NOW FOR THE WORK OF THE CAMPAIGN

PARTIES ARE GETTING IN SHAPE FOR THE STRUGGLE.

At a Meeting of the Republican Candidates Tonight Alderman W. S. Millar Will Be Selected for the Position of Chairman of the Executive Committee-It Is Probable the County Treasurer, M. J. Kelly, Will Be Chairman of the Democratic City Committee.

Within a few days the city campaign will be well under way. Republicans, Democrats and Prohibitionists have held their conventions and are now engaged in mapping out the work of the campaign

The preliminary work for the Re publican, campaign is well under way. The candidates were nominated a week ago vesterday and since then they have held several meeetings, at which material for the city committee was disbeautr.

The Crawford county rules provided that the person elected permanent chairman of the convention of return judges shall serve for the following year as chairman of the city commit-It was decided that it would be over-burdening the city chairman to compet him to take charge of the detail work of the campaign and that will be entrusted to a chairman of the campaign executive committee. Alderman W. S. Millar will be chairman of this committee. He is an earnest, systematic worker and he knows the people of Scranton. With Mr. Millar at the helm it can be dipended upon that the campaign will be spirited and successful.

Mr. Millar has not as yet been for mally elected chairman of the execucommittee, but will be at inceting of the candidates to held tonight in the Cen-Republican club rooms. He has been waited upon by the candidates and asked to accept the onerous position and agreed to do so.

County Treasurer M. J. Kelly will probably be chairman J. Camperatic city committe bell, who has been to succeed himself, as his business interests consume about all his time. The had a meeting, but will within a day or two and the work of selecting a ommittee will be taken up at once

There is a big undertaking on hand or the men who will have to close the wounds made in Tuesday's convention. Jenning's supporters were much in evidence yesterday and they being the largest Baptist congregation spoke their minds with great freedom about the treatment they received. Mr. Jennings is not talking for publication, but he is doing some deep thinking.

MADE ANOTHER ESCAPE.

Boy Thief Apparently a Very Slippery Individual.

boy thief continues to wander to and fro on the earth, unmolested in his nefarious pursuits. On Monday, Miss Flora Matthews, daughter of R. J. Matthews, of Wyoming avenue, happened to look out of the window in time to witness the sudden exit of a small boy from the front door of her neighbor, Mrs. Chauncey Reynolds, pursued by vociferous scolding by a servant. Miss Matthews hastened out, crying, "That's the thief who has been in our house twice." and grasped him by the collar s he fled from the wrathful maid. Then she called for help, but no one responded except a physician's man, who was sitting in a carriage not far away, but who announced it impossible to leave his fiery steed.

Miss Matthews held the squirming kicking youngster until her strength gave out, when he wriggled out of her hands, and thus is chronicled another instance when this slippery specimer of humanity has escaped justice.

RIVAL SCHOOL BOARDS.

Arguments Heard by the Supreme Court in the Pittston Case-Scranton Attorneys Took a Hand in the Talking.

Arguments were made before the Suoreme court, in Philadelphia, yesterday in the Pittston school board case P. A. O'Boyle, of Pittston, and D. J. Reedy, solicitor of the Scranton board of control, represented the ousted board. M. N. Donnelly, solicitor of the new board in Pittston, and I. H. Burns, of this city, argued for the legality of the Demo- the board of six. The Scranton attorneys assisted in the case because of the fact that the last year, is said to have no desire contest between the two boards in this city depends on the outcome of the Pittston case, the conditions being Democratic candidates have not yet similar, except in that the Pittston board of six holds the fort, while in this city the board of twenty-one is in control.

The representatives of the board of six argued that the law of 1874, under which the board of twenty-one claims authority, is unconstitutional and that the original act, providing for six directors elected at large, should prevail. The Act of 1874, which provides that school directors shall be elected from the several wards, is an act legislating generally for the government of third-class cities. The supporters of the board of six claim that it was unconstitutional to legislate for school districts and cities in the same act. It is further alleged that when the lawmakers legislate for schools they must legislate for all the schools and night Miss Ida Aronson, of Penn avenue, was married to Jacob I. Naega, a tricts co-existent with third-class of cities. Wilkes-Barre. He was attended by The arguments of the representatives

The choir, of which Miss Bryant was a member, led by Prof. George Thayer, sang with much feeling the following "Asleep in Jesus," "We'll Never Say Good Bye in Heaven," "After" and "Nearer My God to Thee." The floral offerings were profuse and very beautiful. The one from the choir was a large harp of roses with a broken string, significant of the young soul which had fled. The flower bearers were Sunday school classmates: Mrs. Deubler, Miss Edith Davis, Miss Flora Polk and Miss Jessie North. The pall-bearers were from J. W. Guernsey's Sunday school class from the Second Presbyterian Edward Bryant, Benjamir Evans, Thomas Kerr, Samuel Watkins, Harry Gardner and Rexford Kimble. Interment was made in Forest Hill cemetery.
