PLYMOUTH CHURCH WILL CALL A PASTOR.

Meeting Held Last Night-Church Officers Were Chosen - Adjournment Was Taken Until Jan. 9, 1899. When the Board of Deacons Pastors Deposits at the Schools Organizations-Personal Jottings.

The members of the congregation of the Plymouth Congregational church met in annual session last evening in the church assembly room and elected a part of the church officials, tenying the board of trustees to be selected at the adjourned meeting on January 9, 1899. A. B. Eynon meted as moderator of the session. Miss Elizabeth A. Evans, as clerk. The nemicating committee then reported the fellowing as the church officials for the ensuing term: Deacons, E. E. Evans, A. B. Evnon, Richard Owens and W. James. clerk, Howell Harris: tinancial clerk, A. B. Eynon on music committee (three year term), A. G. Lewis: standing committee, J. R. Richards, Thomas Roberts and S. B. Powell, wave and means committee, M. W. Anderson, J. Phillips, Mrs. M. Joseph, John E. Richards and Thomas E. Evans: anditors, Thomas Roberts and Daniel Reese. All were elected as reported. Following this election a general discussion of the advisability of cathing a pastor ensued. The congregation have now been without regular pastoral ministrations ever since July, 1897; when the resignation of Rev. Bell, was nocepted. The feeling is general that a paster snould be secured.

At the meeting on Jan. 9, 1899, a board of trustees will be elected, reports of the several committees, etc. be made, and the poard of deacons will report a list of eligible pastors to the session. From this a paster will be

LAWRENCE WAS WELL ARMED. Evidently on a Hunt for Someone He Did Not Find. A very much loaded man who was apparently on an errand of serious mischief was arrested early verterday af-ternoon and locked in the Center street station. When taken into custody he was fortified with a loaded revolver. a stone a large quantity of loose cartridges, a pint of whiskey and a thoroughly inebriated state of mind. The prisoner describes himself as George Lawrence, 3e years old, section hand, married, of Nicholson. He was arrested while prowling about the yard at the North steel mill by Special Officer Hightman. Lawrence was well dressed for working man. The revolver was of good make and pearl handled and each of its five 38-callbre chambers was loaded. It was evidently new, as it bore a price mark tag. The weapon was in his overcoat pocket and he had his hand on it when arrested.

In a hip pocket was just the kind of a stone for doing great damage. was nearly an inch thick and had a surface about two inches square. In another pocket were several dozen of new loose cartridges.

Lawrence was too drunk when arrested to give an intelligent account of himself. During the evening he became sober but could not give any plausible explanation for being so heavily armed nor for his presence about the mill. The police incline to the belief that Lawrence "had it in" for someone at the mill and was on a hunt for his intended victim when ar-
