IN MEMORY OF ROBERT BURNS

ANNIVERSARY OF HIS BIRTH CELEBRATED BY SCOTS.

Caledonian Club Had Its Annual Banquet in Guernsey's Hall-Over Two Hundred Club Members and Their Friends Were Present-Supper Was Followed by a Period of Speech-Making-Captain Moir and Rev. George E. Guild Were Among the Speakers.

The one hundred and thirty-ninth anniversary of the birth of Scotia's bard, Robert Burns, was celebrated in this city last night by the Scranton Caledonian club. The medium of the celebration was a supper, with a period of speeches and music, and a ball in Guernsey's hall, opposite The Tribune building, on Washington avenue,

The celebration was according to custom of many years in this city, though the dance feature is something which has not been included for a number of years. Over two hundred persons, members of the club, their families and friends, participated in the supper and nearly that many were present at the ball. The supper was served by Ira Mitchell in the assembly on the first floor of the Guernsey building. The diners occupied three long tables extending the length of the hall and a table reserved for the speakers and officers on the platform. Back of the speakers' table had been hung Burns' picture. On one side of it was hung the United States flag and on the other the yellow flag and red lion, ramof Scotland, Music was furnished by Wakefield's orchestra.

J. K. Lambie, chief of the Caledonian club, presided. The other officers pres ent were: First Chieftain William Dale Second Chieftain Lindsay McMillan, treasurers; Third Chieftain James Drummond, secretary; Fourth Chieftain William Lyall, corresponding sec retary. Chief Lambie at 9 o'clock for maily declared the banquet opened. It was preceded by an invocation by Rev. George E. Guild, paster of the Providence Presbyterian church, who offered thanks at the conclusion of the feast.

It was 10 o'clock before Wakefield' orchestra began the overture which preceded the toasting period. Owing to the lateness of the hour, Chief Lam bie wisely confined his opening address to a few formal words, and the company sang the popular Scottish ball

FUN WITH THE CURFEW.

Vineland Youths Preparing to Ridicule the New Law.

Vineland, N. J., Jan. 25.-The borough ouncil's curfew ordinance takes effect ext Saturday and all Vineland will be on the streets to see the fun. The young men, when visiting Millville, Bridgeton and other cities, say they are aunted and jibed with admonitions to 'go home before the curfew bell etc., and they feel their indignities keenly. It is reported that seerol preparations are being made to ridicule the curfew by having each ouncilman serenade by a band of nasqueraded youngsters with cow Everybody is still wondering where the borough council is going to

COST OF SPANISH HONOR.

in Cuban Campaign.

Madrid, Jan. 25.-An official dispatch from the Zulu islands, of the Philippine group, declares that all is well and that the Spanish occupation continues. Dispatches received by newspapers here assert that the insurrection of the Filipinos is spreading considerably. A native regiment, which was disbanded by the Spaniards, it is alleged, enlisted as a body in the service of Aguinaldo.

According to figures published here, 80,000 Spanish soldiers perished, chiefly from sickness during the last campaign

COST OF EXPANSION The Indiana member now turned to the "cost of expansion." He detailed the cost of the war and the estimates of $145,000,000 for the military establishment and $47,000,000 for the naval establishment for the next fiscal year. It showed, he said, that our war budget exceeds that of the great military powers of the world. It was within three millions of the cost of Great Britain's vast establishment by which she ruled her colonial empire; it was more than the war budget of Germany; more than that of France or of any other nation on the face of the globe. And this was to realize " the wild dream of expan-

We have become a miserable mendicant dependent upon another country. We are compelled to abandon the cardinal principle of protection and submit to the open door' policy"-at this point the gavet fell and Mr. Johnson said he would not trespass further upon the time of the other side, though he was urged to go on. 'I thank the other side." he said, "for the opportunity to e heard which I could not obtain from this side," There was a whirlwind of applause when Mr. Johnson took his seat and many Democrats crowded up the aisle to congratulte him.

Whatever responsibilities existed today, he declared, dated from the final ultimatum we had given to the ministry at Madrid. All the treasure that had been expended, all the victories that had been won, all the possessions we had gained were part of the context of the resolution of April

> If Mr. Johnson supported the president then, he should have the grace, now in the troubles that had arisen out of these troubles, to have met the situation with generous solicitude instead of anger and indignant protests. Almost alone in this capital the president had begged and pleaded for time for a peaceable solution against those who were using their influence to inflame the passion of the hour against the resources of diplomacy.

Mr. Dolliver said he had heard the president of the United States insulted twice on the floor of the house, once last session, by a member from the president's own state (Mr. Lentz). He had hoped that the insult would stand alone. Today he had heard another, when the gentleman from Indiana asserted that the president slavishly followed public opinion, that he slavishly found out what the people wanted before he acted. Unintentionally, said Mr. Dolliver, the gentleman from Indiana had paid to William McKinley the tribute which a grateful country had lovingly placed on the grave of Abraham Lincoln, that he stood by the millions of his countrymen. The president was absolutely without responsibility for the Spanish war. The initial responsibility rested with congress and the people. The congressional action had been a national action and the American people counting no cost being too heavy had stood by approving witnesses of all that was done and gentle sympathizers with all that had been suffered.

BEWILDERED POLITICIANS.

Referring to the anti-expansion element Mr. Dolliver characterized it as a "quaint combination of bewildered politicians and statesmen without constituencies who were now proposing to direct the affairs of the nation."

A heated passage between Mr. Dolliver and Mr. Johnson occurred when the latter asked if the agrainistration believed in the forcible annexation of the Philippines.

Mr. Dolliver sharply answered that he did not speak for the president or the administration.

Mr. Dolliver caused much amusement by describing the "mingling of tears" between Mr. Carnegie, Mr. Bryan and Mr. Cleveland, and their lamentations over the decadence of their country.

When Mr. Johnosn again demanded to know if Mr. Dolliver advocated the forcible annexation of the Philippines he replied "if I had my way I would take possession of the entire Philippine group and establish in Luzon a base of operations, from there scattering Mr. Dolliver, of Iowa, replied. He the beneficience of our institutions and holding the territory in trust for the proach this question in the larger, civilization and advancement of the world."

Mr. Johnson made a five-minute rebrought all sections and all parties ply criticising the "glittering generali-Now ties" of what had been said: He had that it was over, the treaty signed, retired voluntarily from congress and raise her, and recommended the deand ready for ratification, it would passed with contempt he said, the

Mr. Johnson said it was impossible to learn the policy of the administra tion, for, he declared, the gentleman at the White House enshrouded himself in mystery and the state department maintained the silence of the grave. "At least they permit me to answe a plain question, as the gentleman cannot," retorted Mr. Johnson. The excitement subsided somewhat after Mr. Dolliver closed. He was followed by Mr. Lentz (Dem., O.), who opposed the bill. During his remarks he denied Mr. Dolliver's statement that he had insulted the president. He undertook to read statements in the senate similar to those he had made. but Mr. Payne (Rep., N. Y.), who was in the chair, refused to allow him to do so, and Mr. Lentz was finally compelled to take his seat for declining to heed the chair's warning. He was, however, soon allowed to proceed.

MAINE MEMORIAL TO BE ARRANGED

Anniversary of the Ship's Destruc tion Will Be Observed in Havana. Havana, Jan. 25.-Seventy-five Amer can women met in this city today to arrange for a memorial of the anni versary of the destruction of the United States battleship Maine, on Feb. 15. Mrs. Estes G. Rathbone presided, and a letter from Captain Sigsbee was read suggesting as features of the programme prayer, singing if desired, addresses by one or two prominent persons, and a volley fired over the grave a battation of marines from the United States battleship Texas. Captain Sigsbee wrote that he had granted the request of a deputation of sailors and marines of the Texas to be allowed to decorate the graves.

These suggestions were not acted upon and the preparation of the programme was deferred. The executive committee, upon which Mesdames Brooke, Lee, McKenna and Maus represent the army, Mesdames Powelson and Howell the navy and Miss Hamli and Mesdames Scovel and Roberts the civilians, was directed to invite Major General Brooke, Major General Ludlow, Major General Lee, Captain Sigsbee and others to take part in the cere-

The question whether the Cubans and Spaniards should be allowed to participate caused a lively discussion. The general wish was to have it exclusively an American memorial, but it was decided, in order to avoid giving offence, to issue an invitation to representative Cubans and Spanlards.

ASSOCIATION OF MANUFACTURERS

Spirit of the Proceedings Indicates That the Members Are in Favor of Expansion as a Commercial Proposition - They Also Favor the Tariff - Officers Elected.

Cincinnati, O., Jan. 25.-The National Association of Manufacturers today transacted most of its business leaving the election of officers for tomor-

The spirit of the proceedings indiated that the members were in favor of expansion as a commercial propositton, and with a special view to eliminating that question from politics, as they favor the tariff. Ilnancial and other questions being eliminated from politics Much attention was devoted to resolutions urging the senate to give prompt consideration to the treaty of peace with Spain. During the noon recess it was learned that the senate would vote finally upon the ratification of the treaty on Feb. 6, and that question was dropped. The convention is a unit on the question of a national department of commerce and industry at Washington under the direction of a cabinet officer. There is no opposition whatever to the re-election of Theodore C. Search, of Philadelphia, as president for the fourth term. There is a general expression in favor of holding him for a life tenure.

Edward H. Sanborn, of Philadelphia, who has been assistant to the president, is a candidate for secretary and likely to succeed Colonel Wilson, of Cincinnati, who has been the secretary ever since the association was organized four years ago.

There is no opposition to Charles A. Schieren, of New York, for treasurer. Under the constitution the general offices are located where the president resides, and so long as President Search remains in office the headquarters will be in Philadelphia. Under .. these circumstances, a strong effort was made today to establish a branch office at New York city. After a heated discussion, in which there was considerable feeling between the New York and Philadelphia members, the question was referred to the executive committee. As the executive committee is composed of the president and other officers, it is generally believed that this reference will end the agitation for the New York office and other branches.

The contest for the next annual convention lies between Boston and Indianapolis, with the chances largely in favor of Boston, as it has been the custom to alternate between the east and west.
