SCRANTON ARTIST.—In the current number of Wilson's Photographic Magazine appears a page of reproductions of photographs by C. L. Griffin, of this city, among them appearing portraits of well known residents of Scranton. The following notice is appended: "The portraits engraved together are from the studio of Mr. C. L. Griffin, of Scranton, Pa., secretary of the Pennsylvania association. Mr. Griffin has watched the new movement in portraiture with a good deal of interest and has experimented considerably along the lines followed by Hollinger, Minna, Appleton, Pierce, etc. He recognizes, however, that for his particular field straight-forward portraiture is the line of success. To this end he has kept his work free from 'notions,' seeking characteristic likeness, a pleasing and harmonious lighting for his subjects. The result has been continual growth and a steady increase in business."

WILKES-BARRE CONVENTIONS.
Preparations Being Made for Several This Year in the Sister City.

Seventeen years ago the members of the Grand Army of the Republic held a state convention in Wilkes-Barre. They will hold a second one in that city June 7 and 8, next. Judge Alfred Darte, who is chairman of the local reception committee, has completed the preliminary details. It is expected that over 2,000 delegates will attend the sessions, and in the Women's Relief Corps and Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic, both auxiliary to the Grand Army of the Republic, will hold their state annual conventions at the same time, the number will be further augmented. Governor Stone and his staff have been invited and will probably attend. President McKinley and the cabinet have also received invitations.

The state encampment of the Patriotic Order Sons of America, will be convened in Wilkes-Barre Tuesday, June 7, to last four days. The sessions will be held at the Grand Opera house and it is expected that nearly 1,000 delegates will be in attendance. A parade is always held on the last day of the convention and arrangements have been made for the marching of 5,000 men this year.

SHANNON SOMEWHAT WORSE.
Was Very Restless and Feverish Up to a Late Hour Yesterday.

What seems to be a change for the worse in the condition of John Shannon, the wounded burglar, at the Lackawanna hospital, was noticeable yesterday early in the day and late last night he was very feverish.

A young woman, who claims to be Miss Mary Shannon, a sister of the wounded man, has visited him several days, and, by his request, read passages of Scripture to him. She says she is the sister of John Shannon in the Tribune as being in Philadelphia. Shannon called her Margaret at that time. Miss Shannon is at present out of the city, but has engaged rooms on Adams avenue and expects to spend much of her time with her brother, who is as patient as her brother as to his identity.

Chief of Police W. A. Gilman, of Shamokin, was asked to locate the man Mulligan, extensively mentioned in an afternoon newspaper in this city. Chief Gilman says there is no such man as Mulligan, no such number as 926, and no such street as West 21st, for the Market street in Shamokin runs north and south. The chief believes that Mulligan was never in Shamokin and the alleged letter was either a hoax or a forgery.

There is little to add to the previous announcements for today's celebration. Everything is in ship-shape order and all that is necessary to make the affair an immense success is good weather. "Cloudy; rain, probable," is the guess of the weather bureau at midnight. The local indications, it is regrettable to say, made the word "likely" more applicable.

J. Fuhrman will this morning, bright and early, begin the work of decorating the Lyceum, while a corps of his men and those of other decorators, set with anything like fair weather, set to work draping many of the large buildings of the central city. Many buildings were decorated yesterday by their occupants and before noon today the city will be flecked from end to end with flags and bunting.

PROSECUTOR IN TROUBLE.
Powell Petrus, of North Scranton, Charged with Swearing Falsely.

Several months ago, Alexander Simolitch was brought to this city from far-off Kansas, after considerable trouble and expense, to answer a charge of robbery. Powell Petrus, with whom Simolitch boarded, was prosecutor and furnished information under oath to the effect that the boarder had taken $500 away with him which was in his trunk.

After Simolitch was brought here and arraigned for trial, it came out that he only owed Petrus a small amount of money for board and the other charge was trumped up to have him brought here. Yesterday Petrus was given a hearing by Alderman Howe, charged with perjury. Chief of Police Kolling was prosecutor. Defendant was held in $500 bail for his appearance at court.

PLANNING TO ORGANIZE.
Shop Employees of the Various Corporations Will Form a Union.

A meeting of the shop employees of the several corporations in this city was held in Workingmen's hall, South Scranton, and about 250 men were present. The purpose of the meeting was to consider plans of organization.

Little else than the simple discussion of ways and means was done, and the meeting adjourned to be held in a few days. The movement has been under way for several weeks and it is intended to form a union to be affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. Should the venture prove a success over 2,000 men will be affected and it would be the largest body of organized laboring men in any one city in the United States.

THE CHARMING SONG CYCLE.
"TAKE TIME BY THE FORELOCK."

Something About an Event That is Awakening Much Interest.

The interest evinced in the prospective performance of the charming Song Cycle "In a Persian Garden" is growing daily. All our music-loving people are anticipating the event with keen delight. "The Ruboyatz" is being asked for at the library that the text may become familiar and inquiries are being made for the score that the music may be studied. In order that all may have a clear understanding of the work the following description is given:

This novel and beautiful work was performed for the first time in New York under the direction of Mr. Victor Harris, on February 8, 1898, and met with a success so strong and complete that before the music season of 1897-98 was at an end, it was recognized as one of the most original, striking and uniformly successful musical works ever brought to the notice of a metropolitan public.

The work is written in concert form, that is, to be given on the concert platform, without the need of scenery or costumes, and is to be rendered by a quartette of singers—soprano, contralto, tenor and bass—to the accompaniment of the piano. It consists of twelve numbers, three of which are scored for the quartette, one a duo for one and the remaining eight for the different solo voices. In addition to there are a number of short but beautiful recitative passages. The music is extremely melodious, graceful and effective, and reproduces in the most intimate fashion the tenderest, the deepest, the philosophy of that fine old Persian poet of the Twelfth century, whose "divine despair" (as Tennyson aptly quotes it) has been made alive to the modern world by the translation of Edward Fitzgerald.

At every performance given during last season, this work, so different from the usual routine of concert, brought to the power of its noble text and music to bear upon its audience, so that they were held under its enchantment to the end, in a spirit fascinated by the beauty of great thoughts and great expression of thoughts.
