They will use the broadsword with which Mr. Dunn is very proficient. It is hoped that arrangements will be made by which Captain H. E. Morris, who is also a remarkably clever swordsman, will meet Professor Faverre.

The northeastern Pennsylvania alumni of Lafayette college will hold their annual banquet this year, on February 21, at the board of trade rooms.

COST OF THE PRIMARIES.
Audit of the Accounts of Ex-City Chairman C. E. Chittenden Shows That $367.85 Was Expended.
The Balance Turned Over.

At last Republican city convention a committee was appointed to audit the accounts of C. E. Chittenden, who was chairman of the city committee when the Crawford county plan of conducting primaries was given its initial test some weeks ago. The cost of the primaries was $367.85. Following is the report of the auditor:

Scranton, Pa., Feb. 8, 1899.
Mr. C. E. Chittenden: Having audited the account of your receipts and disbursements in connection with the Republican primary election held Jan. 17, 1899, I beg to submit the following:

The following letter was sent by W. S. Millar, chairman of the campaign executive committee, to Mr. Chittenden:

Scranton, Pa., Feb. 8, 1899.
Charles E. Chittenden, Esq.
Dear Sir: I have the honor to enclose a receipt for $125.15 which amount you have so kindly transmitted through me to the Republican city committee for present campaign purposes.

I understand this money is a balance left over from the late Republican primary. It is a revelation in politics that there is a balance on hand and that the balance is handed over. It only adds another link to the chain of honor and integrity. On behalf of the Republican city committee I thank you most sincerely for your kindness. It shows very clearly that you are interested in the success of our grand old party. Assuring you of my personal good will and best wishes, I remain, dear Sir, your obedient servant,
W. S. Millar, Chairman.

WILL INVADE HAVANA.
B. Wakeman, of this city, placed an order yesterday with John B. Benson & Son, contractors, for the manufacture of several cabinet slot machines, which he intends to ship to Havana as soon as completed.

The moment seems opportune for such a venture, as the lottery business, has been smothered to an extent, since the military occupation of the island by the United States.

Number of Ballots Required for Lackawanna County.
It will require nearly ninety thousand ballots to supply the voters of Lackawanna county at the coming election. To be exact the number is 87,565.

C. P. Wagner, chief clerk to the county commissioners, has completed the work of preparing the copy of the ballots for the printer and no little task it was for 153 different kinds of ballots will be issued by the commissioners for the coming election. No two election districts of the county will have the same kind of a ballot. The number of ballots required for the different parts of the county is as follows:

Mr. Morris, of the Eighteenth Ward, Is Tired of Looking for the Municipal Heads of Departments and of Hearing Citizens Complain in a Similar Strain, and Proposes to Have the City's Generously Paid Servants Devote Some of Their Time to the City's Business.

If such a thing can be brought about through legislation, the heads of departments of the city government will long have office hours prescribed for them and they will be compelled to be in their offices during those hours or show a good and sufficient reason for not being there.

At least so declares Councilman Morris, the Eighteenth's aggressive young representative in the lower branch.

Mr. Morris is a bricklayer by trade. The prosaical position he occupies prevents him following his daily occupation and for several weeks past he has spent a good part of his enforced leisure about the city hall, with the laudable desire of improving his knowledge of municipal affairs and the way to better serve his constituents and his city.

In his visits to the various offices he could not help but note the large number of persons who daily make futile attempts to see officials.

A DAILY OCCURRENCE.
"Is the chief in?"
"Just stepped out."
"How soon do you expect he will be back?"

"Can't say positively, but I hardly expect him back today. Anything I can do for you?"

"Well, I don't know. I wanted to see him about that matter of so and so—can you attend to it just as well?"

"No, I'd rather you would see the chief himself about that. He always has to be consulted in these matters."

"Very well, I'll call again. What time will he be in tomorrow?"

"Why, generally, he is here at 9 o'clock. I'll tell him you called."

"And then the next day."
"Is the chief in?"
"The chief has just stepped out. Oh, yes, you were here yesterday. If you were here two minutes sooner you would have caught him. You may be able to find him at his ———— office, home, hotel, or whatever the case may be."

Conversations like this between citizens who come to transact business with their legally paid servants, and departmental clerks, secretaries or other underlings who are doing their own and their chief's work, or such portions of it as they care to or are capable of, have been listened to time and again by Mr. Morris and they have set him to thinking.

One conclusion at which he has arrived is that the thing is radically wrong. Another result of his cogitation is a determination to right that wrong.

SAUCE FOR THE GOOSE, ETC.
Recently councils passed a resolution directing the secretary to the chief of police to put in so many hours per day at his office. If this can be done in the case of one city official it is not unreasonable to suppose that it can be done in every case. Mr. Morris reasons.

There is no question in his mind but that the city officials, with rare exceptions, are not devoting to the city's business, the time, labor and general interest that would be anything like commensurate with what they are receiving in salary.

They take it for granted—it is notorious too—that a city official is a position entailing only a superficial supervision of the departmental work and the pocketing of the difference between the salary and what it costs to run the office by proxy.

Mr. Morris said yesterday in concluding the conversation in which he vented the above.

"I do not aim to pose as a reformer. Neither am I seeking any cheap notoriety. I simply feel that the mayor has authority to compel the heads of departments to do their full duty and that I would be grievously derelict in my duty to the taxpayers of this city if I ignored the duty that my observations point out to me."

SCOPE OF THE RESOLUTION.
Mr. Morris's resolution will call attention to the act of assuasive giving the mayor power to supervise the conduct of city officials, and direct him to take the necessary measures to remedy the constant cause of complaint. If the law in the case will permit Mr. Morris will go farther and designate certain hours, at least six a day, during which the heads of departments shall be at their respective offices.

The recent public utterance of one city official to the effect that he attended to the affairs of his department often times to the neglect of his private business is opportune in this connection.

REMINDER OF KLONDIKE.

Weather the Coldest of the Winter by a Considerable Margin—Twenty Degrees Below Was Reached at Dalton.

The weather from midnight Wednesday to the same hour last night was the coldest thus far recorded. In fact, in several years. Frost-bitten crops, hands and feet were ordinary happenings.

In the central city the thermometer at Phoenix drug store registered 8 degrees below zero at 7 o'clock yesterday morning. At Dalton at 8:30 a. m. it was 20 degrees below and 11 degrees one hour and thirty minutes later. At Mt. Pocono at 6 o'clock in the morning 16 degrees below zero is recorded. At the store of Iselman & Co., at Throop, it was 15 degrees below at 7 a. m. The thermometer at the Hillside Home at Clark's Summit registered 8 degrees below at 5 o'clock last night.

At the Scranton hotel, the thermometer reported that it was colder last night on the mountain than it was early in the morning, when the mercury got down to 16 below.

At various places in the country surrounding Scranton, the thermometer ranged from 10 to 20 below at 10:30 last night.

At the Green Ridge Iron works yesterday a most remarkable thing occurred. It became so cold during the day that frost could not be rolled successfully and the mill had to shut down.

Yesterday and last night were the coldest of the winter heretofore by a considerable margin.

WORTHY BENEFIT AFFAIR.
Social Club Entertain in Music Hall Last Night.

Many friends of the members of the Sixteenth Ward Social club were joyfully entertained last night at Music hall at a dance given by the club. The hall was artistically decorated for the occasion with bunting and flags, and the orchestra was almost concealed behind a profusion of palms and potted plants.

The club's orchestra furnished the music for the dance numbers. The affair was given for the repatriation of the Hebrew Montefiore society, which conducts a kindergarten school on Mulberry street for the little Hebrew children of the poorer classes of that race.

A substantial sum was realized through the club's efforts. The club comprises many prominent young men and the committee of arrangements for last night's affair, E. E. Johnson, Myer Burt, Henry Shantz, David Smith, Henry Poulke, Badore J. Finklin, Louis Traethenbury, J. Kaplan, L. M. Dombro, A. Goldberg and Oscar Aronson. The club's officers are: President, B. C. Levy, secretary, A. B. Cohen, treasurer, David Smith.

EXCEPTIONS TO NEE'S PAPERS
It Is Charged That He Is Not a Citizen.

P. J. Quinn, of Mineoka, has filed exceptions to the nomination papers of John Nee, for supervisor of Lackawanna township.

He alleges that Mr. Nee is not a citizen and that the papers he holds are void. He also alleges that the papers which have several times been decided to be illegal. The matter will be heard this afternoon.

ARRESTED FOR NEGLIGENCE.

C. D. Manning, a Susquehanna farmer, came to the city yesterday afternoon to transact some business. After driving around some, he drew up in front of Backus' hotel, on Washington avenue, and went into the building. Dr. Hill and W. T. Boland, who were standing nearby, noted that he did not blanket his horses, though the cold was intense, the wind having free sweep from the court house square.

They expected, however, that he would return in a few minutes. Many minutes went by and the requested Patrolman Parry to take the team into Cusick's livery, out of the cold. They then reported the matter to Agent Knapp, of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, and Manning was shortly afterwards arrested and taken before Alderman Kannon. Mr. Manning waived a hearing and entered bail in the sum of $500 for his appearance at court.

Mr. Manning was accompanied by his two brothers, both attorneys, one of Susquehanna, the other of this city, Attorney Manning, of Susquehanna, was highly indignant and upbraided the alderman, the society's agent, and Mr. Knapp, a member of the society. He also at first refused to allow his brother to remove the team from the livery, demanding that the patrolman should bring the horses to where he goes there. He stated that he and his brother were holding an important consultation and were longer than they expected to be.

BEGAN LAST NIGHT IN DUNMORE M. E. CHURCH.

Cold Weather Interfered Somewhat with the Attendance, but There Was a Large Attendance Notwithstanding—Presiding Elder Thorpe Delivered an Address on "Why Hold This Convention"—Other Features of the Evening's Exercises—Three Sessions Today.

MR. SANBORN RETURNS.
Is Once More in Charge of the Rescue Mission.

George G. Sanborn, who for six years had charge of the Rescue Mission on Franklin avenue, and who resigned his post last May to engage in Y. M. C. A. work among the soldiers at Chickamauga, is back again at his old position.

Mr. Sanborn's health would not permit him to continue the rigorous work in the camp and in the latter part of August he gave it up and by his physician's advice went to the Maine woods to recuperate. The climate there, however, did not agree with him and he left for the West.

J. E. Hendsey, who succeeded him here, did not find the character of the work at the mission suited to his talents and at his urgent request was relieved and at the end of last month returned to his home in Waterbury, Conn. The managers of the mission communicated to Mr. Sanborn the straits they were in and besought him to return here and resume the work in which he had been so eminently successful. He consented and at once proceeded to take up the onerous duties attached to the office. He is now at his old stand and the mission is booming as of yore.

Next Monday, February 13, the mission will celebrate its seventh anniversary. Extensive arrangements for it are being made by a committee consisting of M. J. Larkin, chairman; J. L. Stelle, vice-president; J. B. Watson, treasurer; C. H. Chandler, secretary; E. S. Williams, Cyrus D. Jones and Professor Plunier.
