FIRE GONG.

Joint Fire Committee Empowered to Provide One for the City.

As was stated in The Tribune a fe days ago, there is not time enough for the present councils to pass a bond ordinance to raise money for a fire alarm system, and as that much needed protection cannot be realized before July, the common council adopted the following resolution:

"Resolved, that the joint light, watand fire committee of councils be and are hereby empowered and directed to make temporary arrangement h fire alarm gong, such arrangements to continue from month to month until otherwise directed by councils. Said committee to have full power to

This will probably result in an ar rangement being made with the Delaware and Hudson company for the use of their No. 28 gong, which has done service for years, but which of late has not been sounded, simply because the watchman was under no obligations to give an alarm, having been employed to look after the company's interests only.

REAL ESTATE DEAL.

J. E. Watt has purchased the Van Bergen lot, just above Maxey's store, and will erect thereon a handsome residence, to be occupied by J. J. Thomp son, M. D. The lot is 60 by 150 feet, has a commodious stable in the rear and is one of the most desirable residence and physician's office locations In the city. The work, which is to commence early in the spring, will greatly improve the appearance of that section of a fine street.

HEPTASOPHS TO FEAST.

The Fidelity conclave of Heptasophs will hold a banquet and social in connection with their annual installation of officers, which will take place in Cambrian hall on South Church street Wednesday evening. Frank P. Brown, of North Main street, will serve the banquet.

LOST MINUTE BOOK FOUND.

At the last meeting of the school board President Colville appointed a committee to find a missing minute book. As a last resort the committee went to Superintendent Forbes, who said he had taken it home thinking that it might get lost.

Mrs. Sarah Lloyd, an aged an estimable lady, died on Saturday after-noon at the her of her son, Mr. Richard Stevenson, of L street, after an lliness of about ten days duration. Deceased was born in Flintshire, North Wales, on Dec. 26, 1810, and was therefore in her eighty-inth year. In January 1866 she, with her husband, came to Baltimore, where they resided for a time, and afterwards moved to Bangor. For the past thirty years she has resided in this vicinity. For the fourteen years last she has been totally alind, but has borne her affliction with perfect Christian resignation. She was never heard to murmur or complain of her affliction and up to the time of her death her mind was unclouded. She is survived by her son Richard and several grand-children. The funeral will take place at half past two "clock this afternoon. Services will be held at the house.

SOLIDIFIED ALCHOL.

A Newark Inventor Discovers a Process to Transform the Liquor.

An Inventor in Newark, says the New York Sun, has succeeded in finding ompound which will hold alcohol i suspension in a solid form, and he de clares that his discovery is both new and useful. Whether it be true that no one clae has ever before succeeded in getting alcohol into a solid form, it is certain that no one has put in into the market in that shape. There is no doubt as to the usefulness and advantage of such a compound. The inventor contemplates its use solely as fuel. Whether it could be used for there seem to be other possibilities for

JONAS LONG'S SONS.

After the inventor had exhibited sample of the solidified alcohol to ; Sun reporter and explained its uses, he offered to prove the character of the compound in a practical way by making some of it for the reporter if the reporter would go to his workshop in Newark and take with him his own supply of alcohol. The only stipulation made was that the alcohol should be at least 95 per cent. in strength, as Tea Sets, the presence of water would prevent the success of the process. The reporter accepted the proposition, and went to Newark, taking with him a half-pint whiskey flask, filled with 95 per cent, wood alcohol. The inventor measured out the alcohol, and then for every two ounces of pound shaped like a piece of pie, and cut from a box the size and shape of a stove blacking box. Each slice of this And number of odd and end pieces. compound was about an inch wide at the circumference of the box, half an inch thick, and one and one-half inches long. What this was composed of is the inventor's secret. It felt waxy, and was light and porous, and from its smell had evidently been prepared with wood alcohol. The alcohol and this compound wer heated together in a water bath until the alcohol boiled, and at that temperature the compound in it melted and mixed with it, forming a clear liquid except for a pink coloring which was an arbitrary addition to the waxy compound. The mixture was now set and in a short time it became a stiff paste. It is in this form that the inventor purposes to put it on the market. Although it smells strongly of the alcohol, the mixture seems to be stable and samples which were put up in two-ounce tin boxes three months ago have lost little by evaporation, If a lighted match is touched to the alcohol paste it melts on the surface and take fire, burning freely with the charac teristic blue alcohol flame, only with a tinge of yellow added at the outer part. Burning freely in the box and giving a flame big enough to heat a chafing dish, a two-ounce box of paste kept lighted for about two hours where the same alcohol in a liquid form would have burned out in ten minutes.

Many uses for the new paste will occur to the reader. Alcohol is one of the most desirable of fuels for many purposes, and in a form where it can be transported without danger of its eaking or spilling would have an added value for hunting and canoeing trips and for exploring expeditions. Instead of a can of the fluid, my lady can have boxes of the paste to light under her chafing dish or to heat a curling iron, and a man can use it to heat shaving water or to made a toddy. If eight persons, and being equipped with the mixture be heated to a melting point and then kept in agitation while it cools, it does not harden, but the hardening compound separates and to held in suspension. In this state the liquid alcohol might be recovered, and this suggests other uses for the compound.
