

EVENTS OF DAY IN WEST SCRANTON

MEMORY OF THE WELSH PATRON HONORED LAST NIGHT.

Congregation of the Tabernacle Congregational Church Conduct Their Ninth Annual Affair of St. David's Day—Exercises Comprised a Banquet and Entertainment—Original Poem Read by Morfudd—B. Hughes Presided—Shores Under a Cloud—Minor Notes of Interest.

The ninth annual banquet and entertainment of the congregation of the Tabernacle Congregational church was held last evening at the church on South Hyde Park avenue in commemoration of the anniversary of St. David, the Welsh patron saint.

The supper was well patronized, and the entertainment was attended by an audience that completely filled the auditorium, standing room only being available when the exercises commenced. The platform was decorated with potted plants, and an American flag prettily draped from a balcony.

The first number on the programme was a soprano solo by Mrs. Frank Hendricks, who sang "The Holy City" with remarkably fine effect. Her effort was thoroughly appreciated and greeted with rapturous applause.

The address of the evening was delivered by Attorney Charles E. Daniels on the "Welsh-Americans of Today." He referred to the land of our forefathers, their literature, poetry and song, and paid a glowing tribute to the faithfulness and devotion to country of their descendants.

Speaking along the lines of the recent Spanish-American war, Attorney Daniels referred to General Miles as being a Welshman who was proud of his ancestry, and expressed the belief that if there were more men like General Miles in the army, the regulars and volunteers would be better off than they are today, and would not have been permitted to partake of "embalmed beef" and other such injurious provisions.

The speaker also referred to the service rendered by Gen. O. F. Williams, formerly of this city, to Admiral Dewey at Manila, and paid homage to the boys of the Thirtieth regiment, many of whom were the sons, brothers and friends of many of his hearers.

In closing he referred to Wales as the land of our un-conquered forefathers and recited a selection appropriate to the occasion.

Philip Warren and Joshua John sang a duet "Call to Arms," which was well received, and Hugh A. Jones read an original composition in Welsh, especially of this city, to Admiral Dewey at Manila, and paid homage to the boys of the Thirtieth regiment, many of whom were the sons, brothers and friends of many of his hearers.

Henry P. Davies made an address in Welsh on "The Patron Saint of Wales," which was well received, and Joshua John also sang a solo in Welsh, which was well received.

taking the spade of criticism and removing the sands of superstition, had piled more abuse upon him, and finally concluded there was nothing underneath it all. St. David was a strong Republican in his principles, and a devoted religious and civil liberty; a man who did not bend his knee to any one but his God. He was a scholar and yet there is no proof that he possessed any supernatural power. Public speakers are to be blamed for repeating old stories about the miracles of St. David. The speaker concluded with a few anecdotes which were heartily enjoyed.

The exercises were brought to a close by the rendition of a duet by Mrs. Lewis and Joshua Johns and the reading of the following poem written by Mrs. George Powell (Merford).

SAINT DAVID, great, renowned, sublime, Acknowledged thus by some historians fair, Tradition claims for him much greater fame, The church of Rome his miracle declares, So good was he, embellishment would be To decorate the lily or the rose, To trail a thick-leaved vine around a tree Whose shade the tree would kill, the fruit enclose.

Some writers say he never did exist Just so with Adam, while others claim He was a Devil myth, as Apollo, Jupiter and Venus of Grecian fame.

Let all that has been said, be true or false His life was an ever-lasting spring, Like the eternal fountain of western fame, The brightest, rarest flowers to view would bring.

An earnest student, so the story goes, For ten long years in a lonely cave He studied well, the wondrous word of God, His time and talent, all to him he gave, His monestries fifty-five in all, Prove his love for things both good and grand; In the digits for freedom of religious thought He conquered Palagius and drove him from the land.

Well might we as a nation look with pride Into the past, and see a hero's life, With character as pure as the falling snow, A character with which the Celtic race began.

All honor then to David, patron saint! This is the day the Welshmen celebrate, The one and only, the emblem which they wear. In memory keeps the worthy poet, The general of the evening and played with characteristic ease and grace.

The celebration was the most successful ever held by the church, and demonstrates that each succeeding year adds interest to the observance.

MAY GO HARD WITH SHORES. The arrest of Charles F. Shores last week for assault and battery, the charge being preferred by his wife, may yet result more seriously than anticipated.

Alderman John West, of Scranton, Pa., I understand you are, as one of the officers of the city of Scranton, interested in the arrest of Charles F. Shores, kindred to yours, and to ask you a little time his wife has complained of his inhuman treatment of her, and if one-half of the reports are true, "inhuman" is a mild word to use when speaking of his treatment of her.

She is now here in the village, and her condition is so dangerous that the doctors have forbidden her being removed to her father's some three miles distant, and doubt is expressed as to her recovery. I think these facts should be taken into consideration if he makes application for bail, and I presume would have some influence on the persons who might be applied to act as sureties.

WILL PETITION COUNCIL. The residents of the Fifteenth ward who are complaining about the removal of the police telephone box from the corner of South Main avenue and Hampton street, to the Columbia house on Division street will circulate a petition today in the Fifteenth ward to be signed by all interested and will be thereafter presented to council, asking for the return of the box and telephone.

The argument advanced is that heretofore the patrolman on that post would report at 11 p. m., 1 and 3 a. m., and it was an easy matter to find an officer if one was wanted. Now they do not know whether the patrolman, so they state, can be found at those hours or not.

Furthermore, they argue, since the box has been removed it is necessary to walk to Division street if assistance is required, and they claim the protection is insufficient. The box was removed on Saturday last and they either want it returned or replaced by another.

SALVATION ARMY SERVICES. Brigadier Gifford, of Philadelphia, conducted a special meeting at the Salvation Army barracks on Price street last evening.

There is a Class of People Who are injured by the use of coffee. Recently there has been placed in all the grocery stores a new preparation called GRAIN-O, made of pure grains, that takes the place of coffee.

Just that your grocer gives you GRAIN-O. Accept no imitation.

The remains of the late Mrs. Margaret Finn were borne from her late home in Wright's court yesterday morning to St. Peter's cathedral, where at 9.30 o'clock a requiem mass was celebrated. Interment was made in the Catholic cemetery.

RECALLED TO LIFE. Warner's Safe Cure Gives Mr. Vansett Better Health Than Ever.

This is a typical case of Bright's disease described with great force and clearness. Mr. Vansett's fear of madness was well grounded. The weak kidneys did not take decayed tissues from the blood, and every hour the poison in the system was increasing. Every time a beat of the heart pumped blood to the brain, that wonderful organ was poisoned. What a relief it is to know that you have turned your back on sickness and danger! And what a blessing it is Warner's Safe Cure, which will enable you to do so.

"I secretly feared that I was losing my mind." The man who uttered these words is a respected citizen of Philadelphia, who has passed through about as much bodily pain and mental torture as a man can endure and still live. In the midst of extreme bodily weakness came the dreadful shadow of insanity. Mere death has no horror to compare with that.

G. A. Vansett is a retired shoe manufacturer, residing at 1008 Milton street, who suffered for many years with kidney trouble and vainly sought relief until he took Warner's Safe Cure. Although he is older than most men, he is in better health than he ever hoped to attain.

"Ten years ago," he says, "I had a complication of diseases that puzzled the doctors, and matters were made worse by worry over my business. When I got out of bed, I was so shaky that only by the use of stimulants could I keep on my feet. My head ached continually; my appetite was gone, and nothing tasted right. I felt lame all over and the flesh was sore on my bones. Unusual excitement or annoyance left me exhausted and flabby as an old sponge. I could not sleep, and the least noise sounded like cannonading or thunder. During the day I got drowsy and could not fix my thoughts on any subject. Sheer force of will kept me going. I secretly feared that I was losing my mind."

"A trip abroad seemed to do me good, but I had not been back three weeks, when my old trouble returned. I had an intense itching of the skin at night. A noted physician told me I had Bright's disease in a stage so far advanced that, although medicine might prolong my life, I would do well to put my affairs in order."

"I did not dare to tell my wife. I had read accounts of Bright's disease being overcome by Warner's Safe Cure, and determined to try this remedy as a last resort. Unknown to my family, I began taking it, and soon realized its good effect. To make a long story short, it made me well, and in six months I looked and felt like another man. Thanks to Warner's Safe Cure, my old age is healthier than my youth was."
