SCRANTON, JUNE 13, 1899.

Secretary Hay says it is surprising how much he can learn from the newspapers about state department matters which but for them he never would know.

The Men Who Suffer.

The threat of the city controller and his advisers to interpose legal obstacles to the repair of our asphalt streets until beaten before the court of last resort, although aimed directly at the Harber company, is indirectly aimed at the people who drive or ride upon those thoroughfares.

If beaten in this legal battle, the controller and those who have prompted him to assume an obstructionist course will not reimburse the citizens who are put to expensive inconvenience in the meanwhile.

Yellow Journalism's Cure.

One of the most deplorable features of Sunday Journalism in Scranton at the present time is the prominence of the venomous insect vulgarly known as the "roast editor."

When trouble arose between England and the Transvaal republic over the Jameson raid, Americans, being then out of humor with their British cousins, took revenge by giving their sympathy very freely to "Oom Paul" Kruger and the Boers.

Kruger's Day Has Come.

The Boers are a race of cattle farmers so small, stony and mean spirited that they were elbowed out of the more civilized South African settlements and started for the Transvaal very much as Brigham Young and his colleague Mormons started two generations ago for Utah.

An explicit denial has been made from an authoritative source of the report that President Schurman and General Otis were in disagreement at Manila as to the best method of overcoming the Filipino insurrection.

Turn on the Light.

Those who heard Professor Lewis M. Haupt, of the Nicaragua Canal commission, lecture in this city last March will recall the gloomy nature of his predictions as to the future of this great enterprise, considered from the standpoint of politics and legislation.

"The appointment of this latest commission is simply another game of procrastination, brought about by the allied opposition to the United States getting possession of a short route to the Far East. This opposition is powerful and active. It never rests, and when you come to analyze it, it is enough to make one despair.

can be found to invest a penny in it. But the company that now controls it bought it for a song and wiped out all the former obligations, and is working upon it today.

Difficulties of an Arbitration Plan.

ALTHOUGH the latest news from The Hague indicates that earnest efforts are made to arrive at some definite agreement whereby war may be often averted through recourse to arbitration and mediation, we are still skeptical regarding the practical outcome of the projects.

Here, again, we are confronted by the question, what is meant by the term compulsory? It is conceivable that one of the cogitative powers might be led by an unscrupulous and unscrupulous and an elaborate report has been made, but who has seen it? If that report were published, as it ought to have been, the people would know by this time why the canal is not being built.

rights and tries to pit its strength against that of modern civilization. "Oom Paul" Kruger's day has come.

The fact that ex-Champion Fitzsimmons had nerve enough left to umpire a ball game indicates that he could not have been so badly used by by Jeffries after all.

During the war of 1870, France clamored for mediators, but Bismarck would have none of them. There was not an hour during our late war, after Dewey's victory at Cavite, when Spain would not have welcomed mediation. But it was clearly against our interest to adopt such a method of bringing the quarrel to an end.

The truth is that only by war could Cuba be thoroughly and instantly delivered from the shackles of Spanish tyranny, and it is fortunate for the Cubans that in April, 1898, we were not hampered by an agreement such as is now proposed at The Hague, to accept mediation before engaging in a war.

THE NEW DIPLOMACY.

The Hague Letter in the Sun. It is time to record the remarkable change which has taken place in the estimation in which the American delegates are held by their colleagues. They were regarded at first in some quarters as almost interlopers, having no place in the discussion of a situation which the Old World powers considered strictly European.

Here, again, we are confronted by the question, what is meant by the term compulsory? It is conceivable that one of the cogitative powers might be led by an unscrupulous and unscrupulous and an elaborate report has been made, but who has seen it? BRYAN'S BOLD AVOWAL.

Colonel Bryan's speeches continue to throw darkness on their subjects, but occasionally they are enlightening as to the colored himself. At Central, Ill., he had a good deal to say about the income tax and the part that he, as a member of the house of representatives, had in drafting the income tax law.

MIXED RELATIONSHIP.

Over the line in Ohio county a man named Miller married a widow who had a grown-up daughter. His father fell in love with the stepdaughter. The father became the son's son-in-law and the stepdaughter became his mother.
