Three Interesting Essays Read in the Morning at Simpson Church-Discussion Led by Dr. Giffin-"The Club vs. the Home" Ably Handled by Rev. E. V. Armstrong-Rev. G. T. Price, Rev. C. M. Surdam and Others Spoke in the Afternoon. Business of the Evening Session.

The annual meeting of the Ministerial association of the Wyoming district, which began Monday evening in Simpson Methodist Episcopal church, was resumed yesterday and three sesions held, each being well attended, Much interest was manifested in the discussions of the ministers present and each session was replete with good fellowship, timely suggestions and able papers and addresses. Rev. Austin Griffin, D. D., presiding elder, was in charge of the sessions, and the secretary, Frank W. Young, acted as clerk during each session. The final session of the meeting was held last

At the morning session many committees were named and several interesting papers read. It was decided to accept the invitation of Rev. J. R. Wagner to hold the next annual session at his church in Luzerne, Rev. J. L. Race, of Rendham, will deliver the association address at the next annual session with Rev. L. E. Mogg. of Wilkes-Barre, as alternate. The association sermon will be delivered by Rev. N. J. Hawley, of Askam, with Rev. L. E. Van Horsen as alternate. Dinner was served at 12.30 o'clock by the Ladies' Aid society and tea at 5.30 o'clock by the members of the Epworth league chapter,

The morning session opened shortly after 9 o'clock. The devotional exercises were led by Rev. Abel Wrigley of Lehman, speaking from Isaiah III. Prayer was offered by Rev. J. F. Wagner, of Wilkes-Barre; F. A. King. of Parsons, and Wilson Treible, of

NEXT MEETING AT LUZERNE. All visiting clergymen not members of the association were invited to participate in the services as corresponding members. Rev. J. R. tist church had the first verse of the control. first psalm for a theme: "Hiessed is the man that walketh not in the counsel of the ungodly nor standeth in the way of sinners, nor sitteth in the seat of the scornful."

The speaker said that this was conby the world. All literature seems to be filled with an unspeakable sadness, as if happiness and blessedness are myths.

Schopenhauer sums up his advice and conception of life as the best thing a man can do is to go home and cut his throat. He believes the instincts in the soul of man, the unrest, the longing are delusions. But God gives songs in the night. He gives happiness and blessedness.

The counsel of the ungodly leads to death. The unregenerate heart is lawless. Disorder against God's law is the human heart. The speaker declared: "I'd as soon ask the devil as ask an unconverted man to tell me the way to satisfy my restless soul. The footmarks of the world are all away from God. If you are going to do only as the majority do, you are going to be

In speaking of rebellions, he said: Run Over by a Trip of Loaded Cars 'You were strong in the Revolution because you had the right on your side, Every Britisher feels sure you were sia, nor the others can't love ye like your own auld muther."

ENCHANTED GROVE OF BEES The Buzzing Audible, but Not a Bee

Can be Found. From the Galveston News, Away back in the fifties there was a Shawnee Indian village on the South Canadian river, about eighty-five miles west of South McAlester, but the old village has long since disappeared. On the spot where the young Shawnee buck sang his kiowala to his dusky maiden and courted his best girl by the light of the full moon, only an occasional rock hearth and a few graves are left to indicate the former hunting grounds of the red man

Near the old village site now lives white man. Just on the border of this man's farm is a spot which seems to have been the thickest part of the Shawnee village, and here is a grove of black oak trees. In this grove are two very large postoak trees, one the gouth and one in the north end of the grove. In the grove can be heard most any day buzzing of a swarm of bees so plainly that the noise has fooled many old bee hunters, but all their search has never revealed a single bee. Now comes the most peculiar part of Iron Beds, etc. Five large floors full this most peculiar tale. The large postoak tree standing at the north end of to the celling-at the grove is the curiosity of the bunch, for not long ago a young man, hearing of the been went to the spot and pro-ceeded to look carefully up each tree in the grove until he came to the north tree. He was within two feet of this tree, looking up, when he heard a noise just like a carpenter at work nailing on boards, and the noise seemed to come from the tree. He went around it several times trying to locate the hammering, but it still seemed to come from the tree. The hammering con-tinued until he happened to touch the tree with his hand, when it suddenly stopped. The man then went away amazed. A day or so after this man had occasion to again pass that way, He slipped up to the tree and listened, for the hammering, and, sure enough, It was as plain as ever. He touched the tree with the end of his finger, and, as before, the noise stopped at once, This man and several others have tried with the same result. They say that the humming of beer
