THE GOVERNOR'S PROCEEDINGS IN QUAY CASE

Under the Court's Ruling the Now Famous "Red Book" Is Finally Admitted.

The "red book" found in Cashier Hopkins' desk after his suicide, and upon the admission of which the commonwealth so largely rests its tinued examination of William E. case, was the shaft the district attorney aimed at the defence. To pave the way for the final effort to introduce the book itself he succeeded after frequent clashes with opposing counsel, sometimes bitter and personal, in presenting expert testimony to prove that the book was necessarily a book of the bank, as accounts in the books admitted under the court's ruling would rive. He carried an armful of books be made intelligible by the "red book," and papers, and it became apparent Before starting his examination Mr. upon the arrival of Mr. Quay's remain-Rothermel read to the court a state- ing counsel that at almost any stage of today's proceedings would come the ment of what he intended to prove, The expert, he said, had made a thor-ough examination of all the books in book." Harrisburg, April 14.-Governor Stone returned to the house today without his approval a concurrent resolution authorizing the appointment of a committee of two senators and three members to inquire into the alleged infraction of the law by the Susquehanna Coal company, which has sold the dam in the Susquehanna river at Columbia to a company chartered to furnish motive power. The governor sums up his objections to the resolution 'n the following terms:

"The resolution makes no provision for the payment of the expenses of the committee, which, I take, it means that the state will be called on at a later period to pay the expenses of the proposed investigation. I am strongly of the opinion that the expenses of all investigating committees should be limited in the resolution creating them, otherwise most unreasonable demands will be made upon the state treasury.

For this and other reasons that could be urged with propriety, I feel it to be my duty to withhold my approval." The governor also returns to the house without his approval the following bills:

The enlarge the competency of the wife to testify against her husband; granting a pension of $8 a month to Evan Jones for injuries received in a rallroad collision on a train coming from Green Castle to Harrisburg in 1862 while a private in Company I,

First Degree Verdict in Case of the Easton Man.

Easton, Pa., April 14 .- The jury in the case of Llewellyn Stout, whose trial for the murder of Harvey Wuster, the Philadelphia and Reading telegraph operator at Bingen station, returned a verdict tonight of murder in the first degree, after being out three hours. Sentence will be pronounced Monday. Wuster was the night operator at the railroad station, and on the night of Jan, 6 his body was found lying in the office by a railroad brakeman. He had been beaten to death with an iron oupling pin, Suspicion pointed to Stout, and on being arrested he confessed to the officers that he had killed monwealth, together with the warden Wuster. He is only 19 years of age. The motive of the crime is supposed to have been robbery. Evidence was presented at the trial that he had told everal persons before the crime that he wanted money to go to Philadelphia to join the army.

The defence endeavored to show that Stout was insane when he committed the deed.

New York, April 14 .- Richard Croker was on the stand today before the Mazet investigating committee and he for the Friendless, Erie, $5,000; Home will be on the stand again tomorrow. John F. Carroll, the Tammany leader's deputy, was also put through a course of questions this afternoon. Judge Joseph F. Jaly, whom the Demcrats refused to nominate for justice of the supreme court last fall, told of his treatment by Mr. Croker and Tammany, while other prominent witnesses contributed testimony that went to make the day a most notable one in the investigation into the city's affairs.

The examination of Richard Croker was a remarkable one, chiefly by reason of the answers which he returned to the questions propounded to him by Mr. Moss. He was brief and direct and took advantage of the many opportunities afforded him to retort in a manner that evoked applause many times from those gathered in the committee room. Mr. Croker gave events a somewhat dramatic turn, when, after refusing to answer several questions concerning his private affairs, he held up his right hand and said impressively: "If you can show me where I have taken a single dollar from the city. 70% can cut that arm off." When the Tammany chief went on

Some Thick Bushes-Five North Dakotians Are Slain-Soldiers Enter San Antonio and Meet with Little Resistance.

Manila, April 14.-7.55 p. m.-General Lawton is marching north along the road between the hills and the lake, with the gunboats Napidan and Laguna de Bay abreast of his troops. The enemy is retreating northward.

On Wednesday the troops crossed the Paghanjan and concentrated at Lambun at the mouth of the river. After leaving two companies of the Fourenth regiment to guard the entrance of the river, the troops marched to Longas and found it deserted. Furniture which had been dropped in the flight of the natives was scattered along the trails leading into the hills. Major Weisenberger's sharpshooters ere sent toward Pactos at Contonia in the forenoon. They ran upon a nest of rebels in some thick bushes which afforded a splendid cover. Five men of the North Dakota regiment were killed and two were wounded, two of he former dying after having been brought to Longas church, where Father McKinnon administered the sacrament to them. The rebels then caped into the hills.

The main body of the American roops, while at dinner in Longas, heard the firing and advanced to the support of the sharpshooters. A scout from a hill saw the little fight and many white coats running into the hills. The Laguna de Bay, at the beginning of the fight, shelled the hills, making them too hot for the enemy.

nature and purpose. Mr. Goldsmith said that when he first opened the "red book" he did not consider it a book of the bank, but when he compared the calculations entered on its pages with transactions in the other books he was forced to consider it a book of the bank. He explained this by saying that prior to 1891 calculations such as appeared in the "red book" were regularly entered in the ledger, but since then the "red book" had been substituted and fulfilled and fixed the same results.

The Missing Page.

During the cross-examination this witness, which was conducted by Mr. Shields, he testified to a page which was missing. The defence repeatedly endeavored to get from him the statement that there might have been figures and words on that page which would clearly explain the entries on the other pages, and that the book as it now stands is unreliable. This was ruled out, following an objection by the district attorney. would seem to indicate that when the final effort to present the book in evidence comes tomorrow, the defence will make another determined opposition to it on the ground, even if the court should decide that with relation to the transactions testified to it is a and book of the bank.
