WILL NOT BROOK DELAYS. When a Contract Is Started There Must Be no Interruption. Work on the paving of Dix court, in the rear of city hall, which was begun this week by Contractor Ruddy, has been stopped by City Engineer Phillips. The contractor professed to have made all the necessary arrangements for his material insuring against delay, but an investigation by the engineer proved these arrangements were not to his satisfaction and he shut down on the work. Because of the large number of improvements under way this year the city engineer proposes to be especially strict in this regard. He even goes so far as to satisfy himself that the contractor proposes to pay for the material in good time, this being necessary, as he views it, because the city has no control of the sub-contractors who supply material and if there is in any way trouble in this respect there is no way in which the city can prevent a delay in the operations. The penalty for failure to complete a contract in the stipulated time is such a well known fiction that it needs no mention.

CONFLICTING STORIES. They Were Told with Reference to the Death of John Bolaski—Coroner's Jury Thought He Was Murdered. The coroner's jury empaneled to investigate the circumstances in connection with the death of John Bolaski or Andrew Chaborach as his real name is, who died Wednesday at the Lackawanna hospital from a fracture of the skull, met last night in the arbitration room at the court house and found a hard nut to crack. One of the witnesses testified that the deceased had come to the house about 9 o'clock, as he was going into the house, and another witness stated that he had said nothing and was upstairs before falling.

The witness who offered the first testimony was Mrs. William Gramman, who resides at 843 Capouse avenue. She stated that during the afternoon deceased had been going out through an area-way alongside her house to a saloon and boys on the street threw stones at him. In the evening about 9 o'clock, as she was sitting in her kitchen, Andrew came through the area-way, going to the house in the rear, where he lived.

A few minutes later she heard him scream and cry out, "D—B, English boys kill me." Her son went out and coming back said "Andrew was lying on the floor and was hurt." Mrs. Kate Hircenock, who is a widow and keeps the boarding house where Andrew boarded, stated that she was in bed and Andrew came into the house about 9 o'clock. He called her to get him some coffee. She got up and got the coffee and he could not drink it. She told him to go to bed and he went upstairs. She went back to her room and a few minutes later she heard a noise as if he was coming up and take his shoe off. She did not answer. Shortly afterwards, she heard him drop his shoes on the floor and then walk across the room towards the stair head. Then she heard the fall and the sound of the stairs. She called to John Kuritch, the boarder upstairs and he came down. Then they got Dr. Saltry and Patrolman Potter.

John Kuritch testified that Andrew had been drinking all day. He (John) went to bed early and was up stairs when Andrew came up and was awakened by Andrew calling to the boarding mistress to come up and take his shoes off. Andrew took the shoes off himself, and started toward the stairs. A moment later, he heard a fall and then the woman called out. He got up and went down. Kuritch's story was thus corroborative of the woman's story.

The jury considered the testimony and returned the following verdict: "We, the jury called to investigate the death of Andrew Chaborach, find that the deceased came to his death at the hands of some person or persons unknown to the jury." The jury comprised D. J. Thomas, J. W. Reese, Stephen McKenna, H. F. Ferber, Richard Dougherty and Joseph Rodney.

ELKS' MINSTREL SHOW. Another Large Audience Saw It Last Night. Another large audience saw the minstrel performance of the Elks at the Lyceum last night. The performance was, if anything, better than on the first night, the players having gained added confidence from their hearty reception they received Wednesday night.

The cake walk was again one of the star features of the performance. As on the preceding evening, Frank McCann and T. A. Ruddy were declared the winners. Al Reeves, the well-known minstrel man, was present last night and contributed several banjo and vocal numbers, which were well received. The Elks have decided to give the minstrel entertainment at Pittston next Tuesday night and at Wilkes-Barre on the following night.

WORKHOUSE BOY RUNS AWAY. Said His Master Abused Him Shamefully. A 14-year-old lad giving the name of Andrew O'Hara, was picked up yesterday while wandering the streets begging for food, and turned over to Mrs. Duggan, agent of the Associated Charities.

He said he came from Little Meadows, where he was indentured to a farmer by the Edginton Industrial school of Bucks county. The farmer abused him shamefully, he said, and he ran away, intending to go back to the school. He was cared for over night in the Emergency hospital and will be sent today to Philadelphia where he has relatives.

APGAR FARED WELL WITH THE ROBBERS. FEELS INCLINED TO WRITE THEM TO COME AGAIN. Gang That Held Up Watchman at the Bellevue Breaker Relented After Taking His Watch, and Upon Returning It Presented Him with Another, Offered Him Money and Filled His Pockets with Cigars. Evidence That They Had Cracked a Safe Before Visiting the Mine. After thinking it all over yesterday, Watchman John Apgar, of the Bellevue breaker, was inclined to say "come again" to the trio of thieves who held him up early yesterday morning, as told in yesterday's Tribune.

When he refused to open up the carpenter shop they threw him to the ground, although not very violently, and cutting the legs from his trousers they then walked him to the carpenter shop, burst open the door, escorted him inside, and after binding his feet, made him sit by a revolver at his head to enforce silence while they proceeded to break open the tool chests and help themselves to braces, bits, chisels, bars and such other tools as might be useful in their business. This being concluded, one of the party started in to relieve the watchman of his valuables. His gold watch was seized upon and conveyed to the pocket of one of the thieves. Another of the trio began to search the watchman's trousers pockets. Mr. Apgar told him he might save himself the trouble, as there was no money there.

"DIDN'T WANT HIS MONEY." "We don't want your money, do we follow? We've got lots of it, the searcher answered, holding up the gold watch to prove to the victim that it was no idle boast he was making, he pulled a big roll of bills from his hip pocket and exhibiting it to Mr. Apgar pulled a ten dollar note from the roll and offered it to him. The watchman refused the money, but intimated mildly that he would like to have his watch. "Give him his watch," said the largest of the trio, who was evidently the leader. "You've got another."

"I've got watches to burn. Here's your fiver, I don't want it, and while you are at it have another," and with this the robber shoved a silver watch into Mr. Apgar's vest pocket, along with returning his own gold watch. "We're pretty liberal fellows, aren't we?" one of them remarked as they were being the watchman more securely before departing. They gagged him by stuffing his necktie into his mouth and then filling his pockets with cigars left him lying on the floor, while they disappeared in the darkness with the stolen tools.

The watchman rolled along the floor till he came within reach of a hatchet, and, after some hard work, succeeded in sawing the bonds which held his wrists and then releasing himself.

SUSPICIOUS CHARACTERS. The police in investigating the matter yesterday learned that three suspicious-looking characters were seen about the time of the robbery at the Bellevue Heights, about 1 o'clock in the morning and that an iron box, evidently the cash box of a safe, had been found in that neighborhood when daylight came. A visit to Mr. James verified this. He said he was in his bedroom for nearly an hour from his bedroom, expecting they were preparing to break into his shop. He was prepared to give them a warm welcome if they attempted it.

DEATH BRINGS RELIEF. Frank McHugh, Whose Back Was Broken, Suffered Awful Agony. Frank McHugh, the 12-year-old lad, who was so fearfully injured at the Brookside washery at Moosic last Friday, died yesterday afternoon at the Moses Taylor hospital, to which institution he was removed last Saturday. The lad's back was broken and it was thought that he was injured internally. Though suffering awful agony, he bore himself bravely to the last, and death must have come as a great relief. The remains were removed by Funeral Director Casulo to his undertaking rooms and prepared for burial. Later they were taken to the residence of James Toughey, Main street, Moosic. The funeral will be held Saturday morning. Services will be at St. Mary's church at Avoca, and interment will be made in St. Mary's Catholic cemetery.

STRICKEN WITH APOPLEXY. Sudden and Startling Death of Charles E. McMullen. Charles E. McMullen, of 625 East Market street, died suddenly and unexpectedly from apoplexy shortly after 8 o'clock last night. He was 46 years of age, of robust appearance and was never heard to complain of any chronic illness. If he had any idea he was subject to apoplexy no one else knew it or suspected it. He was at his office yesterday and was apparently in perfect health up to the time he was stricken. He was at his home with his wife when the attack came upon him. He sank into unconsciousness and without rallying, passed away in a few minutes. Dr. Charles.

FOUND HER SISTER. Aged Woman Befriended by the Authorities of This City. Mrs. Bridget O'Toole, an old and catheled woman, arrived in this city yesterday morning from New York in charge of the conductor on the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western train reaching this city at 10 o'clock. The lady was taken care of by Special Officer Avilians and afterward taken to the home of her sister, Mrs. Ann O'Hearn, who resides near Dumfries. The woman was well supplied with money and, although Mrs. O'Hearn was not aware of her coming, there was great rejoicing, as they had been separated many years.

GETTING READY TO START. East Market Street Pave Will Soon Be Under Way. City Engineer Phillips stated yesterday that he expects to have the work of paving East Market street under way next week. The contractors, Mears & Flynn, are now hauling material to the street.

City Engineer Phillips will permit operations to begin as soon as the work of repairing the sewer is completed.

JUNK DEALER WAS WARY. Refused to Buy Stolen Brass for Fear of Results. John Kirlinger, of Green Ridge street, was arrested Wednesday night by Detective Moir and Mounted Officer Block on a warrant issued by Alderman Kason on information furnished by Mr. Spencer, of the Spencer Iron works, charging Kirlinger with the sale of larceny of some brass from the Spencer Iron works, where he was employed as night watchman. It seems that small quantities of brass had been missed for sometime. Kirlinger was brought on while in the city and he was found to be the guilty party. The arrest followed.

The defendant was given a hearing yesterday morning and it was discovered that Kirlinger was suffering from illness brought on while in the city in Porto Rico last year and that at times he was irresponsible. Also that he had tried to sell the brass to a junk dealer, stating that he had procured the brass at the iron works. The junk dealer refused to buy it. The brass was found in Kirlinger's home. Mr. Spencer withdrew the charge and Kirlinger was discharged.

TO TAX STREET CARS. Mr. O'Boyle Has an Ordinance for Getting Additional Revenue from the Trolley Companies. A Stir Anticipated. By dodging about in a disorderly way from one order of business to another at last night's meeting, the select council tonight adopted the consideration of an ordinance that will very likely cause quite a stir before it has been finally disposed of. It is nothing less than a new street car tax measure.

Mr. O'Boyle has in his hand, he intended to introduce it and several times when council was in the sixth order of business he sought to gain the attention of the chair but each time before Mr. O'Boyle could secure recognition there would be a request for unanimous consent to go into some other order of business and not wishing to be discourteous Mr. O'Boyle would not object. The consequence was that while Mr. O'Boyle was deeply interested in a conversation with some other member council adjourned and he was left with the ordinance still in his hand. He called to the members to come back but they were too interested in informal discussions of the possibility of the anti-mandamus men going to jail to hear or at least heed him. Mr. O'Boyle's ordinance contemplates a tax of $90 on every car used by companies whose lines are wholly within the city limits, and $30 for cars operated by companies whose lines are only in part within the city limits. No tax is to be placed on extra cars, such as are run only on holidays or special occasions.

The companies are to report the number of cars in operation on the first of April each year, and in case of failure to do this the city controller is to estimate them and assess the tax accordingly. Should the company fail to pay the tax within thirty days following April 1, the city solicitor is to proceed against them in law to effect the collection.

Mr. O'Boyle says he will introduce the ordinance at the next meeting.

HOSPITAL NOTES. James Coleman, of Jessup, was brought to the Lackawanna hospital about 7:30 o'clock last night suffering from a broken rib and severe contusions on the back and chest. He was running alongside a trip and falling a car struck and twisted the limb, fracturing it. The lad's parents reside in South Scranton. He is at the Lackawanna hospital.

SCRANTON EXHIBITS AT THE EXPOSITION. REPRESENTATIVE IS HERE TO ARRANGE FOR THEM. It Is the Intention to Arrange All Exhibits in Classes and Not Permit Any One City or Firm to Make a Special Exhibit—E. P. Cowell, Who Is Now in the City, Is Very Enthusiastic Over the Prospects of the Exposition. E. P. Cowell, representing the Philadelphia exposition, was in the city yesterday working up interest in the exposition among our local manufacturers.

To Secretary Atherton he said the exposition management would not approve, he thought, of the idea of having a Scranton exhibit. It is the intention to arrange all exhibits in classes and not to permit any one city or firm to make a special exhibit of its own. For instance: Silks, no matter where they come from, will be grouped together. Iron manufacturers will occupy one building, probably, and the different classes of articles will be sub-divided according to their character. The city of York wanted to erect a $20,000 building of its own on the exposition grounds but the management would not approve of the idea.

There is nothing to prevent a city from taking in hand the matter of exhibiting its products, but the manner of exhibiting them must rest with the management of the exposition. It is preferable, Mr. Cowell says, that manufacturers should make application for space direct to the exposition management. A number of Scranton firms have already done this. Mr. Cowell is very enthusiastic over the prospects of the exposition. He says its success was assured from the very beginning. The primary feature of the affair is the international commercial congress. Over 1,000 delegates from foreign countries have already signified their intention to attend. These delegates represent governments, chambers of commerce and big commercial houses. They come here to see what we have to offer for trade and incidentally to exchange ideas.

As a result of the congress held two years ago under the auspices of the Philadelphia museum, millions of dollars worth of goods were shipped to ports where previously our exporters had never even sought business. While the increasing of our foreign trade is the primary object of the exposition, it will not be lacking in general interest to the visitor. The automobile show which is being arranged is expected to be one of the most interesting exhibits ever made at a fair. The Franklin institute, the renowned scientific and historical society, celebrates its seventy-fifth anniversary this year and has arranged to make its exhibit a part of the exposition. The main building covers more acres and there are fifty-four acres for detached structures, special exhibits and amusement features.

GLABB WOULD DO MURDER. Chased His Wife with a Razor at Early Morn. The patrol wagon was summoned to North Washington avenue at 2 o'clock yesterday morning to corral one Louis Glabb, who was reported to be in a drunken fury and seeking his wife, armed with a razor.

The police brought Glabb and his wife and razor to the station house, and yesterday morning Mayor Moir sent the first two up to the county jail for fifteen days.

SIDE PATH COMMISSIONER. Court Will Be Asked to Appoint Such an Officer. The side path committee of the Scranton Bicycle club consisting of Judge H. A. Knapp, H. C. Wallace and W. F. Hoyle intend to wait upon Judge R. W. The court will in all probability look with favor upon the application for the appointment of such a commissioner.

Whooping Cough. I had a little boy who was nearly dead from an attack of whooping cough. My neighbors recommended Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.
