He was charged with having robbed William Coyle, an old man, who lives alone in Fell township on the old road to Crystal lake. He was filling a pint bottle when it collapsed in his hand and cut a deep gash at the base of the thumb, severing a small artery. Much difficulty was experienced in stopping the copious flow of blood. Dr. D. L. Bailey dressed the wound.

He was suffering shock and conditions do not favor his recovery.

JERMYN AND MAYFIELD.

Oliver P. Morgan, a well-known and respected resident of this borough, died at his home on Main street at 5 o'clock yesterday morning. Deceased had been in failing health for some years and during the past winter had such a severe spell of sickness that at one time his death was expected. For several weeks past his health had improved so that he was able to be out of doors. A few days ago he suffered a relapse, which ended in his death. During his residence here he was always an active and hard-working man and by his industry had accumulated considerable property. He is survived by a wife and two sons, Will and George. CURES WITHOUT PAIN.

One of the Best Features of the New Pile Cure.

The Pyramid Pile Cure cures all forms of piles without one particle of pain. This desirable point is not obtained by the use of injurious opiates which simply deaden and paralyze the nerves of the parts and make matters worse in the long run. But it is done solely by its remarkable healing and soothing effects.

And while it thus gives immediate relief, at the same time the disease is not merely checked, but a radical cure is accomplished.

And the point we want to make clear is that all this is done without a particle of pain.

This fact is one great reason for the popularity of the Pyramid Pile Cure. It is one of the very great differences between it and almost any other treatment for piles.

Every kind of surgical operation for piles is excruciatingly painful besides endangering the life of the patient and in most cases is not to be compared with the Pyramid Pile Cure, neither in making successful cures without pain nor in cheapness and safety.

The Pyramid Pile Cure has been before the public so long, and its merits recognized by too many people to allow it to be classed with the many salves, suppositories, pills, etc., and you run no risk in trying it, as it is often the case with untried preparations.

If you are ever troubled with any form of piles or rectal disease do not forget the Pyramid Pile Cure. Prepared by the Pyramid Drug Co., of Marshall, Mich., and sold by druggists at 50 cents per package.

consequence of the deal was that the Jermyn man had on his hands a horse that would not pull an empty wagon, and had lost a fairly good animal. He was still mourning the fate that threw him in contact with the Carbondale man when on Sunday evening his old horse came walking quietly along the road to the barn. Will, his old stall, took the horse in and gave him his stall. He then took the Carbondale man's horse up to his original home and placed him carefully in the barn. On returning he met the owner, who had been searching for his missing animal. He was at first highly pleased to think it had been found and returned, but when he discovered it was the worthless creature he had traded his pleasure turned to indignation and resulted in his having Hossie arrested yesterday on the charge of horse stealing. He was taken before Squire Atkinson at Carbondale last evening and given a hearing. The Carbondale man failing to substantiate the crime of horse stealing, Hossie was discharged.

TUNKHANNOCK.

Nearly everyone unites in praising Foreman G. A. Skinner, and the members of his efficient fire company for their good work during the recent fires in this town. The first fire in the town occurred on the morning of March 15th at 10 o'clock a. m. in the Gray block, corner Warren and Toga streets. The fire started in the basement of the store occupied by M. J. Leonard and against the partition dividing that store from the T. B. Grenville Drug store. When the company got to work the two buildings were filled with smoke and it was a hard matter to locate the fire. Nevertheless they succeeded in containing the fire to the two buildings, which were alive when they began to work. The next fire was on the 15th of the same month about 1 o'clock a. m. in the furniture store of T. S. Burson. The members of the company had been up a good share of the night before at the Gray fire, nevertheless they made a quick response to this alarm. In ten minutes after the host was laid the fire was out, there being no smoke to cope with in this case. Next was the Biddleman fire in the rooms over the Spaco store which occurred on the 14th of April at 10:30 p. m. Here the company went upstairs with a line of hose and got onto the fire immediately and in half an hour it was all over. Then the next afternoon at 4 p. m. occurred the fire in the lower end of town near the residence of T. M. Harding. This was unimportant except for the quick response of the company. The last of the series was the recent fire in the Spaco store, which occurred about 5 o'clock last Sunday afternoon. This is acknowledged by everyone to have been the most stubborn fire, and the hardest to handle that has occurred in the town since the organization of the fire company. The good work they did may be realized from the fact that the people in the adjacent buildings began to move their goods out, thinking the fire would get beyond control. Sandwiched between the two last fires was the fire at Eatonville, in the store of F. J. Wheeler. Here, although they could not use their apparatus, the Tritons did good work in the bucket brigade, and were a large factor in the moving of five fires not one of them has been allowed to spread from the building where they originated. This is a record which a paid city department might be proud of.

soprano, and Professor E. J. Richards delighted a large audience at the Methodist Episcopal church, Monday evening. The entertainment was given under the auspices of the Piano society of the Methodist Episcopal church, a meeting of the Wilson Fire company, the Methodist Episcopal church, W. J. Broad, W. H. Stevens and Charles Jenkins were appointed as a soliciting committee to call upon our business men and coal companies and solicit financial aid for the purchase of a drop harness and horse wagon. At present the heavy carts are pulled by hand and much valuable time is lost in reaching a fire should it be any distance away from the hose house. Our fire ladders have always responded promptly to every alarm, but with a team and proper equipment the ladders would be able to render much quicker aid and would be the means of saving much property, the larger part being owned by the different coal companies hereabouts, as the majority of the fires in these coal districts. It is hoped the committee will meet with such success that the new outfit can be purchased in the near future.

MYSTERIOUS LIGHT AT SEA.

Three Steamers Didn't Understand It, but Prince of Monaco Knew. The Prince of Monaco has been known since 1856 as an enthusiastic student of the sea and its various forms of life. He usually spends his summers in the study of oceanographic problems, and has cruises have on some occasions been extended almost to the coasts of America. A short time ago he delivered a lecture before the Royal Geographical society in London, in which he told this incident:

One afternoon, while in the Bay of Biscay, he sank the trap in which he collected specimens of sea life. It was in the bottom in over 12,000 feet of water, and as night approached he fastened to the wire attached to it an electric buoy and then stood off a mile or so. It did not happen to occur to him that he was right in the track of steamers plying between northern Europe and the Mediterranean, but he was rewarded at the fact later.

As he and his four attendants were watching with a good deal of satisfaction the electric buoy, which carried a blinding light, he saw a bright illumination a steamer's lights came into view. It was soon evident that the steamer was curious to know the meaning of the electric buoy, and he, without his course and made for the light. She knew that no fishing boats came out so far from land and so determined to solve the mystery. The steamer was within a quarter of a mile of the buoy, slowed up for a minute, and then started ahead, perhaps a little disconcerted at the incident that had befell her several miles out of her course.

She had hardly got away when a second steamer came into view, and she, too, bore down upon the electric buoy. The marines on the Prince's vessel understood by this time that the illumination was probably believed to be the evidence of a disaster. Just as the Prince's steamer was moving up to explain matters she was nearly run down by one of the large liners in the Oriental trade, which had probably mistaken the electric buoy for a burning candle. He therefore veered off and the other vessels, after standing by for a few minutes, went on their way and probably never heard of the cause of that night's illumination at sea.

But the incident gave the Prince a pointer. He carefully refrained thereafter from exhibiting his electric buoy on any of the much-traveled ocean routes.

SAN CLEMENTE.

One of Our Islands Off the Coast of California.

From the Land of Sunshine. About fifty miles off the coast of California, nearly opposite San Diego, lies the barren, lonely and half-grown island of San Clemente. The trip is usually a rough one. But in summer time, at least, Wilson's Cove offers a comparatively safe harbor, and if one knows the locality well it is not hard to land on the steep boulder-strewn beach. From the shore the bare hills rise abruptly on all sides, broken only by a little terracing. The first impression given by the island is confirmed by a study of its structure as a whole is that of a great block of the earth's crust, tipped up on the side toward Catalina, and very little altered by erosion.

San Clemente forms a pasture for thousands of sheep, and a smaller number of cattle, and Wilson's Cove is the headquarters of the sheep herders when they are on the island. That is chiefly in the spring and summer, for during the rainy season not only the sheep need less care, but the island is often unapproachable on account of rough weather. At such seasons one old man, who had lived there for thirty years, used to have the island to himself, and might see no human face for three months at a time.

His cabin stands just above the shore at Wilson's Cove, and near it are a few rough buildings used by the sheep herders. The place is usually known as Gallagher's.

The only water supply here is rain caught during the winter season in tanks. The joys of living in this favored spot are further enhanced in summer time by strong winds which blow through a gap in the hills, bringing from the naked slopes clouds of dust.

The more level regions of the island remind one constantly of the desert. There are some trees except a very few GOLD BELLING. No wonder we can find few rough buildings used by the sheep herders. The place is usually known as Gallagher's.
