MINE WORKERS FORM A DISTRICT UNION

ACKAWANNA AND WYOMING VALLEYS ARE UNITED.

Delegates Representing the Local Unions Recently Organized in the Upper Anthracite Region Meet in This City and Concentrate the Different Unions Under One Head. Details of the Session Are Kept Secret-National Organizer Benjamin James Attends and Makes a Report of His Work Herenbouts.

Delegates representing the mine workers of the Lackawanna and Wyoming districts met in this city yesterday, organized and listened to the principal complaints that the delegates from different parts of the two valleys had to offer. The session were secret and nothing is known with reference to what was done concerning those complaints. National Organizer Benjamin James.

of the United Mine Workers of America, issued a call last week for a convention of the miners in the Lackawanna and Wyoming Valleys to be held here yesterday in Hulbert's hall, on Wyoming avenue. The sessions were secret. As given out by Organizer James, who presided during the ession, the principal purpose of the convention was to re-organize Dis-trict No. 1 of the United Mine Workers of the Lackawanna and Wyoming val-Organization was effected and officers elected to serve a term of one year. The officers were president, ice-president, secretary-treasurer and an executive committee of six members. The other three officials, also, will act ex-officio on the executive

Roll call indicated the presence of fifty delegates, representing unions whose combined membership approximates 7,000 men, according to Organizer James. Mr. James refused to make known either who the officers elected were or the names of the delegates and the unions they represented. Reports were made by each delegate concerning the conditions of afairs at his home and the grievances his fellow workmen had to complain The following resolutions were introduced and unanimously adopted: Resolved, That a special vote of thanks be tendered to M. D. Flaherty, and through him, their president, to the Central Labor union, for their warm sup-port in the work of our union organizing; and also to Benjamin James, our national organizer, for his indefatigable work while among us. And further be it Resolved. That we give the district offiers our hearty co-operation throughout he entire district.

Organizer James read a lengthy re port of his work of organizing in the above named valleys and incidentally referred to his work in the Pottsville and Schulykill regions.

RECITAL LAST NIGHT.

It Was Given in the Studio of Professor Southworth.

At the beautiful studios of Professor Southworth over Powell's Music store last evening, a delightful recital was given by Miss Maye Stata Peck, assisted by Miss Ellen Scranton Stites, violinist: Miss Cordelia Freeman and most promising pupils of Mr. Southworth has ever had under his lirection and he is exceedingly gratified by the evidences of great talent, which were acknowledged on all sides last evening by the company of invited guests who were present.

She is perhaps happiest in her exmisite interpretation of Beethoven. of whom she is a close student. She gave the first movement of Sonata Op. . No. 1, which well illustrated her intelligent comprehension of the great master. A toccatina by Mason, a Chopin prefude and a brilliant "Scene de Val" by Adler were among the fascinating numbers given.

Miss Stites played with rare sweetess and grace a "caprice" by Musin. Her obligate in the charming duet sung by Miss Freeman and Mr. Gippel was pleasing revelation of her work. The occasion was, as Mr. Southworth's musicales always are, marked by the interest and elegance of taste so characteristic, of his entertainments,
