THE NEW CATECHISM.

Dr. McLeod Read It with Comments Last Night.

Rev. Dr. McLeod spoke last evening at the First Presbyterian church on Christian unity with his text taken from Eph. iv. 5. He spoke particularly of the unity that churches should have. He had many questions regarding their doctrine and in comparing points referred to the army, saying that if officers and men allowed their patriotism to be diminished by small jealousies and bickerings the foe could scarcely be dispersed. In the church we should follow the King and Head in unbroken lines.

Dr. McLeod then took up the new catechism just noted in the New York Sun, which has been accepted by the free evangelical churches of England. As for himself he was fascinated with it and desired to let his congregation hear what the Calvinists, Armenians, Presbyterians, Congregationalists, Baptists, Quakers and others could thoroughly accept. It included what they all do believe and nothing they do not believe.

During the reading of the catechism the reverend speaker made comments on various questions.

RAILROAD WRECK.

Several Empty Cars Smashed Near Bridge Street.

A northbound coal train was held up in the driveway through which the Delaware and Hudson company's tracks run beneath the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western stone bridge at Bridge street. Saturday morning about 9 o'clock, as the train of empty cars were passing through the arch, one jumped the tracks, ran a short distance on the ties, and then spilled up. Two cars were broken into kindling wood and old iron and a few others were wrecked.

No one was hurt, the brakemen being on other portions of the train at the time. North and south bound passenger trains exchanged passengers by transfer, but several freight and coal trains were delayed. The wreckage was not cleared until about noon.

The bill introduced by Representative Adams, of Philadelphia, at Harrisburg to provide for two additional judges for Philadelphia county who shall have powers only to try matters of a criminal nature, is likely to bring on a spirited fight in the house.

There is a strong feeling against giving Philadelphia any more judges, and, moreover, the bill will be attacked on the ground that it is unconstitutional.

ANNUAL REPORT OF PUBLIC LIBRARY

IS BEING DISTRIBUTED BY LIBRARIAN H. J. CARR.

Contains a Concise Statement of the Past Year's Work—Request of W. T. Smith to Be Used for a Special Purpose—War and Bicycles Had Their Effect on the Circulation. Appropriation Asked for Branch Stations—Interest in Fiction Decreases—Statistics.

Librarian Carr, of the Scranton Public Library, has issued the printed pamphlet containing the eighth annual report of the library, a resume of its work for the past year and other statistical information. It is concise and interesting. As in other years the year 1898 indicated at its close a strong and natural progress.

During the year the branch rooms at the Green Ridge library, and those in South Scranton at Humphrey's building, opened late in 1897, were continued and another branch opened in West Scranton at the Welsh Philosophical Library room.

Each filling a long felt want and are conducted at present without any material extra expense so far as the central library's appropriation is concerned. Helpful co-operation and private contributions from outside sources are thus responsible for the success of the report is designated the eighth annual of the library has only been in active operation a little over six years, but during that time has certainly, as the report statistically indicates, made a deep and wonderful impression upon the public at large.

During the year the death removed from service in various capacities, W. T. Smith, Attorney Milo J. Wilson, of the bond of trustees, and Miss Emma A. Thompson, the library staff. These are the first thus to be removed while in active service and the loss in each instance is keenly felt.

THE SMITH BEQUEST.

The late W. T. Smith, who made so many gifts to the library while in life, left a final bequest of $1,000 at his death, and by unanimous consent, this gift will be set aside to form the nucleus of a special society to be known as the William Tait Smith Fund Library on Mines and Mining. W. J. Welsh, on the citizens, and Attorney H. M. Hannal from the bar, were appointed to succeed Messrs. Smith and Wilson, deceased, respectively. Rev. Daniel J. MacCollin and Rev. W. J. Ford were appointed to the vacancies caused by the resignation of Rev. P. J. McMahon and Rev. Joseph K. Dixon, respectively.

Last year the lecture room at the library was freely used in every instance being a meeting which indicated an association of some sort with the reference and reading rooms of the library from a general standpoint. These were used in every larger measure than in any previous year. The library was assisted during the year by seven regular and two substitutes, or extra assistants.

A considerable balance remains on hand to the credit of each classified expense account, which indicates most scrupulous care, not due in any sense to a false economy, but rather a regard for future necessity. In making up the required amount of appropriation for each succeeding year, only that which is actually necessary is asked for and those balances are not figured in, thus becoming in a large sense reserve accounts for any emergency which is bound to occur during any fiscal year. This in the case of the branch libraries, where it was found necessary to add additional help and minor necessities all other expenses being borne from an outside source, these balances became highly useful.

APPROPRIATION ASKED.

As compared with the appropriations for previous years the request for this year is very little larger in the general fund. However, $2,000 is asked in addition to be used for insurance $600, and delivery station and reading rooms, $2,400. Unless this last item is provided for the present branch stations must close unless private funds are forthcoming.

So far as the actual condition of the library is concerned the following may be of interest: Registrations of 1898 were as follows: Nov. 1, 1891; registered, 1,827; total, 3,662, of which 2,536 were city residents, 37 non-residents, and 89 of teachers or other special cards. In addition to the 3,662 cards that expired by reason of their two-year limit, 122 others were surrendered or cancelled, women, making a total of 3,784, leaving 595 cards in force at the end of the year 1898. There are also 225 extra or student's cards now valid issued to regular cardholders, but not included in the registration figure above. Upon which may be drawn additional books other than prospectives or juveniles.

From the circulating department, open 265 days, 133,667 volumes were loaned for home use, and 4,751 for use in the reference and reading rooms; a total of 138,418 volumes. Fully coverage for the year was 454. The largest issue of any one day was 979 on Saturday, Feb. 26; smallest daily issue 23, on Thursday, Dec. 22. Smallest daily number of volumes in the hands

OF READERS was 2,426 on Friday, July 3; and the largest number was 3,668 on Tuesday, March 1. The total issues of the circulating department show a considerable decrease from those of immediately preceding years. Indications of such falling off were first apparent in March and April last. It then seemed to be chiefly owing to the unusually mild and pleasant weather or prevalent that spring, which favored a great increase in the use of bicycles. Later the war with Spain broke out and the public mind was attracted to current periodicals. This state of affairs was not local, similar conditions being reported from all over the United States.

BOOKS ON HAND.

The number of books on hand Dec. 31, 1898, was 33,735, accounted for as follows: From 1807, 30,581; accessories for 1898 were 3,706, being 770 from gift and exchange, 2,231 by purchase, 316 periodicals bound and 406 United States documents deposited. Deductions of the year numbered 828, being 412, of which 58 were discarded because of wear and tear, 26 on account of other damage or loss, notably paid for by the persons responsible, and 25 exchanged. The list of gifts and exchanges numbered 839 books and 3,746 pamphlets and current numbers.

In reference to the circulation of various books, a classification of each on a percentage basis indicates that demand for the fiction class is decreasing with corresponding benefit to the non-fiction class. Thus the circulation for 1898 is as follows out of a possible 700: Philosophy, 9.75; theology, 1.21; zoology, 1.99; philology, 9.23; natural science, 1.42; useful arts, 2.22; the arts, 2.10; poetry and drama, 1.53; orthography, 3.74; newspapers and magazines, 2.17; biography, 2.10; history, 2.82; periodicals, bound and unbound, 2.85; fiction, adult and juvenile, 74.92.

AFTER MANY LONG YEARS

William Hawley Will Have to Answer for a Highway Robbery Committed in 1887 on Road Leading to Moonic.

An important arrest was made by the West Scranton Saturday evening when William Hawley, of Lafayette street, was taken into custody on a charge of drunkenness.

Twelve years ago a highway robbery was committed on the public road leading from Scranton to Moonic, and a man named Sweeney and others were implicated. Sweeney is now serving a sentence in the Eastern penitentiary for his part of the job.

Hawley was indicted in the June term of court in 1887, but was arrested when the culprit was shifed for a long time but evaded arrest. Lieutenant John Davis and John Ellis, now deceased, were delegated to make the arrest together with ex-Patrolman McAndrew. The two first named officers were waiting for the prisoner at Hawley's home, and incidentally waiting for McAndrew, when Hawley learned that he was being shadowed and made his escape. He went in the direction of the West mountains and was traced as far as Binghamton, where he had been last seen several years. After a long absence he returned, but continued to evade the officers.

When it was learned Saturday that he had returned to the city, he was arrested. The culprit was shadowed as he left town, and placed in the county jail, where he will await trial.

TODD B. HALL AT LYCEUM.

An Immense Audience Grets the Famous Baltimore Detective.

The Lyceum Sunday meeting is the only one that seems to be largely attended in all kinds of weather. While many of the churches reported but a small attendance yesterday, the Lyceum meeting had an immense audience. The music was excellent, consisting of a beautiful rendition of Haydn's "Credo" by Bauer's orchestra and two brass instruments quartet selections by Messrs. Higgins, Stanton, Moore and Thorn. The address by Todd B. Hall, of Baltimore, was unique and very telling. It was in main the story of his own Christian life and work, but told in such a sincere fashion that it had none of the element of self-praise.

In fact, he said: "Boss, I want to introduce to you Jesus, my friend. He saved me, a wrecked detective, in Baltimore twenty years ago, and He has stood by me ever since. The devil told me He couldn't save a detective, but the devil's a liar, for I have been both a Christian and a detective ever since." Many incidents which have come under Mr. Hall's own observation were related to prove that it did not matter how wicked a man might be, Jesus was able to save and keep him.

During the address fifty men remained for an after service, at which twenty-five or more men saw Mr. Hall's names and said that they would live for Christ with Christ's help.

Secretary Maly announced that the music would be furnished next Sunday by the Ladies' Cymnal quartet, of New York, a splendid Lyceum attraction, and that the speaker would be Dr. John Robertson, the famous Scotch evangelist, who comes to the city to hold evangelistic meetings in the Penn Avenue Baptist church.

DEATH OF MICHAEL ROACH.

to pay a store bill, which he owed. Returning home, the man evidently slipped and fell down an embankment close by where he was found dead. In falling he struck against a stone and his face and forehead were bruised. The fall undoubtedly rendered him unconscious and he remained in that condition some time. When he recovered sufficiently to realize his predicament, he evidently tried to creep up the embankment, but his feet and hands being frozen he was helpless. His condition showed evidences of his having brought them in trying to extricate himself.

There was no indication that Roach was intoxicated. The coroner appointed the following jury, who will hold an inquest some time this week: Carroll W. Gubin, William Brodick, Martin Meehan, Henry Myers, John Langan, Burgess, and George Lawrence.

LOADED CARS RUN AWAY.

Dashed Down a Steep Grade and Collided with an Engine.

A wreck occurred on the Erie and Wyoming Valley railroad at Rock Junction near No. 7 reservoir Saturday morning which resulted in the demolition of two cars and considerable damage to the locomotive.

An engine No. 11 in charge of Engineer Curtis Wilds, Fireman James O'Donnell and Conductor Kelly, left Dunmore depot at 6 o'clock Saturday morning for Glysser Grove with two cars loaded with supplies.

At Rock Junction the draw head pin dropped out allowing the cars to go backwards down the steep grade at the No. 7.

Coming up the grade was engine No. 29 in charge of Engineer Dan Gillbridge, Fireman Peter Holdway and Conductor Archibald Kelly. Engineer Gillbridge saw the cars coming and reversed his engine but not soon enough to escape a collision. The cars with their contents were totally demolished and the front of the engine was badly wrecked. No one was injured but the crew on Engine No. 29 received a severe shaking up.
