GRANTED NON-SUITS IN TWO INSTANCES

JUDGE SIMONTON ABRUPTLY

One of Them Was the Important Dolphin-Steel Coal Suit; the Other, the Case of Vernau Against the German Building and Loan Association - Attorneys Kelly and Scragg Found Their Occupation Gone Through a Move of the Opposing Counsel, Mr. Newcomb.

Non-suits were allowed in two cases vesterday by Judge Simonton. One of he cases was that of Dolphin & Dimnick against J. H. Steel, in which the plaintiffs sued for a two-sevenths increst in the West Ridge Coal company. They alleged that they agreed with Mr. Steel to turn over to him the stock of the Providence and Church Coal companies, and certain coal leases which they controlled, and in return they were to be allowed a one-seventh nterest each in a new coal company

Mr. Steel became largely identified with the West Ridge Coal company, which was formed some time after the agreement in question was entered into, and the plaintiffs made demand for a share of the stock. Mr. Steel denied their claim, alleging that the deal with them had fallen through, because of the inability to secure the leases they BROKE AN AXLE.—Car No. 265, of the inability to secure the leases they had in view, and that the West Ridge company was a concern altogether forwhile turning the curve at the corner of eign to the one contemplated in their
