AMALGAMATION OF JACKSON STREET AND FIRST BAPTISTS.

Proposition is not Very Favorably Received by the Latter Congregation-Company F Fails to Reorganize-Fred W. Davis Presented with a Chair-Party in Honor of a Visitor-Reception to Chief Walker. News Notes and Items of a Personal Nature

A proposition has been made by the members of the Jackson Street Baptist church to the members of the First limit expires. Baptist church, whose edifice was recently destroyed by fire, for the amalgamation of the two bodies under one head, to be known as "The First Baptist Church of Scranton."

At a conference meeting held in the Jackson Street church after the morning service last Sunday a communication was passed upon and submitted to the members of the First church for their approval, asking for the appointment of a committee to confer with them, but from what can be learned the amalgamation will never be brought about.

The members of the Jackson street church are heavily in debt for their building and have outstanding mortgages with a Philadelphia company for about $13,000, which are liable to a foreclosure at any time. The First church is in a position to raise about $8,000 for their proposed new building. the ground for which has been purchased and the plans accepted from Cincinnati architects.

If they consent to apply this sum on the indebtedness of the Jackson street church, the latter congregation will receive them with open arms and take them into their spacious building, which is sufficiently large enough to accommodate both congregations.

But the First church people do not favor such a proposition, and intimate that an amalgamation can never be accomplished. They infer that if the building is to go under the hammer the Jackson street people ought to let it go and unite with them in the building of proposed new church,

In the event of such an amalgamation, both pastors, Rev. S. F. Mathews and Rev. Thomas de Gruchy, will have to resign and either one re-elected or a new minister be chosen. It is understood that Rev. de Gruchy has received an offer from a church in New York, and may accept it if any change oc-

The members of the First church held meeting last evening and decided not to accept the proposition made by the Jackson street people, owing to the fact that they have gone so far with their building plans, and the church secretary was instructed to notify the members of Rev. de Gruchy's church to that effect.

This practically settles the scheme unless the Jackson street people unite with the First church,
