character, personality, attitude, the occupation, the utensils used, and the modes of travel. All of these things form a part of the history of the family, and the same things are true of communities and states. There is history in everything around us, there is a good lesson in the old ruined building, its walls retain traces of the manners and customs of the time when the building was in style, and a comparison of the conditions then and now form an idea of the progress of the nation.

The object of teaching and learning history is to make good citizens. Miss Harris would not tell her pupils that George Washington never told a lie. How do we know he didn't? She would rather tell them of his patriotism, statesmanship, and greatness, and tell them that Father of his country was at one time a little boy. She would tell them the early struggles of the great Abraham Lincoln to obtain the means to educate himself and that the first book he ever had was a primer of the "Dixie" type.

Professor W. A. Kelley, of Arden, sang "Madeline" and was compelled to favor the teachers with another song, "Asthore."

LACK OF INTEREST.

Superintendent D. L. Hower, of the Wayne county schools, addressed the teachers on the lack of interest too often found in their work. It was not a good time to make a speech, for he realized there are some teachers in this county who are failures. Purposefully he remained at the rear to observe the interest taken from that section in the lecture. Alas! he found some of the teachers making so much noise that he had to move forward several seats to hear.

Superintendent Hower did not establish himself a favorite with the teachers. He was freely criticized at times for drawing a fine, for displaying a picture of the irregularities in the school room. One teacher said he made the same sort of an impression on the kindhearted old lady Marshall P. Wilder described, who called on the heart-disease patient in the hospital. "Well, good-by, dear child and I hope I'll be able to come around soon again for you die."

Dr. Smith, acting principal of West Chester State Normal school, was the first speaker of the afternoon session. His subject was "The Influence of Imagination." He treated an abstract psychological subject so nicely in the simplicity of his presentation that even a child could understand. The term imagination does not apply to all the activities of the mind, nor is it that fanciful scheme which passes through the mind is a product of the imagination.

A man will say, "I can't get for the life of me to imagine what such a thing means." The proper way to put that is to substitute understanding for imagination. Imagination and understanding are two very different things. The picturing faculty of the human soul coupled with the judgment constitutes the imagination.

MATTER OF A STANDARD.

The question, "Whose judgment shall be the standard?" is most pertinent. There are two kinds of imagination, that kind which proceeds from some other person's judgment where for instance we read a book with pictures and are told by the author what to look for in this picture and in that. Invariably we are swayed by the judgment of the author. We prepare to receive his judgment when we begin to read the book. The other kind is the creative imagination, required when a person begins to write a book. It is the type founded upon the individual's own judgment.

The experience in life constitutes the basis of all reasoning by analogy. What is in the mind of a new house? All the material put into either is as old as the hills. The stuff has simply been moulded out of its chaotic state into a new relation, that is all.

Oh the dangers of becoming visionary by being out of the event of a strong judgment! A man once invented an appliance for railway purposes and he figured out the sum of $250,000 which he was going to sell for the next day. The scheme carried all right up to the point where the inventor was to be accorded and the money paid to him. The firm he was negotiating with found the invention impracticable and it didn't work.

The imagination may become very seductive when it is obedient to the feelings. The danger is that it disposes of obstacles by imagining a way they can be disposed of. That makes the person unsuccessful in this matter-of-fact world.

CORRUPT IMAGINATION.

But the worst species of the imagination is the corrupt. There is no evidence in psychology to show the erasure of an impression from the mind. An impression once made, and the effect of it is born forever. Be accordingly careful then, he said, of the impressions of your children. It makes all the difference in the world what the boys and girls are called upon to see, think about, do and say, what books, papers, and magazines they read, and what companionship they are permitted to have.

Every city, town and village should be exceedingly vigilant in the manner of men allowed to occupy the corners where the children are wont to pass. Every time a child goes out there is too much danger of meeting with unnecessary filth in the shape of profanity, vulgarity and indecency in all its forms.

Keep the mind of the child actively and pleasantly engaged. There is no such thing as idleness. Present a correct every tendency toward a mood of brooding disposition. Fill the mind with good or it will become choked with bad. Urge the wrong of evil thinking and teach that it is a more magnanimous thing to think purely than not so.

Recited two cases, one of a servant girl in the employ of a minister who was accustomed to walk backward and forward when she was at work and to wear a message after passage of Latin, Hebrew and Greek, as he was walking. She understood not a word he said but some time later she became delirious with fever and in her ravings she repeated several sentences of these languages as she heard her employer do. The other illustration was the great American crowbar case in which a man, who was injured in a quarry by a bar's going into his head beneath the chin and out on the back of the head, was usually corrupt after he recovered, though he had been an exemplary citizen before that. The accident carried away that part of the brain in which the control of the imagination rested. That man was not a hypocrite before the accident, but these were the impressions that had been ineffaceably stamped on his mind maybe in boyhood, but remained with him to the end.

PRIMARY READING.

Miss Harris was the first speaker of the morning also. Her subject was primary reading. The phonic method should be unadorned as practicable and incorrect. The phonic system is too advanced for the pupil of the primary grade.

Superintendent Howell, of the Scranton schools, built a geographical house for the teachers which was constructed by the Sisters' Institute at St. Thomas' college last summer. One of the strong points of his address was to let the pupil depend upon himself.

Dr. Bateson gave an address on the effects of stimulants and narcotics on the human stomach, liver and kidneys. Suffice it to say his stress on this subject was strong enough for the most critical. The doctor is an ardent prohibitionist.

Dr. Smith resumed his talk begun the day before on "The Reality Principle in Education." There is but one exact science, he said, in the department of human learning and that is pure mathematics. There is nothing in it of the latitude found in literature. We should read books for what they contain and not because they are written by a certain author.

The Institute will close today at noon. Dr. Smith, Miss Harris and Rev. Elikan Hulley, of Keystone Academy, of Factoryville, will be the speakers. The committee on resolutions will present its report.

SLAYTON'S JUBILEE SINGERS.

They Gave a Concert at the High School Auditorium.

The Slayton Jubilee singers gave a pleasing concert last evening in the High School Auditorium. There was a large audience and the programme was received with much appreciative applause. The company consisted of a double quartette and an accompanist. There were some splendid voices, and the programme was varied.

Madame Sylvestre's rich, full contralto was perhaps the greatest pleasure of the evening. A yodel which she gave as an encore would be difficult to excel. A whistling artist, whose work was really phenomenal, and a number of comedians made up an agreeable cast.

CONTRACT IS EXECUTED.

Work on Hyde Park Avenue Pavement Will Begin at Once.

The contract for paving Hyde Park avenue was executed yesterday by the Alcatraz Paving company. The avenue is to be paved from Lafayette to Division streets with brick on a sand base. Work will be commenced at once on this long discussed improvement and completed as soon as possible.

Mayor Bailey last night sent to select council the name of Joseph Taylor, who is nominated by the city engineer for the post of city assessor, and T. H. Jones were applicants for the appointment and either one might have had it if the other would pull out in his favor. Both remained in the race and Mayor Bailey settled the question by appointing Mr. Taylor, who has also been appointed inspector of the North Main avenue and Providence road paves.

NEW RULES FOR THE FIRE DEPARTMENT

ADOPTED BY COUNCIL AFTER SHORT DISCUSSION.

Joseph Taylor Appointed and Confirmed Inspector of Hyde Park Avenue Pavement—Contract for Paving Forest Court South of Spruce Street Let to Barber Asphalt Company—Resolution Passed to Establish Uniformity of Levels in Grade by Public Sidewalks and the Reservation Sidewalk.

Rules governing the fire department of the city were adopted by select council last night. They cover a multitude of pages of type-written matter. After a motion to adjourn had been made and a majority of the members had their voices raised in their hands, Mr. Roche thrust himself into the breach and saved the day for the rules. He hoped the meeting would not adjourn till the rules were considered.

A copy of the rules was handed to the bid of the Barber Asphalt company, making them operative by Mr. Schroeder. Wade Finn urged to refer them to the committee. Mr. Lansing thought there was one defect in them; namely, a section putting into the hands of the board of engineers the power to remove the sidewalk on the city side of the board to place a synopsis of the rules. The difference between the new rules and the old is that it regulates the permanent nature of that hours they are to keep, when to go to meals, where to exercise their horses, how to keep a parlor, what to do in responding to fires, etc., etc. The motion to rush them through carried by a vote of 2 to 7, Messrs. Kearney, Thomas Roche, Melvin, Shea, Sanderson, McCumby, and Cogan voting in the affirmative, and Messrs. Ross, Finn, Robinson, Schroeder, Lansing and O'Boyle and Chittenden in the negative.

REFEREE IN BANKRUPTCY

Attorney C. A. Van Wormer, of Montrose, Who Was Recently Appointed by Judge Buffington, Has Established Himself in This City.

Attorney C. A. Van Wormer, of Montrose, the recently-appointed referee in bankruptcy for this district, established his office yesterday in the Federal building, occupying the office formerly assigned to the United States marshal.

The workings of the bankruptcy law as recently outlined in The Tribune, according to Mr. Van Wormer's opinion, subject to change. Under the present provisions of the law a petition in bankruptcy must be filed with the clerk of the United States court and the case must be made up under his supervision. This means that every petition, in either voluntary or involuntary bankruptcy, must travel to Pittsburgh. This is a hardship which the law, likely, never contemplated and the chances are that it will be amended in this detail so that the petitions can be filed with the referee and sent to the headquarters of the district court for examination and approval and then certified back to the referee.

Mr. Van Wormer does not know as to what extent the referee in bankruptcy is to have jurisdiction in this district. His commission reads simply that he is appointed referee for the Lackawanna district. Judge Buffington, when last Mr. Van Wormer had a talk with him, had not made up the sub-divisions. He said he expected to appoint six referees and to station them respectively at Pittsburg, Erie, Scranton, Williamsport, Wilkes-Barre and some one other place in the southwestern part of the district. Railroad accommodations will have much to do with the apportionment of the different districts.

The Lackawanna district will, in Mr. Van Wormer's opinion, comprise Lackawanna, Monroe, Susquehanna, Wyoming and Bradford counties. Wayne and Pike counties are in the eastern judicial district and consequently will be cared for by some referee appointed by Judge Butler, of Philadelphia.

Judge Buffington's announcement that he intended to appoint as his referees men who could virtually relieve him of all responsibility in connection with bankruptcy court, makes Mr. Van Wormer's selection a nice compliment, in addition to what else it carries with it.

The appointment was a popular one with the members of the Lackawanna bar, of which Mr. Van Wormer is an associate, he having practiced here in the early '90's, after having been admitted to the bar in Susquehanna county and practicing there and in North Dakota five and eleven years, respectively. He will make his home in this city, with his brother-in-law, E. M. Tewksbury, of Adams avenue.

DELIGHTFUL ENTERTAINMENT.

Given Last Evening in the Grace Lutheran Church.

A very delightful entertainment was given last evening at Grace Lutheran church to an audience that crowded its room. It consisted of some very excellent selections on the graphophone, operated by G. B. Uthman. Among the selections that seemed to touch the true chord and evoke special applause were "Chimes of Old Trinity Church" and "Star Spangled Banner."

An allegorical representation of "Stock of Ages" was given by Misses Hattie Kline, Bertha Frances and

CONCERT AT CALVARY CHURCH

Was Given by the International Concert Company.

The International Concert company gave a delightful entertainment last night at the Calvary Reformed church. The programme was rendered by Mr. and Mrs. Thiele, Miss Buckwald and Mr. Sanderson. The selection given was of a high order and gave excellent scope for the varied and distinctive talent of each performer.

Mrs. Thiele was in fine voice and made a great impression with her merit. She sang several well chosen numbers.

Mr. Sanderson, the Belgian violinist, gave several numbers with great vigor and enthusiasm. The Godard Recitativo with the violin was perhaps the most satisfactory. Mr. Thiele's violin solos were played with delicacy and feeling and were a great success. The violinist in the duo was among the most pleasing numbers of the evening. The ensemble effect as a finale was very enjoyable.

ARMY AND NAVY 1899 ART CALENDAR.

Pleasant and Beautiful Sentiments of Military Life Artistically Illustrated—A Timely Gift.

Just at this season when our hearts are bursting with joy at the glorious success of our soldiers and sailors and the kindness for the suffering of the wounded, we grasp eagerly at any souvenir which will remind us now and in after years of their valorous deeds. How highly then shall we prize the exquisite production, "The Army and Navy Calendar," in color from the brush of the famous artist, Francis Day, which Armour and company, of Chicago, have just brought out. The scenes depicted are "Sweet Moments," showing a winsome maiden pinning a bunch of flowers in her soldier boy's coat; another a Red Cross nurse laughingly holding back from the wounded the letter from home he is so eagerly expecting; in the third "A Great Treat," a lady is lighting a soldier's cigar for him; in "Must It Be Good-Bye," the lovely girl in yellow evening dress, with head bent over the back of a chair, suffering the pangs of parting, is vainly trying to sum up courage to bid her lover "Good-bye!"

The next picture shows a sailor and a laughing lass "Making His Last Charge," a big jack knife. The sixth and last "The New Recruit," who has stolen a cap and sword of her admiral, is seen going through the army manoeuvres.

These charming pictures may truly be called poems without words, for the beauty and sentiment expressed in them reminds one very strongly of the war verses of the illustrious Schiller. The whole calendar from an artistic standpoint is especially fine, for the figures are all well drawn and the coloring soft and exceedingly harmonious. The work comes from one of the largest lithographic houses in the United States—one which enjoys a well-earned reputation for its fine similar productions.

The calendar consists of six 16x22 sheets, bound with red, white and blue silk ribbon, and is sent by Armour and company, of Chicago, to any address on receipt of six 2 cent stamps to cover mailing and postage.
