Burglars Invade the Residence of Mrs. William Law-The Bartlett Murder Case-An Accident at Coxon and a Synopsis of the Local News on a Dull Day.

On Wednesday night between eleven o'clock and midnight the residence of Mrs. William Law on Frond street was burglarized and nothing short of their own bungling work in gaining an entrance prevented them from securing what might have been a valuable stock of booty. The latch of a window at the rear had been removed and in gaining entrance they upset some pots on the sill and this awoke Law and the servants. They, not thinking that unwelcome visitors were on the premises, did not at ence investigate, but when the noise continued they resolved to see what was the cause, without waking up her son Alexander, who is here on a visit from Summit Hill. When Mrs. Law reached the foot of the stairway she was just in time to see one of the intruders going through the window. Reaching there, she was approached from behind, and thrown aside by the other intruder. As he was going through ed him with the first article she got hold of. She then gave an alarm, but when the help arrived the birds had tlown down the alley towards Wilhams street. Rev. Dr. Bradshaw, who resides next door and who was awakened by the noise, ran out of the house shocless to Main street and notified Officer Connell of the situation. He was unsuccessful in locating the gang A careful investigation showed that nothing had been carried off.

Last night at 8,30, while Arch Me-Dougalt was on his way home on th. West Side, upon reaching the intersection of Wyoming and Exeter streets the roof of the Brune block and occopied by Stites, the baker, and a and they caused an alarm to be vent in. The West Pittston Hose company responded, likewise the Niagueux and Eagles from the East Side. The former had a stream on the building and directed on the five which had started in a closet on the second floor, which was occupied by Miss Fanning. The flames were promptly subdued and the greatest amount of damage will be from the water. The building is insured in the Hilerman agency, but the loss to Miss Fanning will be total, as she carried no insurance.

The Pennsylvania Coal company, the Lehigh Valley Coal company and several of the individual operators will pay their employes tomorrow, and upwards of two hundred thousand dollars will be disbursed.

The Bartlett murder case is set for Tuesday next, and the progress of the case will be watched with much interest by Pittstonians. It will be remembered that about two months ago Bartlett while on a pay day drunk shot and killed a young man named Moffitt in a saloon on Mill street, and it was one of the most cold-blooded affairs that ever happened in this city. Officer Loftus is the prosecutor, and P. A. O'Boyle, of this city, will look after the interests of the defendant.

A little daughter of C. Donnelly is seriously ill. The Young Men's Christian association will net $160 from the two concerts of the Welsh singers, and this

When Alan, as a prisoner, is about to be shot by the orders of Colonel Thorpe, Maryland, in an attempt to save his life, confesses that she herself it necessary to amputate the injured has been guilty of carrying messages to the Union commanders. Failing in this attempt, she is more successful in saving his life by preventing the ringing of the bell that would sound the alarm after Alan has escaped. This she does by climbing to the top of the belfry and seizing the striker of the bell, she prevents its sounding, swinging far out from the belfry in accomplishing her purpose. This is one of the strongest dramatic climaxes, that has been attempted in this class of drama. It was the first presentation of the play in this city and the eagerness of the public to see it was shown by the immense audience and the many who were turned away because they could not secure scats. The company is not a great one, but has the merit of being even and very satisfactory, Two members of it stood out prominently. Alma Kruger, who essayed the roll of Maryland Calvert, and Anna Vislaire, who was Nanny McNair.

The Byrne Brothers.

Those clever pantomimists, Byrne brothers, will appear at the Lyceum Friday and Saturday and Satafternoon, presenting their latest success, "Going to the Races." This new acrobatic pantomimic comedy is a strangely interesting play. abounds in all sorts of mechanical devices, some old, some very new, and all bound to attract attention. It is a combination of the Eight Bells, in which the Byrne brothers achieved fame and fortune, with the newest development of stage management. There are lots of rough and tumble business, plenty of new tricks and some very marvellous illusions. People go on and off the stage in the strangest manner possible; they go through doors and windows and disappear up and down ladders in alarming alacrity. People laugh because they have to; why, they don't know. There is tots of fun: laughter is hilarious from the start to the finish.

The Spooners Next Week.

Edua and Cecil Spooner and their excellent supporting company will be the attraction next week at the Academy of Music. This season Manager Spooner has surrounded his two talented daughters with an unusually strong supporting company. A new list of plays have been added to their already large repertoire, and a complete change of bill will be given at each performance. New and up-to-date specialties will be introduced between each act, making the performances continuous. The specialties for Monday evening will include Edna May Spoonr's new illustrated songs, Cecil Spooner, in character dances, new war views by the "Magniscope": Harry G, Bates, comedian and monologue artist. The Scranton Traction 6% bonds... 105 opening bill will be "A Fair Rebel." Ladies' tickets 15 cents for Monday night. Seats now on sale.

Another Midnight Show at Gaiety. Manager Van Osten has been besiegd with requests to give another midnight performance Tuesday, Nov. 22, and announce the returns from the Corbett-Sharky contest which occurs at the Lennox lyceum, New York, Consequently arrangements have been made to have a wire direct from the arena at the Lennox club to the stage of the Galety theater and when these famous boxers face each other a Western Union telegraph operator will announce the contest as they are decided by rounds

WILLIAMS THE GREAT TENOR.

Is to Sing at the Next Symphony Orchestra.

The announcement that Evan Williams, the great pener singer, will appear in the first Symphony orchestraconcert Monday evening, Nov. 28, lars inspired quite a number of singers in this city to send to the director of the orchestra special requests that Mr. Williams sing certain great arias,

It is not known at present what arias cill be chosen but the public can rest assured that compositions of the hairraising variety will be chosen, and will be sung in a manner in which this great artist can alone sing them. For a number of years at different times efforts have been made to get Mr. Williams to appear in this city and these efforts have been at last successful. An overflowing house is promised, as a fitting reception, both to this great singer and to our spiendid Symphony orchestra, which num-
