SOUTH SCRANTON.

The Scranton Athletic club, one of the strongest organizations on this side, closed a contract yesterday by which they become the owners of Saengerrunde hall, otherwise known as Natter's hall, on Alder street. For some time past a committee representing the club were looking around for a suitable meeting place for the club and they, after due consideration, decided to take Natter's hall.

The location is one of the best on this side and the building itself is all that would be required for club purposes. The residence in the front is one of the oldest on this side and is in a sense a landmark.

In a short time the Athletics will enovate the entire property, tearing down the residence, which will be replaced by a more modern and commodious building. At a recent meeting of the club a committee was appointed and instructed to recall all cans of the association, so that they might begin work on the repairs at once. The rooms now occupied by the club are not as suitable for a club as would be desired, and the proposed change is welcomed by younger members especially.

The need of a large hall on this side has long been felt, and if the association can supply this it will be but a short time until the place pays for itself. For the present the club will meet at the old rooms, corner of Hickory street and Pittston avenue.

John Culkin, of Genet street, was residence near Nay Aug yesterday afternoon. Culkin, who is a stone mason, was at work on top of a high wall and in some manner slipped and fell to the ground, breaking his ankle and also his nose. He also suffered from a severe shaking up.
