'Character is the mirror that exhibits man's true life and his flag of defense in times of public opinion. So it is with delicacy that I reflect on the character of the illustrious Abraham | e Lincoln, the redeemer of our country.

The predominating elements of Lincoin's peculiar character were: First, his great capacity and power of reasecondly, his excellent understanding; thirdly, his exalted idea of the sense of right and equity; fourthly, his intense veneration for what was good and noble.

"I know it is generally believed that Lincoln's heart, his love and kindness, his tenderness and benevolence, were his ruling qualities; but this is an erreneous idea in every particular. He lived, breathed and acted from the

When houses are haunted the usual ure for the annoyance is to have them rebuilt and rechristened," writes Mr Fletcher Moss, in his "Folk-Lore, Customs and Tales." Another method is that used by Mr. Moss when he became the owner of the old parsonage of Didsbury, which had a bad reputation for

When Mr. Moss first went to th house the noises in the night were extraordinary; bells were rung when every one was asleep, there were sounds as if a body had fallen, squeals and screams were heard, followed by a rush as though cavalery were galloping, Mr. Moss investigated and discovered a ommunication between the stables and the roof of the parsonage. The rats nightly invaded the house, jumped lown on the ceiling, used the bell wires as parallel bars, rung the bells, equeal ed, meaned, and if alarmed rushed away like frightened sheep.

One night Mr. Moss was aroused by ternoon. Services will be conducted in the Jackson Street Baptist church, and her bedroom that every few moments gave a piercing scream. Mr. and Mrs. Albert N. Kramer, who have just returned from an extended wedding tour, were tendered a brilliant reception by the former's mother, Mrs. H. Kramer, last night at her residence, 240 Wyoming avenue. The reception was held between the hours of $.30 and Il p. m., and during that time many guests called to pay their respects to the couple and welcome them home.

The hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Kramer and Miss Kramer, assisted by Mrs. J. K Freeman, of this city, and Mrs. E. Galland, of New York city, received the guests in the northeast parlor. Mrs. Kramer wore black silk, en train, trimmed with point lace and embroidered chiffon. Mrs. A. N. Kramer's cos tume was a beautiful creation of white satin, trimmed profusely with white point lace, and she carried a bouquet of bridal roses. Miss Kramer's gown was a handsome one of pink crepe du chene, lace and chifton trimmings. Mrs Preeman wore grey taffeta silk, with Duchess lace trimmings. The handsome and becoming gown worn by Mrs. Galland was one of black spangled jet, with embroidered chiffon trimmings, and diamond ornaments.

The rooms were all artistically decorated with palms, maiden-hair fern and cut flowers. Music was furnished by an orchestra, and dainty refreshments were continuously served during the evening. Many of the guests were from out of town. Mr. and Mrs. Kramer will occupy a suite of rooms at the Hotel Jermyn. He is the senior clothiers, this city.
