WHO SHALL BE THE NEXT MAYOR?

That will depend very much upon the result of the primary election upon the 14th. If the right man is placed in nomination he will be triumphantly elected.

The undersigned committee, representing many earnest and loyal Republicans, have sought for such a man, and in their opinion he has been found in the person of ex-Sheriff A. B. Stevens, who, at the earnest and persistent solicitation of many of our loyal Republican friends, has consented to stand as the Republican candidate for mayor.

Mr. Stevens is well and favorably known to the older citizens of Scranton, but to the younger voter and to those who have but recently become citizens of our city we feel that it is but just and fair that we give an outline of his career in our midst.

Mr. Stevens is in or out of office, or as an enterprising, successful business man, wherever he has been placed, whether as counselman, marshal, sheriff, coal operator or general business man, has always fully filled the bill. In office he has been bright, efficient, honest, fair and fearless in the performance of every duty. As an employer of labor he has the well deserved reputation of being kind, liberal and generous and fair in his treatment of his employees. No man can truthfully say that he ever wronged him financially or otherwise; that his word is as good as his bond, and the only promise he makes as in that if elected mayor, he will do his duty, and we know that he will keep his word. He is one of the few men who is an entire and sole owner of himself. The crying needs of Scranton at this time is such a man for mayor.

The very sort of kind of a mayor is the man who can be used by others without their taking the responsibility. If the people should elect Mr. Stevens they may rest assured that he will be wholly and entirely his own man from start to finish. Whatever might be done in the mayor's office the taxpayer will know exactly where to place the responsibility and to whom to give the credit. Being as familiar as he is with the growth and needs of the city, and thoroughly acquainted with its history and condition, we know of no man who would be more likely to give us a thoroughly able, economical administration. Being a taxpayer himself and a public-spirited citizen, he would be likely to hold the scales evenly between the class who believe in liberal expenditures for public improvements. The spirit that led Mr. Stevens to enlist in the union army during the civil war has led him to support all loyal and patriotic movements with the same courage and bravery that he displayed in battle, and for which he received honorable mention.

Now, in closing, we would say to the Republican voters, if they will attend the primaries and place Mr. Stevens in nomination, they may rest assured that he will be triumphantly elected, for he would command the support of all loyal Republicans and very many Democrats with whom we have come in contact have declared their intentions to vote for Mr. Stevens if he is a candidate.

SUMMERS CUT SOME TIMBER.

The Lynchs Want to Compel Him to Pay for It.

John Lynch, T. M. Lynch, George Lynch, William Lynch and James Lynch, who own 267 acres of land in Clifton township, this county, began an action yesterday to recover $1,000 damages from George A. Summers who, it is alleged, unlawfully cut timber on the property of the plaintiffs, who are represented by Attorney M. J. Martin.

The plaintiffs allege that the tract of land they owned was valuable for the timber it contained and that its market price has been greatly injured by the timber cut by Summers. Seventy-six stumps were counted by the plaintiffs, showing that trees to that number had been cut. These trees are valued at $5 each. The remainder of the $1,000 is claimed for general damage to the tract.

COLONEL WATRES ON THE NEW GUARD

ELEVENTH REGIMENT WILL REMAIN IN SERVICE.

That is the Opinion of Its Commander—Sort of Uncertainty Engendered by the Governor's Message Does Not Tend to Enthuse or Interest the Men—Colonel Watres Has No Doubt But That Matters Pertaining to the Guard Will Properly Adjust Themselves.

The message of Governor Hastings to the general assembly contained the following referring to the National Guard: "There are now five regiments of Pennsylvania Volunteers remaining in the United States service, the Eighth, Tenth, Thirteenth, Fourteenth and Fifteenth, and these will probably be mustered out at an early day. This will render necessary the disbandment of the new organizations that were recruited and organized to meet a possible emergency. The officers and men composing these commands deserve great credit from the state for the prompt and patriotic manner in which they responded to the call of duty, and it is to be regretted that these splendid organizations cannot be retained in the service."

As this matter interests a large body of young men and their friends in this section of the state, a Tribune man called upon Colonel L. A. Watres, commander of the Eleventh regiment, for his views concerning its effect upon the guard. Colonel Watres said that he had no doubt but that the temporary effect of Governor Hastings' message upon the guard would be unfavorable and depressing.

LUTHER KELLER'S PLAN.

Wants to Run Trolley Cars to the West Side Over the West Linden Street Bridge That Spans D. L. & W. Tracks.

Common Councilman Keller proposes advertising in council the abandonment of the tracks of the Scranton Railway company at the West Lackawanna avenue crossing. He intends first to try to induce the company officials to take the initiative. Failing in that, Mr. Keller will try to bring it about. Keller's plan is to include a viaduct in the movement to abolish the grade crossing, but the plan contemplates a route via Eighth street to West Linden street, and thence west over the railroad tracks via the Sweetland street bridge. Advocates of the change say there is ample track room, and that the company could strengthen the bridge at slight cost.

It is claimed that the absence of the wear and tear now occasioned by bumping over the railroad tracks and the avoiding of delays at the crossing would compensate the company for the trouble and expense involved in making the change. Further, it is argued that the damages, sure to follow loss of life on the crossing some time, will be avoided.

Mr. Keller intends to consult today with General Manager Stillman, of the Scranton Railway company, and ascertain that gentleman's views. If he is not personally opposed to the change, it is probable he will be given opportunity to communicate with the officers of the company and to confer later relative to the required legislation.

There prevails among some city officials a sentiment in favor of an elevated structure for the exclusive use of trolley cars, and the public seem to favor it. Such an elevated structure would be similar to that in Wilkes-Barre where the trolley cars cross high above the Lehigh Valley, Delaware and Hudson and Jersey Central tracks.

While a variety of plans are suggested, the one that the public seem to be united on one point, which is that the West Lackawanna avenue crossing must be abolished, and that speedily. This sentiment has been aroused largely by the miraculous escape from death of the eight passengers aboard the car which was smashed to pieces recently on the carbon street crossing, and by the comments which followed that accident.

Then, too, there has been a very rapid growth and building of homes on the West Side in the past year, and traffic on West Lackawanna avenue has largely increased. This element of residents give their representatives in councils no rest. They are clamoring for the removal of the grade-crossing danger and are increasing, instead of decreasing, their demands for a change.

Persons who have kept in close touch with the situation predict some definite action before the middle of the summer.

RECEIVED AN OVATION.

Speaker Farr's Address in Seconding Senator Quay's Nomination.

The speech of Speaker John R. Farr in seconding the nomination of Senator Quay was one of the features of the senatorial caucus. The Philadelphia Inquirer refers eulogistically to the "splendid ovation" which Mr. Farr's effort received and prints this report of it:

All eyes were now directed to John R. Farr, of Lackawanna, the speaker of the house of representatives, who commanded the attention of the chair. Mr. Farr voted for Senator Quay, and he was the first to rise and cast his vote for Quay. "I did not expect to say a word at this senatorial caucus," began Speaker Farr. "I did expect to support Senator Quay. I was nominated and elected without instructions upon that question. I was desirous to come here and use my judgment as I thought best for the interests of our particular community and for the benefit of the state. Until this morning I had not declared myself upon this question. I have not always agreed with Senator Quay; I have disagreed more than I agree with his injudicious friends; but I do declare that I am now in favor of his re-nomination by the Republicans of Pennsylvania, and that he ought to be re-elected to the senate. I have no doubt that I have been able to study the history and the legislation of this great country, and I have been more potent at Washington. I realize that no other man in public life has been assailed so bitterly and so malignantly as has the senator from Pennsylvania. I remember when he went to New York to direct the campaign which resulted in the election of Benjamin Harrison, and I know how the people of my community felt toward him. They felt that a master hand was at the helm, and that a great work was being done to preserve the industries and to defend the best interests of our great country. I am especially for Senator Quay because to the Republican party we owe the city of Scranton, with its one hundred thousand people; and to the Republican party we owe the county of Luzerne and the county of Lackawanna, the youngest in the state, with its population of two hundred thousand. I know how my friends, that in 1891, when the growth of our country demanded a greater market, Senator Quay promptly introduced into the McKinley tariff bill on the senate calendar, and that to his efforts we owe the city of Scranton, with its one hundred thousand people; and to the Republican party we owe the county of Luzerne and the county of Lackawanna, the youngest in the state, with its population of two hundred thousand.
