

JILTED, SHE SUES FOR MONEY BALM

DR. M'KENZIE, OF TAYLOR, IS THE DEFENDANT.

Miss Tillie Wagner, of Philadelphia, Alleges That He Promised to Marry Her but Did Not Make Good His Word, and Now She Wants Damages in the Sum of $15,000 to Compensate Her for the Injury She Sustained by Reason of the Doctor's Conduct.

Dr. Robert H. M. McKenzie, who is now practicing medicine at Taylor, has been sued for $15,000 for breach of promise by Miss Tillie Wagner, who resides at 1927 Marshall street, Philadelphia.

Dr. McKenzie was for several years a student in the University of Pennsylvania and was one of the university's renowned foot ball players. The Philadelphia Bulletin of Saturday had the following concerning the suit:

Dr. McKenzie paid his college expenses with Miss Wagner's money, she asserts, and had enough left over to play the races, backing the favorite, who invariably lost. Dr. McKenzie, according to the plaintiff, also had his picture taken in various effeminate poses. He presented her with pictures of himself in evening dress and foot ball clothes, which she paid for later.

He is a large-voiced, well-fed broad-shouldered man. He wears foot ball hair in season. At other periods he parts his hair in the middle and slicks it back from an expansive brow. He wears a brown mustache, which shows the result of careful training.

Miss Wagner was asked to admire the apparently inexhaustible stock of neckties and colored shirts in which he called upon her, for which she settled the bills, she asserts.

HE BOUGHT FLOWERS.

He brought her flowers, candy, Christmas presents and other little things which his loving thoughtfulness prompted. Before he went, Miss Wagner says, he borrowed the money to pay for them.

The story of ingratitude and deception as told by Miss Wagner to a Bulletin reporter is enough to make Cupid tear his hair.

"I met Dr. McKenzie at Atlantic City when I was there with my grandmother in August of the year '94," she said. "After my return to the city my grandmother died, leaving me about $2,000. It was then Dr. McKenzie began to call. He said he began attending the university in '93. He played foot ball on some of the class teams and used to go occasionally to Latrobe to play on the home team. He

Nervous Dyspepsia

To Gain Flesh, to Sleep Well, to Know What Appetite and Good Digestion Mean.

MAKE A TEST OF STUART'S DYSPEPSIA TABLETS.

No trouble is more common or more misunderstood than nervous dyspepsia. People having it think their nerves are to blame and are surprised that they are not cured by nerve medicines. The real seat of the mischief is lost sight of. The stomach is the organ to be looked after.

Nervous dyspepsia often do not have any pain whatever in the stomach, nor perhaps any of the usual symptoms of stomach weakness. Nervous dyspepsia shows itself not in the stomach so much as in nearly every organ. In some cases the heart palpitates and is irregular; in others the kidneys are affected; in others the bowels are constipated, with headaches; still other

How he found relief is best told in his own words:

"Some weeks ago my brother heard me say something about indigestion, and taking a box from his pocket said 'Try Stuart's Tablets.' I did, and was promptly relieved. Then I investigated the nature of the tablets and became satisfied that they were made of just the right things and in just the right proportions to aid in the assimilation of food. I heartily endorse them in all respects, and I keep them constantly on hand."

studied medicine at the university from '91 to '93.

"He did not pass his examination at the university in order to receive a diploma, so he went to some college in Baltimore, where he received a diploma, and was coming back here to pass the state board.

"After we were engaged he used to ask me for money for one thing and another. He never had the slightest hesitancy about accepting it, though he knew how very little I had. He used to say: 'Oh, it's all right; what belongs to you belongs to me and what I have is yours,' but he didn't have anything. I wanted to work, but he wouldn't let me, because he said when he married me he wouldn't like to have it said I was a working girl. He was very affectionate, gave me an engagement ring and promised to marry me in the presence of my mother and sister.

BOTH ENGAGED TO HIM. "One day a woman came here and said: 'What are you writing to Dr. McKenzie for?' I'm engaged to him. I said: 'How dare you! I'm engaged to Dr. McKenzie. Her name is Laura Thorn, and she then lived at 1296 Spring Garden street. She found a telegram from me in his pocket, that is how she knew my address. She said she wouldn't have anything more to do with him, and then she went away.

"On the 29th of September he went to Latrobe to play foot ball. He wrote me from there, saying he would come and see me when he returned. He didn't come, and I heard he had been seen with Laura Thorn. So one night about 9 o'clock I went to her house. I walked into her parlor, and there he was sitting in the bathrobe I had given him. Wasn't that mean?

"Well he was as white as a ghost when he saw me. She began to quarrel with me and he didn't dare say a word. I was clinging to him, and she was trying to get me away. She pulled my hair and tore out my side combs. I got him to come out with me and then he promised me he would never see her again.

"He went west again, but said he would be back during the peace jubilee, and again promised to see me. He did not come, but one of my friends saw him on the street with Laura. His friend went up to him and said: 'How you are deceiving Tillie!'

"After a while I saw that he did not intend to marry me; so I put my case in the hands of a lawyer. Dr. McKenzie heard this and disappeared. I still played detective and located him. He has the most of my money, so I shall be obliged to work now. I wouldn't marry him, but I want to get the $2,000 back.

ST. JOSEPH'S SOCIETY.

Work That It Did During the Year Reviewed in the Report of Mrs. P. J. Horan, the Corresponding Secretary.

At the annual meeting of St. Joseph's society an exhaustive report was made by the corresponding secretary, Mrs. P. J. Horan, of Dunmore. Reports were submitted by other officers.

The report of the treasurer, Mrs. F. W. Gunster, is summarized as follows: Balance, Jan. 12, 1898, $3,566.83; receipts during the year, $1,502.45; total, $5,069.28; expenditures, $2,554.24; balance, Jan. 11, 1899, $2,515.04. It should be explained that the large sum for expenses include $4,285.95 paid to Contractor John Colligan, $238.62 to the architect and $200 on the real estate account, all involved in the erection of the new home.

Incorporated in Mrs. Horan's report are the following facts: "The report of the executive committee shows that during the year eighteen ninety-eight, thirty-six women and girls were taken from dives of infamy or rescued from impending danger and sent to the House of the Good Shepherd; ninety-five destitute infants were sent to St. Joseph's Home; thirty were since taken out by friends, who now feel competent to take care of them; nine children were sent to St. Patrick's Orphan asylum; twelve incorrigible children were sent to reformatories in New York, Philadelphia and Buffalo; employment was found for a large number of poor women and good homes for six children.

"By the efforts of the executive committee, fifteen unfortunate women were carried through a trying period. The thanks of the society are due to the Lackawanna and Haheman hospitals for the assistance they rendered in caring for the latter class."

As a result of collections in the churches of this diocese on a stated Sunday, $11,758.99 was secured and turned over to the treasurer and it was at once determined to begin the erection of a founding home to succeed the utterly inadequate establishment on Jefferson avenue, which under many disadvantages had been used for carrying on the noble work of sheltering destitute infants. Plans were speedily approved, and on June 8 the contract was awarded to Colligan Brothers. Work has had to be temporarily abandoned owing to a lack of funds, only enough being on hand to assure the payment of necessary expenses.

The building has been started on land donated by the Pennsylvania Coal company through the late John B. Smith.

OPINION OF JUDGE EDWARDS IN THE WILKES-BARRE WATER CASE.

The complaint of the city of Wilkes-Barre against the Spring Brook Water company made through an equity suit that was heard by Judge Edwards, was dismissed on Saturday in a lengthy opinion which was filed with the prothonotary of Luzerne county. Wilkes-Barre was being furnished a meagre and unwholesome water supply up to 1896, when the Spring Brook Water company with Scranton capitalists at its head, absorbed the Crystal Spring and Wilkes-Barre water companies, which had been furnishing Wilkes-Barre with water. New reservoirs were built, new sources of supply secured and many other improvements made all of which resulted in Wilkes-Barre getting an excellent and abundant water supply.

The new company raised its rates to meet the expenses of these improvements and the city went into court with a bill in equity to prevent this. Judge Edwards decides that the company's charges are not only not unreasonable, but high, but that they are actually much less than the company under the law would be warranted in making. The annual revenue is less than 5 per cent. of the total value of the property.

"Water companies," the judge says, "are entitled to a rate of return, if their property will earn it, not less than the legal rate of interest; and a system of charges that yields no more income than is fairly required to maintain the plant, pay fixed charges and operating expenses, provide a suitable sinking fund for the payment of debts, and pay a fair profit to the owners of the property, cannot be said to be unreasonable and will be sustained by the courts."

"The bill is dismissed at the cost of the city of Wilkes-Barre.

POLICE CASES.

A 19-year-old colored girl and a white man were discovered in a vacant house in the rear of the Academy of Music by Walter E. Evans, a street car conductor, Saturday afternoon and were handed over to the police. The man described himself as John (or Arthur) Lambert, 49 years old, laborer, of Factoryville. The girl, whose name is Julia Simpson, of 315 Raymond court, appeared against Lambert in police court yesterday morning. He was committed to jail in default of $200 bail.

Patrick and John Slattery, cousins, 15 and 22 years old, respectively, created a big disturbance on Center street early yesterday morning. They were drunk and had been ejected from the house of Clara Welch, corner of Raymond court. One of the men had a brick stone in his hand and was threatening to smash some one's head with it when Patrolman Flaherty and Schmidt reached the place. In yesterday's court the Slatterys were fined $3 each.

Dennis Jones, colored, one of Scranton's old time cabmen, fell from the ways of rectitude, drank heavily and was frequently a police station guest up to a year ago when he experienced a pronounced reformation. A few weeks ago he fell from grace and since then has been arrested three times for drunkenness. The last time was yesterday morning when he was found helplessly drunk on Mulberry street and was taken to the central police station in the police patrol wagon.

LOOKED LIKE RAW MEAT. Our baby's face and neck was all raw meat, and something awful to look at. The way that child suffered, mother and child never had any rest day or night as it constantly bled, and the blood used to flow down her cheeks like water, and she was crying with no result. By using CUTICURA SOAP, CUTICURA Ointment, and CUTICURA Cream, the child was entirely healed.
