

HAPPENINGS OF NORTH SCRANTON

POLICE STATION A RECEIVING BASIN FOR SURFACE WATER.

It is the City's foulest blot and ought to be condemned at once. Annual Social of the Marquette Council, Young Men's Institute, Programme That Will Be Rendered at Tonight's Concert—Supper and Social of Liberty Hose Company—Minor News Events.

The heavy downpour of rain last night presented another unanswerable argument why North Scranton should have a new police station right away. As usual during every severe rain storm the apartments used as a police station became a collecting basin for sewerage and surface water and when Patrolman Finley Ross entered the station to report for duty he stepped into a pool of water that was deep enough to wet him up to the knees.

It is not an unusual thing for the station house to contain a foot of water after a severe rain storm. How unhealthful such a hole must be for the officers and prisoners requires no very vivid imagination to picture. One of Scranton's foulest blots is its North Scranton police station and a change cannot be made any too soon. Why the councilmen and other city officials who visit the place every year on their tours of inspection have allowed it to exist this long is one of the things that is far beyond comprehension. They should lose no time in wiping out this intolerable nuisance.

MARQUETTE'S SOCIAL. St. Mary's hall was a scene of light and color last night as the merry party of dancers flitted about. It was the annual social of the Marquette Council of the Young Men's Institute, which is one of the events in the social history of this part of the city each year.

Last night's function was quite up to the standard of its enjoyable predecessors. The attendance was large and the arrangements were of a perfect nature. Though the weather was disagreeable it did not affect the attendance or mar the enjoyment of the evening.

SUPPER AND SOCIAL. Tonight the Liberty Hose company will conduct their supper and social in Company H armory. The remodeled interior of the armory has been prettily adorned with attractive decorations and everything is completed preparatory to giving the patrons a highly entertaining time. During the hours in which supper will be served, an entertaining programme of musical and literary selections will be rendered by some of the best local talent. The menu for supper contains all of the viands of the present season and will be served by courteous young ladies.

Cures constant coughing, a simple cough is had enough; but a cough that is serious, take advice, use Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup and be cured.

THE SIMPLEST CURE FOR INDIGESTION.

As Well as the Safest and Cheapest. The new medical discovery, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, digest the food instead of making the worn out stomach do all the work, give it a much needed rest, and a cure of dyspepsia is the natural result.

You get nourishment and rest at the same time because these Tablets will thoroughly digest all wholesome food taken into the stomach whether the stomach works or not. A cure is certain to result because the digestive organs are given a chance to rest and recover their natural vigor and tone. The Tablets are then no longer required.

To show the manner in which the remedy acts on different people and how quickly and effectually it cures stomach troubles we present a few recent cases. Mr. O. Wandy, of Peoria, Ill., writes: I was unable to eat anything but the plainest food and even that often distressed me, but since using one box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets I can eat anything and everything I want.

Mr. Samuel Kepple, of Girty, Pa., writes: I have been entirely relieved of my stomach troubles by your Tablets. I suffered three years with sour stomach and gas at night. I am thankful for them.

Mrs. A. E. Bowen, of Barnard, Vt., writes: I think Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the best thing for dyspepsia I ever took. I will recommend them to anyone troubled as bad as I was.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will not disappoint because they cure Dyspepsia surely and lastingly by causing the food to be properly assimilated, and cure constipation by producing the proper quantity of bile. Sold by all druggists at 50 cents per package. Send for free book on stomach diseases to Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich.

EVENTS OF DAY IN WEST SCRANTON

CANDIDATES FOR COUNCIL IN THE FIFTH WARD.

They Are Getting in the Field Early. Private Howard Davies, of Company C, Thirtieth Regiment, Tendered a Reception—Marriage of Miss Kersti Wilson and Conrad Edstrom in St. Mark's Lutheran Church—Funerals of John C. O'Malley and Mrs. McAuliffe.

What few echoes there exists after Tuesday's election in the Fifth ward are hardly dying away before active preparations are set on foot for next spring's ward election. As in all old numbered wards, common councilmen and respective ward and district officers will be elected. An announcement has been made for a meeting of the candidates in prospect to be held at Pathechild's hotel next Saturday evening for the purpose of selecting a day upon which the ward caucus shall be held.

At present the only indications of a fight are for the common council. The present incumbent in the common branch will, from the present outlook, have several opponents. At least three have announced their intentions of running and have been more or less actively engaged in preparing for the coming fray.

Common Councilman J. H. Walker, the present incumbent, was elected two years ago with a big majority. Since his inception in office he has always been active in representing his constituents. That a comparatively young man both in years and in holding office, yet already he has proved himself a man possessed of considerable tact and executive ability. He is respected by his fellow members of the common branch, irrespective of party. His name was recognized by his appointment to the membership and in two instances as chairman, of several of the most important committees.

Mr. Walker is connected with the civil engineer's office of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad company. Few young men have given themselves so modestly when given honors of representation. He has heartily supported his colleague in the ward and has introduced many important measures to benefit both to his ward and to the city at large. His opponents are expected to be John F. James, Gailym Jones and James Dacey. All are young men. All have been active in party work in the ward and are quite well known. All bear a high reputation and are in earnest concerning their candidacy. Not one of them have ever held office. Mr. James is employed at the S. and D. Eel company's branch office in Dock-ash street. Mr. Jones and Mr. Dacey work for the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company, the latter as a coal inspector.

HONORED A SOLDIER. Private Howard Davies, of Company C, Thirtieth regiment, who recently recovered from a serious illness, was tendered a reception last evening at the residence of his father, Henry P. Davies, 414 South Main avenue. The affair was arranged and carried out by the members of the K. of K. Literary and Debating club, of which Mr. Davies is a member.

Many invitations were issued by the club to the number were responded to by the Misses Mary, Sadie, Lillian Davies, sisters of the soldier lad, and Mrs. J. Hughes received. The evening was passed in a most enjoyable manner. Vocal and instrumental selections, recitations, etc., were given by different members of the club. Music was also provided for dancing. At a seasonable hour refreshments were served.

Those in attendance were the Misses Sara Edwards, Jennie Davis, Annie Davis, Dora Davis, Gwen Davis, Sallie Davis, Sara Jones, May Richards, Lillian Rhoda, Sadie and Morris Thomas, Jennie Lewis, Elizabeth May Howell, Edith Jewell, Martha Jones, Lillian Morris, Jennie Jenkins, Annie Thomas, E. Murray, Jessie Lewis, Lillian Murray, Bessie Morgan, Clara Rhedd, Bertha Davis, May Belle Sweetser and Lewis; William Robertson, Harry Dacey, A. E. Elyon, T. Boston, P. D. A. Dunne. The remains were borne to the Dunmore (Mt. Carmel) cemetery, where interment was made.

Many friends of the late Mrs. John McAuliffe attended the funeral services for the deceased, which were held yesterday morning at St. Patrick's church. The remains were borne to the cathedral cemetery, where interment was made.

GRAPHOPHONE CONCERT. The members of Dowl Sant lodge, No. 50, Order of American Iovites, have completed their arrangements for the concert and exhibition which they will give in Mears' hall this evening. The lodge is in need of funds and has adopted this method of obtaining funds. The concert will be one of the best ever given on this side.

The company giving the exhibition comes straight from New York city. Many of the stirring scenes will be reproduced with almost life-size stereoscopic views. Many of the most popular selections of the day will be rendered on the graphophone. John H. Fowler's latest composition will be given for the first time. Robert Evans sang the piece for the graphophone plate.

strom, both well-known West Scranton young people, were united in marriage Wednesday evening at St. Mark's Lutheran church. Many friends witnessed the ceremony, and the couple were unattended. Rev. A. L. Hamer, Ph.D., pastor of the church, officiated.

MANY THINGS SHE CAN'T DO. From Tid-Bits.

Considerable as are the powers of the queen, they are not unlimited. There are some very curious restrictions on the royal prerogative. The queen cannot, for instance, communicate with her subjects as can the most menial of her servants; nor can she receive presents from her people except through officers of state or friends personally known to her majesty.

The queen could sell or give away the royal navy or declare war with Russia, but she could not spend a single farthing of public money without the consent of parliament. The queen has no power over taxation, and could not create any new office with fees attached to it. Neither could she annex new fees to old offices. She could footmen, unless she did it out of her private funds, or without exceeding the allowance made to her by parliament.

A curious curtailment of the royal prerogative is effected by an act of parliament passed in the reign of George III. This act deals with Scotland, but it is distinctly stated that the monarch cannot pardon offenders who have been convicted of a certain form of Sabbath breaking. Yet her majesty could pardon 99 per cent. of all the other prisoners in the land.

Though no act of parliament is complete until it is signed by the queen, her majesty is subject to the laws that she signs, and cannot issue a proclamation contrary to the law. If, for instance, it were by an act of parliament that no train should travel at a rate exceeding fifty miles an hour, the queen could not issue a proclamation exempting a certain train from the operation of the law. Nor can her majesty issue a proclamation which would injure the community, such as, for example, a proclamation exempting a whole town or neighborhood from serving on a jury.

Though the queen could recall any subject from abroad, she cannot command a subject to leave this country. This disability does not cease to operate even in time of war, and, though at such a time the queen could call upon every able man to take up arms, she could not force a single civilian to leave the country, even to carry on a necessary war.

Her majesty could not set up a court such as the star chamber, the child of Henry VII's misguided genius, nor could she invest a spiritual court with temporal power. Though her decision is absolute after a prisoner has been sentenced, she could not interfere with the course of justice before the sentence has been passed, nor could she exert any influence over her judges. Neither could she interfere in a case of private as opposed to public wrong.

The queen is the only person who can not arrest a suspected felon. No action can be taken against her for breaking the law, and, therefore, she is precluded from making an arrest, as supposing the suspected felon was innocent, no action for false imprisonment could be taken against her majesty. The law, indeed, assumes that the queen can do no wrong, which seems about as absurd as the legal assumption that the queen can not die under age, and can not die.

The queen can not exclude a member from parliament after he has been duly elected, nor can she delegate the duty of signing laws to anyone.

The queen's power of disposing of territory in time of peace has been disputed. In a time of war her majesty could hand over London to France to bring the war to an end, but it seems clear that in time of peace her majesty can not subject any part of the empire to the sway of a foreign power.

SPRINGTIME. You cannot hear the waters for the wind; The brook that foams and falls and bubbles by Hath lost its voice—but ancient steeples sigh, And heflies moan—and crazy ghosts congregate in dark courts weep, and shake the shuddering gates, And cry from points of windy pinnacles, Howl thro' the bars, and plain among the bells, And shriek and wail like voices of the great!

And who is he that down the mountain side, Swift as a shadow flying from the sun, Has seen the wings of stormy winds doth run, With fierce blue eyes and eyebrows knit with pride, The now and then I see sweet laughter play Upon his lips, like moments of bright heaven? Thrown twist the cruel blasts of morn and even, And golden locks beneath his hood of gray?

Sometimes he turns his luck to woe, Farewell! To his pale side with icy beard and hair; Sometimes he sends before him thro' the air A cry of welcome down a sunny dell; And while the echoes are around him ringing, Sudden the angry wind breathes low and sweet; Young violets show their blue eyes at his feet, And the wild lark is heard above him singing. —Frederick Tennyson.
