CITY NOTES

READING TODAY—The reading by Mrs. Staples will be held at the home of Mrs. Thomas Dickson this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

CRIMINALS' CARE—Coroner Longstreet will today investigate the death of the Hungarian who was killed by a Delaware and Hudson train at Olyphant Wednesday morning.

INFORMAL RECEPTION—The Catholic Historical and Newman League club will give an informal reception at its rooms in the Guernsey building, 216 Washington avenue, next Tuesday evening from 8 to 10 o'clock. Bauer's orchestra will furnish music.

LARCENY BY RAIL—On a warrant charging him with larceny by rail, John Risks was arrested and locked in the Center street police station last night. The warrant was issued Wednesday by Alderman Millett, of the Sixth ward, at the instance of Wadsl Mascock.

DRILLING CONTEST—The drilling contest yesterday at Winship's hotel, through in which Patrolmen Perry and Duggan, of the Scranton police department, competed, was won by Nichols and Johns, a pair of experts who have not been beaten in their recent contests. The match was a sweetstake, $20 a pair.

SYMPHONY CONCERT—The appearance in Scranton on Monday evening next in the symphony orchestra, conducted by Evan Williams, the renowned young Welsh tenor, is an event that has aroused deep interest among the lovers of music in Scranton. The orchestra numbers fifty-two performers, and the beautiful orchestral works by Mendelssohn, Schubert and Grieg will prove to be a decided treat. In connection with the great soloist of the evening, there is every indication of a rousing house to greet the symphony boys and girls, and the great singer in next Monday evening's concert.

ARCHBOLD VS. CARBONDALE.
Lively Game at Alumni Park, Mayfield, Yesterday.

Yesterday afternoon at Alumni Park, Mayfield, the Carbondale and Archbald High school eleven met on the gridiron and the latter won by the score of 5-0. Owing to the inclemency of the weather, only a small crowd assembled. From the beginning of the game the Archbald was superior in every respect. Giles, captain of the Carbondale eleven, who was not playing, owing to an injury received in practice, acted as referee.

Vail, Stocker and McDonald did brilliant work for Archbald, especially the former, whose work at left half-back was magnificent. The touchdown was made by McDonald. From present indications Archbald High school will have a strong team on the gridiron next year.

UNION SERVICES IN THE CHURCHES

TWO WERE HELD IN CENTRAL PART OF THE CITY.

Congregations of the First and Second Presbyterian Churches worshipped at the latter and the congregations of the Penn Avenue Baptist and Elm Park Churches joined in a service in the Penn Avenue Church—Two Interesting and Thoughtful Sermons.

Two union Thanksgiving services were held in the central city yesterday morning.

At the Second Presbyterian church the congregations of the First and Second churches worshipped, and in the Penn Avenue Baptist church the congregation of that church and of the Elm Park church returned thanks. Rev. C. E. Robinson, D. D., delivered the sermon in the Second Presbyterian church and Rev. Robert F. Y. Pierce spoke in the Penn Avenue church. Both services attracted large congregations.

The union services at the Second Presbyterian church were particularly delightful. A beautiful programme of music was conducted by Mr. J. M. Chace, Rev. Dr. Robinson gave the sermon, a fine effort that held the attention of the large congregation. The text was from I Chron., xiv:13, "Let men say among the nations, the Lord Reigneth."

In beginning he spoke of the difference in conditions between this Thanksgiving and one year ago; the change in the map of the world and the possibilities confronting us. The Turkish atrocities were recalled and the incident connected with the indifference of Christian Europe were noted. He then graphically portrayed the conditions in Cuba for many years down to the tragedy of the Maine and contrasted the action of America with that of Europe with regard to Turkey.

WE WERE INNOCENT.

He recalled the statement of Colonel Woodford, late minister to Spain, to the effect that had not the Maine been blown up and had not the letter of De Lome been discovered he believed that the Spanish flag would have left Cuba before the summer of 1898 without war, but he is the last man to hold this government responsible for those two facts. The American people were absolutely innocent of these two precedents directing factors.

Colonel W. W. Foster, however, declares that the war could not have been averted. That speaker believed that the entire movement was taken out of the hands of man by an overruling Providence. Spain has no moral rights to any of these colonies from Porto Rico to the Philippines, and has never realized the real responsibilities and solemn obligations of government. The voices of the Inquisition underneath the altar of God and of the Indian race betrayed and roared underfoot crying "Lord, how long!" have had their answer this summer in the destruction of the Spanish fleet.

May Spain so learn her lessons. Should she do so she might move out into the future, nobler, grander future than she has dreamed of in the past. War is at times infinitely grander than peace bought by indifference to wrongs and sufferings of others. The Christian powers of Europe would have received the plants of humanity had they taken up the cause of Armenia. The unselfish sacrifice of America for the triumph of right is a remarkable object lesson.

OUR GREAT MISSION.

New God has moved us out from our old position as about any will of our own to take our place as a mighty Christian nation, alongside that other great Christian nation, Great Britain, that we may help to control from the standpoint of Christian civilization the world's movements; and set free the ignorant and oppressed races, giving them opportunities of a Christian civilization.

At this point a picture of the world awaiting America's uplifting was eloquently given, and a brilliant refutation of the selfishness of those who cry "Imperialism" was offered.

One of the great lessons of the year is that Bible-loving and God-fearing nations are to dominate. England and America can hold the balance of power, so that the two great war lords, one from his muscovite fastness and the other from the Mount of Olives, as in his visit to Palestine he lays the cornerstone of the German church, may well take their stand for the peace of the world. England was handicapped three years ago by the attitude of indifference to our powers, but today a single telegraphic message that Sampson and the admiral of the British navy were coating the Phosphorus would put out any projected fires and sheathe any unloosened Turkish sword for Armenia. The concluding portion of the sermon was a tribute to the union and patriotism of this people and praise to God that he has called out such a spirit of magnanimity to our nation's foes.

However honest the czar may be in his remarkable proclamation, it takes but ordinary vision to see he has been greatly helped to that stand by the lifting up of America as one of the great powers, shining only for humanity and ready to stand with England against tyranny anywhere.

"Then," said the speaker impressively, "I believe henceforth there will be no more Armenian atrocities."

IN PENN AVENUE CHURCH.

The union services of the Elm Park and Penn Avenue Baptist congregations were held in the church of the latter yesterday morning. The edifice was decorated with flags. An elaborate musical programme was provided under the direction of Professor Hayden Evans. On the platform were the pastor, Rev. Robert F. Y. Pierce; Rev. Charles M. Giffin, of Elm Park; Rev. Mr. Harris, of Taylor, and Rev. Dr. Dunn, of Michigan. Dr. Giffin offered prayer.

Rev. Dr. Pierce delivered the sermon of the morning, prefacing his remarks by a tribute to the president's Thanksgiving proclamation, which he considered a model in spirit and diction, and which should be preserved. The theme was from Psalms, 33:12, "Blessed is that nation whose God is the Lord." The address was a marvel of impassioned eloquence.

After speaking of the ways in which this nation gave proof of the peculiar thought and care of God, Mr. Pierce referred to the blessings for which the profound gratitude of the American people must be uttered today. Among these the blessing of prosperity, "The blessing of peace we now celebrate. Some say we celebrate too soon,

RESERVED FOR LIBERTY.

God reserved America for Liberty. There is no advancement in civilization until civil liberty is secured. Here we behold the new idea in the new world. It was not a free government because the people could not do it. They never thought of it as such, but only as free for their own little sect and under their own tyranny, but it is in spite of this that America is free. They fled from the intolerance of home. The Episcopalians fled to the south and Virginia were a land of milk and honey for the Episcopalists. The Puritans to Massachusetts, where the dominant spirit of England made it new England. The Roman Catholics to Maryland, the Quakers to Pennsylvania, but the individual states were preserved and the religions were as bitterly opposed to one another as they were across the sea. It was easier to adjust commercial than religious differences. They settled every other question, but that there would have been no United States without this toleration.

The speaker then gave a brilliant portrayal of the scenes of July 4, 1776, at the old state house, when the world hushed its heart to hear what the next step of the marvelous new nation would be. It was motley people that came together, but they laid the foundation of good morals, good society, good education and good government. America was but six years old when her first university arose. She has been so busy ever since in the work of education that when the face of war arose she was unprepared. She had spent millions for religion and schools, but little for defense. But her protection was in the education of the people.

A GREAT WORK.

In two months she built a navy and marshaled a host of 20,000 citizen soldiers for her honor. They were scorned by her neighbors, they laughed, they don't laugh today. Spain called us pigs and in their pictured representations of Americans and America a pig's face always appeared. The Indians, the Texas, and our other war vessels were portrayed with a pig's snout at their bows. That has never appeared on the American gunboat since the war.

The great power of America lay in her education. America's education serves well in every emergency. Mr. Pierce then spoke of the evils of rum and of Sabbath desecration which threaten our nation; and of the great significance of our flag, which he believes will yet contain in the field of blue a globe with a single star—the star of Bethlehem.

He concluded with an allusion to our responsibilities and stated that while it is years ago we urged John Bull to aid Armenia; now if Armenia shall call for aid America will march to her help at a week's notice.

WEST SIDE UNION SERVICES.

Held in the Simpson Methodist Episcopal Church.

Members of the congregations of the Methodist, English Baptist and Presbyterian churches on the West side attended the union services which were held yesterday morning in the Simpson Methodist Episcopal church at 10:30 o'clock. The auditorium was comfortably filled and the pulpit was but this is not true. The nations of the world have heard the guns from our floating forts and will never dare to strike at America. It is not to celebrate peace for it has dawned and we also celebrate the blessing of power among our joys. We may rejoice in the blessing of national piety above those of plenty, prosperity and peace. Never a nation had so much piety and righteousness woven into its life as America.

FIETY OF THE PRESIDENT.

Communt was here made on the piety of the president of the United States and a spirited word picture of Commodore Phillips and his recognition of the hand of the Almighty God in protecting our vessels was given.

The keynote of our nation is "Liberty." In this nation, greatly differed, unto the Hebrews it was their religion. The Greeks held culture above everything, the Romans, dominions, and Europe her military power. America boasts of her freedom. It is the proudest, fairest land the sun ever shone upon. It lay hidden during the centuries and while all the devices and systems of progress in the old world failed, God reserved the era of enlightenment for America, for His experiment of a liberal liberty. The emancipation proclamation has been so written and shaded by a cunning hand that from its pages stands out the face of Lincoln. The nation's history has been so written that its key word is liberty. But, while America may be the cradle of liberty it is not the birthplace. That was away back on Calvary where Christ opened his heart, from which flowed the life that encarnated the world.

Civil liberty is but the reflection of religious liberty. This began to dawn near the opening of the sixteenth century, when Raphael revealed his inspiration by his brush and Michael Angelo released angels from stones; when Wickliffe walked amid Bibles chained to the pulpit and with a thunderous blow broke the shackles that liberated the Bible; when Martin Luther's conscience brought him to realize the truth that made men free and nailing up his thesis struck the cords that liberated conscience; when Columbus walking the seas of discovery created a continent on the map of the world and released it from the confines of the ocean.

RESERVED FOR LIBERTY.

God reserved America for Liberty. There is no advancement in civilization until civil liberty is secured. Here we behold the new idea in the new world. It was not a free government because the people could not do it. They never thought of it as such, but only as free for their own little sect and under their own tyranny, but it is in spite of this that America is free. They fled from the intolerance of home. The Roman Catholics to Maryland, the Quakers to Pennsylvania, but the individual states were preserved and the religions were as bitterly opposed to one another as they were across the sea. It was easier to adjust commercial than religious differences. They settled every other question, but that there would have been no United States without this toleration.

She has been so busy ever since in the work of education that when the face of war arose she was unprepared. She had spent millions for religion and schools, but little for defense. But her protection was in the education of the people.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

A large audience attended and a great deal more interesting session was held in the afternoon. Chairman Dr. J. J. Lewis made the introductory speech, which was followed by a solo by Prof. J. A. Evans and an address by Chairman Vossburg. Prof. Griffith Davis, tenor soloist of the Welsh Singers, who appear in the Providence arena tonight, was present. His magnificent singing was one of the treats of the afternoon. Poems by the lords were again recited.

Two competition numbers were omitted, there being no contestants. These were the soprano solo, "Let the Bright Seraphim," and the other an elementary number, "Tough Riders." The prizes were to have been $4 and $10 respectively.

Mrs. D. D. Lewis sang in her usual pleasing way, after which the competition session on the "American Flag" was captured by James Watkins, of Taylor.

Great interest was manifested in the next number, the main feature of the session, the competition on "What is beautiful" (J. J. Phoenix), for many a partisan. The prize was $5. Two glee

THE CHIEF PRIZE.

The Providence choir of sixty voices, under the direction of Professor Griffith Davis, carried off the chief prize of the contest at the evening session. The only competitors were a choir from Olyphant and the Providence choir. Enthusiasm ran high among the local contingent when the decision of Adjudicator J. Alfred Pennington was given. The prize was $100. The competitive piece was a glee, "When Winds Breathe Soft."

The evening session was the most interesting of the three. The conductor, Hon. H. M. Edwards, opened the session with a brief address. Prof. Joshua John rendered a solo in his usual pleasing way, after which E. E. Robathan, chairman, delivered an address. The barbs, several in number, recited some of their compositions.

J. M. Francis, of Taylor, captured the prize of $4 in the competition on "Spartacus" Address to the Gladiators." His song was fine and he gave a very finished interpretation of the sentiment of the piece. There were no contestants entered on the tenor solo and duet numbers. R. Llew Herbert rendered a solo.

For an essay, "The Morality of Our Country," an award was made to Richard Williams, of Kingston. David Jenkins, of the West Side, was the only one entering in the bass solo competition, "Cambrian War Song," and he was consequently given the prize. For an impromptu speech J. E. Watkins, of Taylor, was victorious.

The announcement of the main feature, the rendition of "When Soft Winds Blow," set the audience on edge and eager.

THE FIRST TO SING.

The Providence choir was first to sing. Prof. Griffith Davis was the director. Then Prof. Watkins of Olyphant, and his choir sang the piece. Both sang splendidly. Prof. Pennington awarded the prize to the Providence choir. His announcement was drowned in applause.

During the wait for the judge's announcement, Llew Herbert sang.

THREE PERSONS INJURED.

Icy Condition of Pavements Responsible for the Accidents.

Common Councilman Edward Coleman, of the Sixth ward, fell on a slippery sidewalk on Wyoming avenue on his way home from the theatre last night and badly sprained his left knee. He was attended by Dr. J. J. McCreath in Loftus & Motley's drug store and later taken to his home in a cab.

Mrs. Harriet L. Bailey, a dressmaker of 302 North Bromley avenue, fell on Scranton street just as she was entering the Scranton Street Baptist church yard about 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The sidewalk was very slippery, made so by the children using it for coasting. She had a large market basket in her hand and as a result of the fall her right wrist was dislocated and probably fractured. Dr. Beedoe treated the injury.

Joseph Bonner, 58 years old, of Petersburg, fractured his leg in a fall on an icy sidewalk on Beech street, South

EISTEDDFOD IN THE PROVIDENCE ARMORY

CONDUCTED BY THE SCHUBERT GLEE CLUB.

The Festival Comprised Three Sessions—The Affair Was a Musical and Literary Success and Was Productive of a Goodly Sum of Money for the Club—Providence Choir Captured the Big Event of the Eisteddfod—Olyphant the Only Other Competitor for the Honor.

The big eisteddfod auspiciously conducted by the Schubert Glee club, of North Scranton, in Company H armory yesterday was a grand success, both financially and musically. The affair attracted quite a great deal of interest among the city's sons and daughters of old Gwalla, who were present in large numbers.

The singing was excellent, the competition bringing forth contestants of established local records. The literary numbers were also good.

Three sessions were held in the armory. In the morning at ten o'clock, the afternoon at 2 o'clock and the evening at 7 o'clock. The presiding officials of the session were J. R. Watkins, conductor; and D. E. Lewis, chairman for the morning session. Attorney A. A. Vossburg was chairman and D. E. Lewis conductor of the afternoon session. Hon. H. M. Edwards was conductor and E. E. Robathan chairman of the evening session. Adjudicators, music, J. Alfred Pennington; literature, J. H. Powell and W. H. Myers; accompanist, Miss Lizzie Owens, officers of committee: President, J. B. Owens; vice-president, D. H. Boone; recording secretary, W. J. Owens; financial secretary, L. S. Jones; corresponding secretary, J. J. Evans; treasurer, Wade M. Finn.

AN INTERESTING GATHERING.

The session brought together many of the old musical lovers and critics in the two counties. This was especially true of the evening gathering, which tested the capacity of the armory.

At the morning session Conductor T. R. Watkins made the introductory speech. A solo by Llew Herbert was intensely enjoyed and after it D. E. Lewis, chairman, made an address. Several barbs rendered a number of pieces.

In the competition contra solo "But the Lord is Mindful of His Own" (St. Paul), for which a prize of $4 was offered, two young ladies competed, Miss Sarah Davis, of the North End, and Miss Margaret Evans, of Olyphant. Both sang beautifully and from the adjudicators' point of view Miss Davis was awarded the prize.

There were no competitors on the adjudication epigram "Dewey." Miss Maggie Davis sang with pleasing effect.

A North Scranton competitor, William T. Davis, a member of the Glee club, carried off the honors for the best rendition of the tenor solo, "Total Eclipse" (Simmons) from a field of eight competitors. The prize was $2. Rev. T. R. Watkins was successful in the only literary number on composition for "Stanzas in Memory of Winfred Morris." The prize was $2, donated by Matthew Morris.

Such surprise was occasioned when the competition for a quartette of mixed voices on "O Lord, Not Thy Face," the main feature of the morning session, for which a prize of $8 was offered, was announced and no contestants were present. This closed the morning session.

clubs entered the contest. Professor John T. Evans wielded the baton for the Providence Glee club, and Professor W. T. Evans, led the Ambrose Glee party of Olyphant. They both sang the piece with dash and sympathy, but the best harmony was by the Providence party and J. Alfred Pennington, after a brief criticism, so awarded the prize. The decision was enthusiastically received and the cheering lasted many minutes. Llew Herbert then sang a bass solo. Griffith Davis, of the Welsh Prize singers, sang Wales' national air, the audience joining in the chorus.

THE CHIEF PRIZE.

The Providence choir of sixty voices, under the direction of Professor Griffith Davis, carried off the chief prize of the contest at the evening session. The only competitors were a choir from Olyphant and the Providence choir. Enthusiasm ran high among the local contingent when the decision of Adjudicator J. Alfred Pennington was given. The prize was $100. The competitive piece was a glee, "When Winds Breathe Soft."

The evening session was the most interesting of the three. The conductor, Hon. H. M. Edwards, opened the session with a brief address. Prof. Joshua John rendered a solo in his usual pleasing way, after which E. E. Robathan, chairman, delivered an address. The barbs, several in number, recited some of their compositions.

The Providence choir was first to sing. Prof. Griffith Davis was the director. Then Prof. Watkins of Olyphant, and his choir sang the piece. Both sang splendidly. Prof. Pennington awarded the prize to the Providence choir. His announcement was drowned in applause.

During the wait for the judge's announcement, Llew Herbert sang.

DAGEN FARM RESERVOIR.
It Will Be Allowed to Fill Within a Few Days.

Within a week the gates of the immense new Dagen farm reservoir of the Scranton Gas and Water company will be closed and the water allowed to accumulate there. The reservoir is now ready to be filled, barring the unfinished roadway along the top of the dam and the absence of some gratings or screens. This work will be done within the next few days.

The reservoir is one of the largest water supply basins in the state. When filled it would alone be sufficient to furnish all the water needed in the city.

More Equipment for Baltimore and Ohio.

The improvements that have been made on the Baltimore and Ohio road during the past two years have rendered it possible to operate cars of a heavier capacity than have been in use in the past and the receivers have just ordered from the Schoen Pressed Steel company of Pittsburgh, 1,000 steel cars of a capacity of 100,000 pounds each. These cars will be used for the seaboard trade and are expected to be in service during the early part of 1899.

In addition to these cars, the receivers have also ordered from the Pittsburgh Locomotive works 50 more of the consolidated locomotives with 28 inch cylinders.
