THE SCRANTON TRIBUNE-THURSDAY, MARCH 30, 1899.

THINK THIS OVER.

The night previous John J. Davies

Suddenly stricken by that deadly malady, paralysis, ex-Patrolman Thomas Noon lies in a critical condition at his residence, corner of Bloom avenue and Cayuga street. The unfortunate street man is only forty-five years of age, and up to a few months ago had enjoyed good health. Recently he was quite ill with the grip, which may have superinduced the attack of paralysis.

Other Notes of Interest.

Mr. Noon served for over a year on the police force under the regime of Mayor Frank Beamish. A sad circumstance connected with Mr. Noon's affliction is the fact that Mrs. Noon, who has suffered from cancer of the stomach for over two years, is at present seriously ill. Four little girls comprise the family, and kind neighbors are doing all they can to alleviate their distress.

CHURCH SERVICES.

There was a large audience at the Presbyterian church last evening to hear Rev. Geo. E. Guild's talk on the "Dying Christ on Calvary." This was of their new edifice. the last mid-week meeting of a series prepared for the month of March These Wednesday evening meetings have been very successful and the probabilities are that similar meetings will be held next month.

On Friday evening next at the above church H. H. McKeehan, superintendent of the Sunday school, will have a blackboard review on "The Events and Seyings of the Crucifixion from the First to the Ninth Hour." Everybody is cordially invited to be pres-
