As the Wyoming Valley was the first section of this country west of the Hudson river to give support to the teachings of Wesley, it is eminently proper that some place should be specially set aside in this locality to preserve the mementoes of the efforts those early Methodists put forth to establish Christianity in the wilderness.

The conference has done a worthy thing in establishing a historical society and all who are interested in the church are asked to lend their sup-

One of the most interesting is the seness of Deborah Sutton Bedford, orn Feb. 8, 1773, rode on a wheelbarrow from Luzerne berough to Forty For; on the terrible July 3, 1778; was in the fort through the tragic scenes of those days, remembered them and told of them until her death, at 96 years of age, four years after Lee surrendered to Grant at Appomatox. She was converted at 15 years and joined the first M. E. rociety on Ross Hill in 1788. This is the only exact likeness known of, of any person who was at Forty Fort on that tragic day. The likeness is a daguerreotype which was loaned to Rev. J. K. Peck by her grandson, Sterling Bedford, of Another interesting article is clothes brush which was owned and used by Dr. Adam Clarke, the great commentator, who is considered the profoundest thinker in Methodism. He lived and wrote in the time of Wesley. It was originally owned by Mrs. E. M. Powell, of England, and in turn it fell into the bands of Mrs. H. Krigbaum, of 217 Chestnut street, Scranton, who presented it to the society.

"That Boy" seems to be the subject of a great deal of anxiety in this city just at the present time, judging from the active interest taken in him by several prominent clergymen. Rev. Dr. C. M. Giffin has already delivered two marvelously strong addresses in a series of sermons on this subject and will continue the theme tomorrow evening at Elm Park church, when "His Rights" will be considered, Rev. R. F. Y. Pierce and Rev. Dr. Gibbons are also discussing the same topic.

Rev. Dr. Horatio R. Clark was buried yesterday from his late home in Binghamton, where he died at an advanced age. Dr. Clark may have been termed the surviving charter member of the Wyoming conference, which was formed in 1852. He was one of the earliest presiding elders of this district, and was long engaged in educational work, having been a professor in Susquehanna seminary and also in Oneida seminary,

The practical sermons being delivered by the Rey. R. F. Y. Pierce at the Penn Avenue Baptist church on Sunday evenings are attracting large crowds of people. The interest has increased

MUSICAL GOSSIP.

Through efforts of Rev. Thomas de Gruchy, of the Jackson Street church, the Welsh Prize been secured singers have give an entertainment at church, Thanksgiving night, Nov. 24. The company is assisted by a world renowned harpist, whose delicate touch has charmed the musical world in Europe. No doubt the artists will be given a cordial reception among their own kin and former friends who heard them here about three years ago,

The Musical Culture society, under Mr. John T. Watkins' direction, will meet for rehearsal next Wednesday evening at a o'clock sharp. A full attendance is requested, as new music is on hand and business of importance to be transacted.

The members of the Schubert quartette are the recipients of numerous enconiums for the excellent singing of the past week. Their work at the Florence Mission society concert, the County Institute concert and at the Republican neass meeting at the Lyceum was highly commended.

New York city is flush with comic opera. "The Little Corporal," at the Broadway: "The Fortune Teller," at the Knickerbocker theater; "A Trip to Africa," at the American theater: also "Patience, "Aida" and "La Boheme," at the Casino; also "Pallacet"

A beautiful programme has been prepared and all are invited. No tickets will be sold, but a silver offering will be received at the door. Mr. J. M. Chance, director.

The Elm Park Choral society will ommence rehearsals this evening at 8 o'clock. The books have arrived and a full attendance is desired.

The music at the Elks' memorial service will be under the direction of John T. Watkins. An elaborate programme is in preparation.

CONTESTANT MUST PAY.

The election contest was devoid of any excitement or unusually interesting features yesterday. Nineteen voters were examined, some of them being witnesses who were brought in on attachments. In these cases, the witnesses averred that they were never subpoensed before and Judge Archbald ruled that the costs of the attachment should be placed on the contestant. A rule accompanied the order to show cause why the costs should not be stricken off The witnesses examined yesterday were: James Mulhern, Edward Dougherty, Michael Ferguson, John J. The issues of The Youth's Companion tain a number of unusual features. Frank R. Stockton will contribute a humorous paper, "Some of My Dogs;" Rudyard Kipling's new story, "The furning of the Sarah Sands," will come out in the November 16th number; Lord Dufferin will relate some of the sensational experiences. of a pleasure trip in war time in "My First Cruise," in the issue of November 17th, and to the Thanksgiving number (November 2i) Mary E. Wilkins will con-tribute a glimpse of the good old times in her sketch of "A New England Giri Seventy Years Ago."

Archibald R. Colquhoun, author of the recently published work on "China in Transformation," contributes to the "North American Review" for November a most important article entitled, "The Far Eastern Crisis." in which he deals with the sequestration of the Chinese Empire at the hands of the despotic and Empire at the hands of the despotic and military states of Europe. China, however, Mr. Colquhoun points out, is a world necessity, and the status of the United States as mistress of the Philipsel Chadwick, commanding the flagship New York, and Chief of Staff to Admiral Wolf Hopper announces his interest. particularly interesting at this time, dealing as it does with events that have caused the world to regard the American offspring of the Anglo-Saxon race with admiration and astonishs ent, and the author weaves into a pleasing narrative his dream of the Anglo-Saxon adjance of the future. While not particularly pol-ished from a literary point of view, the style is vigorous and the hero is given erature, and has a tendency to keep ally the flame of patriotism in the breast of the reader. The Hubbell Publishing company, Cleveland, Ohio, It is not often that a contributor to a magazine spends five millions or so loliars in fitting himself to write knowingly of a subject. But, if popular report be true, that is, approximately, the sum which Joseph Leiter expended in the acquisition of the information necessary to his signature in the November Cosmo-politan on "Wheat." This is Mr. Leiter's first appearance in literature, but he that shows him a man of resources. Another Cosmopolitan contribution which will appeal to every man and woman is the attempt of Harry Thurston Peck to analyze the component parts of the mod-ern Woman of Fascination. By what loes woman fascinate? Is it beauty Evasive question! But Mr. Peck goes at it as a man who has studied and has had experience.

There could be no more convincing evidence of Rudyard Kipling's unique position among modern writers than the lack of surprise at the tremendous demand for his new book, "The Day's Work." People interested in literary matters seem to consider it quite in the ordinary course of events that three large editions of the book should have been required to fill the first orders. For a week after it now playing the part. appeared the Doubleday & McClure com-pany were unable to supply the book-sellers, although they were producing two thousand copies a day; and within two weeks of the publication a fourth edition, making in all twenty-five thousand copies, had to be put on the press. Un-doubtedly a portion of the book's popu-larity is attributable to the fact that it shows so many different sides of the author's genius, containing as it does stories of India, of machinery and of animals, beides two of Kipling's rare love stories:

"William the Conqueror," and Brushwood Boy." Richard Harding Davis, who was one of the few war correspondents to follow the army from Cuba to Porto Rico, and who was with the advance from the time of landing until the close of hostilities, gives his impressions of "The Porto Rican 'ampaign' for the November Scribner's lic pays high tribute to the generals and troops who made the closing campaign of the war seem more like a triumphal parade than an aggressive advance through an enemy's country, and shows that both regulars and volunteers did the work before them in a way to satisfy the most exacting military demands. The article also gives a vivid and clear impression of the country and people, and describes many picturesque and amusing

"Angio-Saxons, Onward!" is the title of a fascinating romance of the future from the pen of the well-known journalist. Benjamin Rush Davenport. The work is and these, with suggestions that bear pertinently on our future naval policy, are fully dealt with by Captain Chadwick. His theories concerning the elements of Spanish character that led to their defeat, and clear statement of the strategical purposes of Admiral Cervera in his atboth new and especially interesting.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS.

One of the latest persons of note to succumb to the temptations of the vaude-ville managers is Madame Janauschek. Anne Sutherlard, who supported Joseph Jefferson in "Lend Me Pive Shillings" last season, has gone into vaudaville and will present a sketch in which there is a stirring duel scene.

Roland Reed has produced Mrs. Ryley's latest comedy, "The Voyagers," before a Chicago audience and the general ver-dict seems to be, that while the new play is bright and interesting, it is by no Lillian Russell has canceled her conthental engagements on the plea that she does not care to what in countries whose language she cannot speak. She is now in London where she may appear before returning home. Notwithstanding the recent death of bia wife, Fanule Davenport, Melbourne Mc-Dowell, supported by Blanche Walsh, has again opened his season. Miss Walsh is said to much resemble the Fannio Davenport of a few years ago. Pour women have thus far played the part of the prima doma in 'A Day and a Night." Georgia Caine was succeeded by Apropos of the recent presentation here of the "Prisoner of Zenda." it is an-nounced that James J. Hackett and his company have begun reheursals of "P21-pert of Hentzen," Anthony Hone's secural to the "Prisoner," it will be produced at Philadelphia on Nov. 21.

The failure of "The Cuckno," Henry Guy Carleton's consedy, to go, either in Washington or Philodelphia, has led Smith & Rice to revive "The Old Cout." they would make a few changes in it and put it on the road. The presenting com-pany is the same as that which appeared here and is one of the best comedy com-pantes on the road. George W. Lederer will produce in London at a theater other than the Shaftes-bury a musical piece by "High Morion" and Gustave Kerker, which will have in its cast several prominent American comic opera singers and comedians. The is worth noting in this conection that he
