of Port Jervis. There was a quiet wedding at St. Luke's church Tuesday afternoon when Miss Mary Williams, of this city, and Frederick Rupp, of Port Jervis, N. Y., were united in marriage by the rector, Rev. Rogers Israel. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Lottle Williams, of Mayfield. W. J. Morgan, of this city, was best man.

The bride was neatly attired in cadet due broadcloth trimmed with lace and braid. The bridesmaid's dress was of green serge, trimmed with lace and velvet. Both made a very attractive appearance. A reception followed at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. W. I. Morgan, of South Rebecca avenue, and later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Rupp left for Port Jervis, while will reside. GREAT ARRAY OF COUNSEL. With the accused sat their attorneys, James Murray, John F. Shen, James L. Morris, M. N. Donnelly, M. H. Mc-Aniff and Thomas D. Shea. District Attorney T. R. Martin looked after the commonwealth's side of the case and with him sat ohn T. Martin, of Scranton, private counsel for "Ike"

The preliminaries with reference to posed of, Coroner McKee gave some unimportant testimony and at 3.50 but did not make any comment. "Ike" Seldman was called to the stand by the district attorney.

There was a great craning of necks to get a view of the new Sherlock Holmes when he went on the stand. His English is not the best, although born in Oswego, N. Y., and his education is evidently very meagre. He had some difficulty in reading the Information he swore to, and failed to comprehend the meaning of such words as "dimensions" and "interior" when they found a place in some of the district attorney's questions.

"Ike" made a distinctly bad impression on the stand. He showed no grasp whatever of the details surrounding the crime. For instance: He swore that he was told that the Monaghan boys went to the yard in the rear of the hotel on the night of the murder bis to pay, nor enemies to punish. and cut a clothesline with which to the their sister and Corcoran. He did not If nominated and elected, I pledge my- attempt to find out if there ever was a clothesline in the yard. are to be believed. In reference to the wrecking of the safe, he said it was forced open with chisels. If an explosive had been used would have been thrown out of bed. possibly with the exception of "Ike," would have made such a statement.

SEIDMAN'S POSITION. When Seidman went on the stand troller. Lieutenant David J. Davis the district attorney asked him to state what his position is. "I look after the mines of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western: stuff stolen from them, etc.," he modestly replied

"Do you look after them as a general superintendent or officer?" questioned Mr. Martin, who likes exact re-"As a special officer," replied the witness. Seidman then proceeded with his story, which, in brief, was as follows: He went to Duryea on the day of the murder and on the following Monday and in the presence of John Keator, questioned Mary Monaghan. She told him of the manner in which she was awakened, how she came down stairs, was bound and tied to the bed on which Corcoran's body lay. She told him they took everything there was in the safe, took Corcoran's watch and removed his diamond ring from his finger.

Ten days later he met Mary Monaghan at the Duryea station. She said she was going to Scranton to avoid meeting Detective Johnson and Sergeant Kline, of Wilkes-Barre. She sent word to them that she was sick, but they insisted on coming, so she decided to go to Scranton. He inquired her reason for doing so and, atthough it was their second meeting and she knew he was an officer, she told him that she was afraid she might say something that would convict her and her brothers. Seidman then described visits he paid to her at the house of friends in West Scranton with the Wilkes-Barre officers, and finally of inducing her to go to Wilkes-Barre to identify prisoners who he said were under arrest

SHE IDENTIFIED ONE. At Wilkes-Barre she was confronted by four men who were said to be under arrest and she identified one of them as being in Corcoran's on the night of the killing. The men were not under arrest and the whole matter was merely a test. Seidman told Miss Monaghan that the district attorney had requested her presence in Wilkes-Barre, but he admitted on the stand today that he told her a lie. The district attorney made no such request. After the identification, Seldman took Miss Monaghan to the district attorney's office for a conference with Mr. Martin. He did not see her again until this afternoon. One week ago last Saturday he was walking on the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western track south of the Duryea station and met "Di" Williams. They were not acquainted, though each knew who the other was. They had never exchanged words of any kind. Williams addressed a remark to him and he stopped and they began to to refund the money on a 50-cont bottle of Greene's Warranted Syrup of Tar it it fails to cure your cough or coid. in a general way. Williams was not entirely mober. After a little judicious leading up to the subject, Williams told him that on the night of the murder he met John and Tom Monaghan, Clark and Langan outside of Corcoran's hotel. Tom said Corcoran had a fit and invited him to go in with them. He agreed and they went around to the rear of the house, Mary admitting them. When inside, they took off their shoes and when Williams inquired why this was done they said they did not want to awaken Corcoran. Then they proceeded to the room where the killing was done

THE FATAL SHOT.

When they entered the room Corcoran was lying on the bed and Tom put his hand to his hip pocket and Mary said: "For God sake, Tom, don't shoot Their mother was with them. Nellie saw Thomas Monaghan and Michael McGrath in the hotel on the night of the murder, but Corcoran was ncross the road in the postoffice at the She heard Mary Monaghan say that the burglars had taken Corcoran's 'diamond ring and everything.' Squire J. R. Gilboy, of Duryea, testified that he was at Corcoran's soon af-ter the killing and found Mary Monaghan in such an excited and overwrought condition that he had to send for her relatives to take care of her. Tom looked as if they just got out of bed. John was somewhat intoxicated. Three persons told him they saw the diamond ring on Coreocan's finger after death. On the day after the funeral Mary Monaghan gave him the ring. She said that when her brother Tom. came to the hotel in response to the Squire's summons, she told him to take the ring off the dead man's finger. He did so and gave it to her. She placed it in her stocking and forgot about it until after the funeral for the reason that she did not take her stockings off. Miss Corcoran was then called. Her testimony is given above After the hearing Williams told me that there was not the slightest foundation for the confession testified by Seidman. He denied that he ever had any such conversation with him, or ever made statements in any way resembling those that Seidman swore to when on the stand. Williams was taken to jail with the other defendants. District Attorney Martin would not say anything about the character of the evidence he hopes to present tomorrow night. His manner was that of a man not at all satisfied with the

MISS MONAGHAN CONFESSES.

Says She and One Brother Were Present When Corcoran Was Killed.

Last evening's Wilkes-Barre Leader says: "Mary Monaghan, accused with her brothers, John and Thomas, of the murder of Mike Coreoran, at Duryea has confessed that she and one of her brothers were present when Mike Corcoran was killed, so it is said on reliable authority.

This confession was a verbal one was totally unsolicited and was made at the jail yesterday to a county official whose name is not made known for certain reasons.

The official saw her at the fail and in a talk with her learned her dreadful 25 for 25 Cents. secret. "She confessed that she knew more of the murder than she had told, and then, after further talk, she said that one of her brothers and she herself were present when Mike Corcoran was killed.

"This was all she would say. She would not tell which brother. "John, however, has a pretty clear alibi. He can doubtless prove that he was helplessly drunk at the time the murder was committed."

SEIDMAN ARRESTED.

He Is Accused of Perjury by One of the Prisoners. Special Officer Seldman was arrested resterday in Wilkes-Barre on a charge of perjury, preferred by "DI" Williams, who, Seidman alleged on the stand confessed to a part in the Corcorat murder. The warrant was issued by Alderman Pollock. Bail for Seidman's appearance at a hearing was furnished by his attorney, A. S. Salsberg.

FIRE DEPARTMENT ESTIMATE MADE

FOR MAINTENANCE DURING THE COMING FISCAL YEAR.

Chief Hickey, Fire Engineers and in the programme. Members of Joint Fire Department Committee Estimate That $42,724 Will Be Necessary for the Year 1899-This Amount Is Only $965 More Than Was Required for the Current Year-It Is Within Reason and Will Save Much Labor.

The estimated expenditures of the fire department for the fiscal year 1899 compiled last night by Chief Hickey, assisted by the board of fire engineers and members of the joint fire department committee of councils, The total amount estimated was $42,-724.36, or but $964.94 more than the $41,-759.42 appropriated for the current year which ends early in April.

It was decided to ask for an increase of the clerk hire item from $390 to $600. For salaries of permanent men the following changes will appear: Aug company, $1,440 to $2,060; Hook and Ladder company, $1,440 to $2,040; General Phinney company, $1,329 to $1, 440: Relief company, $1,440 to $2,040. and Columbia company, $1,330 to $2. 070. An increase is to be made in the item for salaries of permanent men of Phoenix company, now $2,160, but the change cannot be made until proper action providing for the new appoint ment is taken by conneils.

heat item will increase from $1,100 t

For maintenance of fire alarm boxes $2,334,36 will be asked. The present cost is $2,250.99, but the increase is lmnstalled. The item for rent of engine houses will show an increase of $400 figure for the remodelled Crystal quar-

Three items to be decreased are: Purchase of hose, $2,065.06 to $1,000 keeping 39 horses at $140 each, or $5. 460, to keeping 45 horses at $120 each, or $5,200; hose repairs, $100 to $50.

Seven 1898 items ranging from $27.79 to $775 are entirely eliminated. It was expected by the members of the joint estimates committee that would have to do some laborious and troublesome figuring on the fire, police and street departments, but the esult of last night's work by Chief Hickey and those engaged with him indicates otherwise as far as the fire department is concerned.
