ARRIVAL OF THE RALEIGH

Thousands Welcome the Warship That Fired the First Shot at Manila.

The Cruiser, Accompanied by Two Small Ships Captured from Spaniards, Parades from Tompkinsville to Grant's Tomb—Officers and Sailors on the Ship Are Drenched—The Captain and Crew Formally Welcomed by Mayor Van Wyck. Naval Procession Was Led by the Glen Island. Special Demonstration at Governor's Island.

New York, April 16.—The celebration which attended the return of the United States cruiser Raleigh from Manila, which had to be postponed yesterday, owing to the warship's late arrival, occurred today. The vessel accompanied by two small warships captured from the Spaniards last summer and a host of about twenty-five excursion steamers and tug boats, paraded from Tompkinsville to Grant's Tomb and from there back to anchor-orage in the North river, off Thirty-fourth street. It would have been difficult to have selected more incident or disagreeable weather than that which prevailed all the time that the Raleigh was passing in review before the thousands of enthusiastic people who lined the river banks and gave their hearty cheers of welcome home.

The cruiser left her anchorage off Tompkinsville for her parade up the bay and Hudson river shortly before noon. An hour before that time a drizzling rain commenced to fall and the sun turned into a steady downpour, which continued the remainder of the day. The air was raw and the officers and men of the Raleigh stood upon the decks three hours, drenched to the skin and shivering with the cold. There were a few exceptions, however, and the front in the lower part of the city, owing partly to the weather and partly to the fact that the entrances to the piers are generally closed on Sundays, but great crowds assembled in Riverside Park, overlooking the Hudson, and many women and children stood there for hours under umbrellas watching the vessels on their way up the river and on their return.

AT GRANT'S TOMB.

By far the greatest gathering of people in the vicinity of Grant's tomb, which was the turning point of the parade. A national salute was fired there by the Raleigh and also by the captured Spanish prizes, and the scene was rendered a memorable one by the shrieking of a hundred steam whistles from excursion boats and locomotives and cheers from thousands of people on shore and on the vessels in the river. The Raleigh lay at anchor off Tompkinsville all the morning, and no special excitement attended her presence there until about 10 o'clock, when several excursion steamers arrived from the city, ran alongside of her and cheered her time and again. Mrs. Coghlan, the wife of the commander of the cruiser, arrived at Tompkinsville between 5 and 10 o'clock when she took a small boat and went out to the Raleigh and welcomed her husband. Captain Coghlan was apprised early of the intentions of the citizens' reception committee to visit the Raleigh and accompany the cruiser on the parade. He had his crew give her hull a fresh coat of paint during the time between daybreak and the hour set for the arrival of the committee, and all the officers prepared for the occasion by putting on full dress. Rain commenced to fall soon after 10 o'clock, and an hour later the decks were flooded and every one on the Raleigh was seeking shelter wherever it could be found. Boats of all descriptions continued to arrive from the city and each man ran up as close to the Raleigh as possible and cheered her. The two captured Spanish gunboats, the Alvarado and Sandoval, arrived from the bay and joined in the parade, both dressed gaily with flags and bunting, and they created almost as much enthusiasm as the Raleigh herself.

THE OFFICIAL WELCOME.

About 11 o'clock the large steamer Glen Island arrived, carrying the citizens' reception committee, headed by Mayor Van Wyck, and also having on board a number of invited guests. A delegation of the committee met the Raleigh. All hands on the cruiser were called to quarters and Mayor Van Wyck and the other committee members were received with naval formality. Captain Coghlan stood at the gangway and received the visitors and escorted them immediately to his cabin. The ceremonies there were very brief, consuming not more than five minutes. The mayor in a few words welcomed the Raleigh to New York, extended the freedom of the city to officers and men, apologized for the disagreeable weather and assured Captain Coghlan of a hearty welcome. Captain Coghlan replied briefly. The committee did not stop about a minute after the formalities of the welcome aboard. There was no inspection of the vessel; in fact, that would have been almost impossible in the drenching rain that was falling at the time. The committee returned to the Glen Island at once, and as Mayor Van Wyck left the side of the Raleigh he received a salute of fifteen guns.

PREPARATIONS WERE MADE.

Preparations were made then to get under way for the parade. The Raleigh was headed down the stream at the time, and when she raised her anchor and swung around slowly the whistles on all the boats near her shrieked a salute, and all the people on the excursion boats cheered and waved handkerchiefs and flags. The Glen Island led the procession of vessels, and the Raleigh followed just astern of her. The Alvarado and Sandoval took position off the bow of the cruiser, and police boats, tugs and the excursion boats followed in double column. There was no special demonstration until Governor's Island was passed, when a national salute was fired. About this point the coast guard steamer Pathfinder, with Assistant Secretary of the Navy Alton Adair, joined the procession, following just in the wake of the Raleigh. From the time the Raleigh left the Battery until she reached Grant's tomb, about this point the coast guard steamer Pathfinder, with Assistant Secretary of the Navy Alton Adair, joined the procession, following just in the wake of the Raleigh. From the time the Raleigh left the Battery until she reached Grant's tomb, about this point the coast guard steamer Pathfinder, with Assistant Secretary of the Navy Alton Adair, joined the procession, following just in the wake of the Raleigh.

LITTLE ATTENTION TO STORM.

The officers paid little attention to the storm, and waved their caps constantly, not appearing to mind the soaking which their dress uniforms and their bodies as well received. As for the sailors, Captain Coghlan was obliged to have his head to the rain a great part of the time, in waving his cap in response to the salutes and cheers of passing vessels.
