Special to the Scranton Tribune.

Susquehanna, Nov. 22.-In April, 1865, Aaron Wright, of Brookdale, came home from the war, through which he had served in a New Jersey regiment. | years' sentence. He left his knapsack, haversack and canteen at the house of a friend and went to California. The friend hung soldier's hat on a peg in the garret. Wright did not return, and the articles were forgotten. One day last week Wright arrived at the friend's home and inquired for the accourrements. They were found hanging in the garret. A package of ground coffee and one of brown sugar were in the haversack as the field. The canteen contained a small quantity of whisky. It was thick and muddy, but had the aroma of the 'old stuff.' A soldier's portfolio and writing paper and envelopes with the patriotic embellishments in vogue during the years of the war, pens and ink bottles were in the knapsack. When Wright gazed upon these long forgotten companions of his years of hardships and dangers on the battlefield he burst into tears and kissed them over and over again. He had them tenderly packed just as he received them, which was just as they had come from the field, and took them to his home in Califor-

MEDICINES IN NAME ONLY. Their chief value lies in their alcoholic effect as a stimulant. In fact, those who know, attribute the benefits as-scribed to this class of medicines wholly to the stimulative effect of the alcohol they contain. They are used largely by persons not in the habit of drinking liquors, and the little dose taken three or four times a day is as stimulating to these people as his regular "finger" of "bitters" is to the

WHAT CAN BE DONE? What ought to be done at least is to compel every patent-medicine manufacturer to put on the wrapper of his bottle the quantity of alcohol it contains. That would at least leave people to exercise their own judgments. More than that, no paper truly interested in temperance reform should print the advertisement of any alcoholic medicine. It should be the duty of every temperance organization and branch in the country to look into this question, agitate it, and deal with the facts just as earnestly and as honestly as other facts have been dealt

The Leading Temperance Paper, Sounds the Call to a New Crusade in the Following Article.

"Another Head on the Hydra."

"It is time attention was drawn to a form of alcoholic traffic that seems to have been overlooked by those empaged in the crusade against the rum power. If, as is believed and taught, alcohol is most dangerous when it fights in ambush, if it is most deraded when it finds its irist entrance to the system in the pleasant saucas and dishes of the home, then the form of alcoholic traffic in question is doubly dangerous, for it comes in the guise of anedicine and attacks a system prepared by weakness to carily surrender to the assault. In many
