BEIDLEMAN'S BOOK AND STATIONERY STOCK GOES ON SALE

"Beidleman, the Bookman," in a trade sense, was all that his name implied. He was a fine storekeeper. There is probably no finer collection of books in the state than was his. He chose carefully, judiciously and plentifully. Today his stock is on our shelves, volume after volume, of this superlative collection, come to us at such ridiculously low prices as to astound Bookmen. Beidleman's old prices are not considered. We've cut far below cost to publish. You may own a complete library for half and less. We seldom have such bargains as these as termed as forced sales, but when we see

Such a Magnificent Stock of Merchandise

As this one was, placed upon the market to be sacrificed to meet just claims—we believe in exercising business jurisprudence and give to the people a genuine bargain—a bargain that they will appreciate and one that will do them good. This is why we bought the Beidleman stock—all of it.

Every Dollar's Worth Must Go

There is no room in our splendid stocks for any additional splendor. We bought the Beidleman stock to sell, and every article in it will be placed on sale. When we tell you that prices will be half Beidleman's prices in most instances, and in many instances a great deal less—we are offering no exaggeration. Mr. Beidleman marked the goods; his own figures will prove it. We shall make of this the book event of the year.

Of the Books There Are More Than Ten Thousand

From the high class paper novels to the finest works of art and verse; the standard authors of the world; the popular writers of fiction; the poets of world-wide fame—and the fiction writers whose stars are now in the ascendency. There are Text Books and Bibles, Hymn Books and Religious Works, Books, Books, Books of every kind—we have grown weary in the marking of them.

Of the Stationery There Is No End

There are Pads and Pencils, Pens and Blotters, Letter Paper and Cards, Folios and Box Paper without number; then there are Pass Books, Day Books and every other kind of book that bears a name.

Come on Monday or Any Other Day You Choose

Safe to say that the picking on Monday will be the choicest—but the rush will be the greatest. The stock should stand a week of very great selling. So we may invite you to come any day, and assure you that bargains of a lifetime are waiting for you. Especially interesting should this be to Schools and Sunday School Libraries.

THE FIRST THING MONDAY MORNING

We begin the sale on Monday by offering Beidleman's entire stock of Paper Novels, numbering some 3,500, all told, at the absurdly little price of ONE CENT. Some of them are 50-cent novels; nearly all of them are 25-cent novels; very few 10 cents. It remains for you to pick from the entire lot of them on Monday at..... One Cent

CARBONDALE.

GREAT WAS THE FALL OF IT. The Raising of Coalbrook Breaker, Saturday a Marked Success. The very high, long, narrow north-westerly section of the twenty-seven-year-old Coalbrook breaker on the flats was successfully blown down Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock under the direction of Superintendent Carter. Three rows of eight uprights each supported the structure. The southerly row was blown out at 2:50 o'clock and when the breaker was seen standing after the explosion many thought the effort abortive. It was not, however, intended to have the building come down with the first explosion. Eight sticks of dynamite had been set off by electricity and as the props burst and the splinters flew in every direction the scene resembled a huge pin-wheel revolving future. The whole sixteen charges were not set off at once for the reason that it was feared the battery was too weak. When the second explosion occurred the main support had been shattered and the northerly guy ropes having been severed the huge structure gracefully tipped to the south and remained intact until it struck the ground, when it was completely shattered. A cyclonic appearing cloud of coal dust swept over the railroad yard and all was over. It was a thrilling scene.

DEATH OF MRS. M. C. CORBY.

Passed Away at Her Home on Wyoming Street Sunday Morning. Mrs. Margaret C. Corby, of Wyoming street, died at 2:30 o'clock Sunday morning. Her death was due to a complication of diseases with which she had suffered since last October. Her condition was fast becoming fatal, when a few days ago a surgical operation was performed by an eminent specialist, but it availed nothing. Mrs. Corby was born in Binghamton, sixty-three years ago, and has resided in this city since 1877. She was the relict of S. T. Corby, the pioneer shoe dealer, who died seven years ago. Deceased is survived by a step-son, E. T. Corby, and step-daughter, Miss Ressie Corby, who lived with her. Three sisters and four brothers also mourn her loss. One of her brothers, E. L. Williams, is treasurer of Cornell University. Mrs. Corby was a member of the First Presbyterian church, and a woman of many virtues, who was beloved by a large circle of friends. The funeral will be Tuesday, but the place and hour have not been fixed. Interment will be in Maplewood cemetery.

COMMITTEES ELECTED.

The board of governors of the Carbondale Cycle Club has elected the following committees: House—C. R. Smith, H. W. Harrison and G. A. Singer; membership—J. D. Purcell, J.

TAYLOR NEWS.

Board of Trade Meets—Coming Drama—Personal and Minor News. Our efficient board of trade met in session in the council chambers on Friday evening for the purpose of organizing and discussing several important matters pertaining to the welfare of the borough, but owing to the poor attendance of the members, organization was not effected. It was decided to hold a citizens' meeting. The following committee was appointed on the same: J. F. Taylor, H. J. Daniels, E. G. Evans, Casper Ott, J. F. Tubbs, Edwin Williams and H. T. Davis. The committee will meet again on Wednesday evening to decide what date the meeting will be held. A number of bills was also ordered paid. The dramatic circle of the Young Men's Institute of Minooka, will render a three-act drama, entitled "The Vagabonds," written by Charles Townsend, at Weber's rink, Friday evening next for the benefit of the new Catholic parish of this place. The club is composed of some of the best known amateur actors in the above town, and their productions are always very creditable. The different characters in the drama will be impersonated in a clever manner. The members are hard at work rehearsing under the guidance of a competent teacher. The presentation of the drama will be followed by a social. An accident, but not of a serious nature, happened to a bicyclist named Duley, who claimed his home to be in Scranton, in front of the postoffice yesterday afternoon. It appeared that the young man was not going at any limited rate of speed when at the above point, and from some unaccountable manner both rider and wheel went down in a heap. In a moment the rider was upon his feet, but to his surprise his wheel was partly demolished. Mrs. John D. Reese and children have returned home from Clark's Summit. Miss Lizzie Bowen, of Hampton street, Hyde Park, visited Mr. and Mrs. William Bowen, on Main street, yesterday. Burgess James E. Watkins has returned home from Allentown, where he attended the grand session of Odd Fellowship. Miss Jennie Brundage has returned home from Peckville, where she visited relatives. Mrs. R. W. Reese and Mrs. Thomas Howells have returned home from Shinnongh, where they attended the grand session of American Protestant Ladies' association. The employees of the Jermyn and Greenwood collieries were paid on Saturday for April. David Davis called on relatives in South Scranton yesterday. Electrician and Mrs. W. M. Bell were the guests of relatives in Peckville the latter part of last week. Emblem division, No. 57, Sons of Temperance, will meet this evening in their rooms. Mrs. James E. Thompson, of Peckville, was the guest of her mother, Mrs. Evans, here yesterday. The Misses Evans, of Mahanoy City, who have been visiting friends here, have returned home. Misses Gladys Samuels and Edith Rogers visited Throop friends yesterday. Rev. Ivor Thomas preached a memorial sermon on the late Mrs. John P. Geddis at the Welsh Congregational church last evening.

DO NOT PUT OFF until tomorrow the duty that ought to be done today. If your blood is impure and you feel weak and weary, take Hood's Sarsaparilla at once.

JERMYN AND MAYFIELD.

Of the many benevolent societies of the borough perhaps there is not one more flourishing than the Miners and Laborers' Benevolent association of the Delaware and Hudson colliery. This organization which was first organized in the sessions of the old assembly passed out of existence, was organized by the late Michael McAndrew, William Westington and Martin Barrett, just eight years ago, and at the present time have a membership of two hundred and fifty. Most of the revenue is derived from the sale of the empty powder kegs and notwithstanding the fact that the society pays a dollar a day to members who are injured while at work and $75 at death, they have at the present time $1,100 in their treasury. At their meeting held on Saturday evening, the following were elected officers for the ensuing year: President, George Pendered, sr.; vice president, Michael Joyce; recording secretary, Philip Tucker; financial secretary, Harry Langman; trustees, Michael Mutton and Patrick Loughney. Mr. and Mrs. Willard R. Dobson will leave early this morning to attend the funeral of Mr. Dodson's uncle, ex-Senator Charles R. Buckalew, of Bloomsburg, Pa.

OLYPHANT.

Rev. J. M. Smoulder, who has been assistant pastor of St. Patrick's church at this place for the past eight years, will leave here this week to take charge of a parish at Rock Lake, Pa. During his residence in this town Father Smoulder has won many warm friends, who greatly regret that he is about to leave here. Yesterday morning at the late mass, Father Smoulder preached his farewell sermon to the congregation of St. Patrick's church.

The stockholders of the new shoe factory and heard the report of the committee sent to Easton to negotiate the removal of the plant here. The matter was discussed at some length, and finally decided to submit a proposition to the Easton concern to buy the factory outright, but to assume no liabilities of the old company. A letter was received Saturday from Easton stating that the terms had been accepted and it is expected that the plant will be removed here shortly. A special meeting of the board of trade will be held tonight to consider the matter. W. F. Lawler has the contract for removing the old rink building on Lackawanna street, which was partially destroyed by fire last winter.

also slow in covering his base and allowed Carson to reach first safely. Captain Tropp was in the box for the fifth inning until the sixth inning, when he was followed by Harrington, who pitched superbly and made the Lackawanna aggregation guess where they "were at." The high school battery was far superior to Lackawanna's. McDonnell's and Tropp's clean home runs were welcomed by the wildest enthusiasm. Carson distinguished himself in the fourth inning by stopping the most difficult grounder ever witnessed in Scranton by amateurs. His exhibition throughout the game was greatly appreciated.
