AT THE ORAL SCHOOL.

Christmas Exercises Conducted There Last Night for the Children. Some of the Features

There may have been noisier youngters dancing about a Christmas tree and there may have been those who could more swiftly express their delight, but surely never were there happier ones than the children at the Pennsylvania Oral School for the Deaf last evening at their great holiday fete. ···· The beautiful building in their pictursque surroundings have an appearance not un-English in effect and on this occasion the gleaming windows with their quaint tracery, the flashing lights and the general good cheer made up a scene at least different from the ordinary

Among those who witnessed the celebration were: Henry Belin, ir., Hon. Alfred Hand, C. H. Welles, Miss Belin, Marold Welles, besides many parents and friends of the pupils. These, eighty in number, were assembled in the girls' sitting room where they sat in eager expectation, and no words can describe their utter delight when through the window came a veritable Santa Claus with red fur trimmed costume and bags of gifts.

The shining eager faces of the little people as he took their hands in a hearty clasp on his rounds made a picture long to be remembered. The gentle principal and the teachers with the matron and assistant, Mrs. Treadway and Miss Gabriel, were aides to Santa Claus in despoiling the tree, and it was truly a marvelous sight. CONTROLLERS HAVE A WARM DISCUSSION

SLIDES FOR A STEREOPTICON WERE THE CAUSE.

Councilman B. T. Jayne Thought the Regular Way, and Wanted the Supply Committee to Make Some Inquiries - President François Said the Opposition Was Due to Jealousy-Some of the Other Matters Acted Upon by the Board.

"That the slides used at No. 27 school be paid for," was a paragraph contained in the report of the teachers' committee, presented at last night's provoked one of the warmest arguments heard for several meetings. President A. L. Francois, of the Second ward, in which No. 27 school is located, and B. T. Jayne, the member from the Thirteenth, were the principals in the discussion.

It seems that there is an audience room in No. 27 school and the princi-pal, Prof. J. B. Hawker, has a stereopticon and gives exhibitions for the benefit of the children and to illustrate lectures of various kinds. About three years ago Prof. Hawker secured slides for this lantern to the value of $175, and last night the teachers' committee recommended that they be paid for.

Mr. Jayne objected and asked that the bill be referred to the supply committee for consideration. President Francois had a nice bright fire burning in his eyes when he relinquished the chair to O. B. Schriefer, and when he got on the floor it was plain that he had a full head of steam on. He started out by saying the opposition to the bill on the part of Mr. Jayne was due to jealousy between Prof. Hawker. of No. 27, and Prof. H. L. Burdick, of No. 28, which is in Mr. Jayne's ward. After reading a letter from the firm that furnished the slides, Mr. François

SOME HARSH WORDS.

"Mr. Jayne was elected as a reformer and he is a good reformer when it does not affect him. When it does, he believes in spending all the money he can

Mr. Jayne said he would not answer the personal attack upon him, but would confine his remarks to a state ment of his position. He acted on prin tiple, and because he had no knowl edge that the slides had been ordered in the proper manner and were neces sary in the school work, he wanted to have a committee inquire into the matter. He thought that was reasonable and businesslike. Since he has been a member of the board he has never acted differently with reference to any matter. If there is any jealousy between Professors Hawker and Burdick, he knows nothing of it. Professor Burdick never mentioned the matter of the slides to him. There is a regular way of ordering supplies and everything ought to be done in that way.

He then referred to a roll-top resk he understood had found its way into No. 27 in an irregular manner. That brought Mr. Francois to his fee again. "What Mr. Jayne said proves the truth of my assertion that jealousy is behind this whole matter. Mr. Jayne makes a mistake in paying tion to the stories that come from Professor Burdick directly or indirectly. I have been charged with keeping a carpenter the year around in No. 27 and am getting tired of these false stories. want the matter settled right here, Our end of the city is kept in constant turmoil by these tales and bickerings."

ORDERED PAID.

After some argument by other members, it was shown that the bill was approved by the supply committee some time ago and then referred to the teach ers' committee to report on the neces sity of the slides. That body's favorable report satisfied the board that the paid. The following were other recommendations of the teachers' committee, and all were approved:

That the teachers' examination in music conducted at the high school Saturday, February 4, at 2 p. m., by Professor Der-

VERY BUSY DAYS THESE.

This Month the Scranton Postoffice Has Transacted More Business Than Ever Before in the Same Length of Time.

The Scranton postoffice this month will have transacted the largest business in its history. It will have handled ceived from stamp sales and registry and money order fees an amount largely in excess than during any given month in any year.

Tomorrow the stamp and general decarriers from 9 more o'clock until noon instead of from 9 to to o'clock, the usual Sunday hour, On Monday the stamp and general that by the use of a large number of substitutes all the mail matter in the office can be delivered. If the delivery force is inadequate, a team of horses and a large delivery wagon with two carriers in charge will be pressed into ervice today and Monday.

Since early in the week there has not seen an idle moment in the postoffice for anyone. From Assistant Postmasbill was all right and it was ordered ter Powell down to the lowest subordinate, a perpetual hustle has been neces sary to keep ahead of the work in hand. During the last few days an extra man has been located at the stamp window and has assisted in the weighing and handling of packages. With this extra help it was with difficulty that Clerks Dubigg and Messett were not awamped by the always-present crowd waiting in line.

Even with the several postal stations utside the central city and where registry and money order business is transacted, the crush is great about all the departments at the main postoffice. What the receipts of the office will approximate for the month cannot be estimated, but at the close of business yesterday the revenue was greater than that for any whole month in any previous year.
