BALL OF HORSESHOERS UNION
Very Enjoyable Event in Music Hall Last Night.

The annual ball of the Local Journeymen's union, No. 75, Horseshoers' union, was held in Music hall last evening. The event was an enjoyable one, and was largely attended by the members and their invited guests. Dancing, refreshments, and a sweater were the order of the evening. Many brazen sons of the hammer and tongs and their ladies enjoyed the dances.

Among the invited guests from out of town were the following: Herbert Russ, manager of the Pennsylvania branch of the Carney and Neill company, of Philadelphia, the largest horse shoe manufacturer in the world, who, by his genial ways, makes him many friends; R. R. Voris, of Bloomsburg, the salesman of the "Anvil" company, who has charge of this section of Pennsylvania; Joseph K. Murphy, of Philadelphia, representing the American Horse Shoe company, of Philadelphia, Pa.

The ball was one long to be remembered, and pleasant recollections will be cherished by all fortunate enough to be present.

CHARGES AGAINST POUND KEEPERS

THEY WERE TRIED BEFORE JUDGE H. M. EDWARDS.

Placed a Number of Cows in Their Pound, and When the Owners of the Animals Attempted to Release Them by Force, There Was a Lively Resistance—Charges of Assault and Battery and Pointing Firearms Grew Out of the Affray. Other Court Cases.

A series of very spirited cases were tried yesterday afternoon before Judge H. M. Edwards, in which Wallace A. Sturdevant, A. P. Hush and Charles H. Hart were defendants, and Mrs. Mary Barrett, Mrs. Bridget Kelly, Mrs. Mary Carey and Mrs. Catherine McGoever the complainants. The defendants reside in Peterboro, and the women in the Seventh ward.

Sturdevant and Hush have an authorized cattle pound at their homes and on Sunday, Sept. 25 last, they secured the assistance of Hart in driving a number of cows that were roaming at large into the pound. Some time later in the day a number of women who owned the cows went to the pound, accompanied by friends and forcibly attempted to set the beasts at liberty.

A row of considerable proportions ensued and the women who are acting as prosecutors allege that the three men drew revolvers and pointed the weapons at them. Mrs. McGoever also alleged that Sturdevant hit her with his cane.

The accused deny pointing the pistols and say they only used sufficient force to keep the women out of the pound. They were represented by Attorney John P. Strang. The prosecution was conducted by District Attorney Jones and attorneys C. E. Conroy and Frank Lynch. The case was given to the jury at 4 o'clock.

South Scranton Men on Trial.

John Cleary and three brothers, William, Michael and James Carr, were arraigned before Judge Archibald in court room No. 2 yesterday afternoon, charged with unprovoked assault and robbing Joseph Hahn, an old man over sixty-years of age, who resides in South Scranton. The defendants also live in that part of the city. Cleary is much older than the Carr boys and is a drunkard, while there he was associated with them and badly cut about the head and face.

Hahn in his story said that on the night of December 25, he was decoyed by the Carr boys into their house on Stone avenue, and while there he was assaulted by them and badly cut about the head and face. He valued at $15 was taken from him and he was then thrown into the street where later on he was found in a semi-unconscious condition by the police who had been summoned by the neighbors.

They heard his cries of distress and sent for the doctors. Four days later the accused men were arrested by Lieutenant of Police Zang and officers, on a warrant sworn out by Hahn.

The defense was an alibi. They went on the stand and swore that on the night of the alleged assault and robbery they were not in Carr's house between 7:30 and 11:30 o'clock. The assault occurred between the hours of 8 and 9 o'clock at night. It was also shown by two witnesses that Hahn stated on the day after he was beaten that his assailants were Italians and that the affair occurred in Dutch Hollow some distance from the Carr house. All of the testimony was heard yesterday and the jury will be charged this afternoon.

The accused are defended by Attorneys John J. Murphy and James H. Burnett. The Commonwealth's interests were looked after by Assistant District Attorney W. Gaylord Thomas.

Was a Rough Rider.

John C. Peck, who was one of Roosevelt's Rough Riders during the exciting events of last summer in Cuba, and who is now with the Fourth Cavalry at Manila, was one of the defendants in a robbery case called yesterday before Judge Archibald in court room No. 2. The Fourth Cavalry took an active part in the desperate case.

Some Other Cases.
John Coffman, of Tenth street, who was charged with assault and battery by his neighbor, Wallace Wilmitth, was returned not guilty yesterday. The costs were divided equally between the prosecutor and defendant.

Stephen Kiasack and John Kiasack, of Olyphant, were tried for burglary at the wholesale liquor store of John Bosok, of Olyphant, on July 21 last, were returned not guilty yesterday.

Patrick Hughes was arraigned to answer a charge of assault and battery preferred by Mary Dale. The latter is now in custody and did not appear to prosecute. A verdict of not guilty was taken and prosectrix directed to pay the costs.

Con Molish was directed to pay the costs in the assault and battery proceedings he preferred against L. A. Lipinski. A verdict of not guilty was directed.

Christian Kline was indicted for selling liquor without a license at the instance of C. W. Traver. The latter did not appear and the district attorney, by permission of court, allowed the charges to enter upon the payment of costs by the defendant.

Edward James, of Carbondale, charged with Peter Davis with embezzlement, but when the case was called yesterday the prosecutor reported that he did not think he had evidence that would warrant a conviction and a verdict of not guilty was directed.

BE PATIENT.

A Hard Virtue to Practice but It Brings No Regrets.

The patient with the stupid man. His dulness is misfortune, not a fault. Be patient with children. Their misdeeds spring from ignorance and thoughtlessness, rarely from malice.

Be patient with the trickster who is learning your language. How would you feel if you tried to express yourself in his language? He would feel as you would if you tried to express yourself in his language.

Be patient with the stolid stareekeeper, patient enough not to quarrel with him. But do not buy of him after he has deceived you once.

Be patient with him even when he has exhausted his eloquence trying to convince you that some obscure fluid, or some other fancy nostrum, or some other fancy nostrum, is as good as, or better than Duffy's Pure Malt Whisky.

You know that for coughs, colds, croup, grip of pneumonia there is no better remedy than Duffy's Pure Malt Whisky. It is a stimulant and a medicine. Insist upon having it.

fighting on the outskirts of Manila last Saturday, Daniel Haley and Steve A. Gilby were indicted with Peck at the instance of Nathan Styles, Haley and Gilby sat at the defendants table yesterday.

From the testimony of the prosecutor it appeared that one night last spring the three defendants and the prosecutor, all of whom lived in Peck's bundle, were drinking together. After midnight they were in a little place of wood near Peck's home and they were bringing beer to the scene of the festivities in a can. Styles did not furnish any money when the coin of the other three men was exhausted.

Gilby, according to Styles' story, held the prosecutor's hands. Haley sat on his feet and Peck went through his clothes and took what change he had in his pockets.

The money was spent for liquor, and Styles was given his proper share. Upon this showing Judge Archibald without waiting to hear any of the testimony for the defense directed a verdict of not guilty. What he said indicated that it was a drunken frolic and that there was nothing to sustain a charge of robbery.

Attorneys H. C. Butler and James Mahon appeared for the defendants and Assistant District Attorney Thomas for the Commonwealth.

Wanted to Break a Slate.
A wild desire to break a slate on the part of John Barry, of Richmond, landed him in criminal court yesterday. It wasn't a political slate that Barry was anxious to reduce to smithereens.

He had a slate of names in his pocket which he intended to use to elect a slate of names to a political slate, but he had not calculated to confront a party with a jury of twelve of his peers.

Barry was employed by the Russel B. Coal company which has a mine in Fell township and one day while returning to the office he was seized with an epileptic condition he saw the docking slate exposed to view inside the window of the coal company's office. There was something about the appearance of that slate that caused Barry's rage to well up in great floods and with a stone he smashed the window but failed to injure the obnoxious slate behind it.

He was restrained from doing further damage and was indicted for statutory burglary at the instance of R. A. Benson, superintendent of the Fell township. Judge Archibald said the testimony did not warrant a conviction on such a charge and he directed a verdict of not guilty.

Case from Carbondale.
Michael McAndrew and Kate McAndrew, of Carbondale, Pa., were arraigned on charges of selling liquor on Sunday, selling without a license and keeping a gambling house, Patrick Coggin was the prosecutor. He testified that he purchased liquor a number of times at a place kept by the McAndrews and also gambled there.

Patrick Cuff gave similar testimony. The defense was a general denial of the charges and the statement that the prosecutor was actuated by spite. McAndrew was found guilty on the tippling charge and on the charge of selling liquor without a license and acquitted on the charge of keeping a gambling house. Mrs. McAndrew was acquitted on all three charges.
