TO REPLACE PAULI BUILDINGS

Work of Removing the Debris Was Commenced Yesterday.

Workmen, teams and wagons were busily engaged yesterday in removing the ruins of the Pauli building, on Spruce street, adjoining the Commonwealth building. Nothing definite has been settled on by the heirs of the late Mr. Pauli regarding what disposition will be made of the site where the old landmark stood. However The Tribune was informed yesterday that a modern structure will replace the fallen and scattered old buildings.

The estate is seriously considering an offer to sell the site and another to lease it with the proviso that after a term of years the building crected on it will revert to the estate.

These matters will be settled after the present strike in building circles is at an end.

ANNUAL CONCERT OF CONSERVATORY

SURPASSED IN EXCELLENCE ANY PREVIOUS LIKE AFFAIR.

Large and Appreciative Assemblage at St. Luke's Parish House Listen to the Rendition Tastefully Arranged Programme of Music by the Pupils of the Scranton Conservatory of Music-Instrumentalists and Vocalists Reflected Credit Upon Their Instructors.

The largest audience which has yet visited St. Luke's Parish house attended the annual concert of the Conservatory of Music last night. The aisles were crowded and standing room was at a premium in the rear of the audi

The programme by far surpassed in excellence anything given by local talent in a musical way in this city, and was a significent comment on the character and design of this institution of culture and taste, which has during its brief history made such a place in the ommunity.

Professor Pennington is to be congratulated on the public evidence of the real merit of the work accomplished under his direction. Those who hear Sunday after Sunday the beautiful classics, the noble themes he produces on the organ at Elm Park church are growing more and more to appreciate his great ability as a true nusician, but it is after all in his teaching in the high standards he maintains and the aspirations he excites in the minds of those who come into contact with the Conservatory influence his greatest ork is done. A man of the loftiest ideals he surrounds himself with talent of the best obtainable and the results of the study are not in the least degree for show, but indicate practical every day work.

No vocal teacher has ever accomplished in this region what Miss Katherine Timberman has during her three years of direction. There is no mistaking her pupils; the full resonance of tone, the fine enunciation, and the even register are all marks which carry direct proof of their inspiration.

WAS CAREFULLY SELECTED. Last night's programme was most carefully selected, although rather long. Yet it is difficult to see how anything could well have been omitted with such an abundance of talent. It was faithfully carried out and surpassed the brightest expectations of the friends most deeply interested.

The instrumental numbers were extraordinarily well rendered, and while no comparison would scarcely do justice to the uniform merit of the performers, the excellent work of Misses Slocum, Houser, Price, Mrs. Price, Mrs. E. C. Dean, Miss Clara Browning, Miss Marion Hutchinson and Mr. Boyard technique was specially good, and Miss Sophie Price played with a mastery of the subject and a brilliance that aroused much applause. Miss Livia Jones' contralto solo made hit and Miss Rose Gallen's pretty solos were much enjoyed. Miss Edith James sang exceedingly well, and Miss Elizabeth Thomas gave an impassioned and beautiful effect to the great solo, "Hear, O Israel," with piano and organ accompaniment. Miss Edith Martin sang most sweetly a "Spanish Romance," and Miss Anna Salmon surprised many singers by the breadth and range of her tones in the pretty solo, "When the Heart is Young." Miss Isabel Clarke, who is heard far too seldom, sang delightfully two numbers. Probably the vocal solos which attracted the most insistant encores were sung by Miss Clara Simpson and Miss Grace Spencer. Miss Simpson sang with the greatest expression and artistle feeling "By Bendermeer's Stream," the exquisite little song which was so much liked as given by Mrs. Fiske at the Fanny Mendelssohn concert. Miss Simpson's rendition suffered in no respect by comparison. Her second number was the charming "Burst, Ye Apple Buds." Miss Spencer created a furore by "O, Mio Fernando," singing a spring song in response to an encore. Her beautiful voice seems to improve every NOTEWORTHY FEATURE. A noteworthy feature of the occasion was the sextette by Misses James, Martin. Simpson, Spencer, Randolph and Thomas, The "Sancta Maria" was sung with marvelous precision and shading. The final number was, perhaps, the gem of the evening, for in it Miss Timberman and Miss Thomas sang obligato solos. The other members of the chorus were Misses Clarke, Davies, Gearhart, James, Jones, Kellam, Langford, Martin, Randolph, Salmon, Simpson, Spencer, Thomas, Timberman, Mrs. Pennington.

Another pleasant addition were the readings by Miss Marie Van Cieft, the clever and talented daughter of Dr. A. J. Van Cleft, of Dunmore, and by Miss Elizabeth Thomas, both of whom gave credit to their instructor, Miss Caroline Conkling.

EXPLOSION AND FIRE.

Clark & Scott's Tobacco Factory, a Barn and a Double Dwelling House Totally Destroyed. Boiler Bursts.

Fire this morning at 1.40 o'clock totally destroyed Clark & Scott's Tobacco factory and Wedeman's bakery at 1412 Penn avenue and the double frame dwelling adjoining on the south, owned by the Mrs. Sarah Stewart estate, and occupied by Miss Effic Stewart on one side and Joseph Studley and family on the other. A small store-house in the rear of the factory was also destroyed with its contents-a car load of tobacco, which was received the day before.

The flames broke out in the tobacco factory. They were preceded by a oud explosion and the supposition is that one of the boilers exploded.

The factory building was a frame structure, 35x70, two stories and basement. The bakery occupied the larger portion of the first floor.

The building was owned by C. S. Seamans and was valued at $3,000. It was insured. The Stewart building was worth $1,800 and was fully covered by insurance. The contents were totally destroyed and the occupants had narrow escapes from being caught in the flames.

Baker Wedeman carried no insurance. None of the tobacco firm had arrived on the scene at 3 o'clock and the matter of their losses and insurance could not be learned.

HALLSTEAD STORY MADE A BIG STIR

MAIN TOPIC OF CONVERSATION EVERYWHERE YESTERDAY.

The Tribune's Exclusive Announcement of the Presentation and Acceptance of the Resignation of W. F. Hallstead from the D., L. & W. Company Aroused the Most Widespread Interest - Imminent Labor Trouble Assigned as a Cause of Resignation.

The Tribune's locally exclusive story of the resignation of W. F. Hallstead from the positions of second vice president and general manager of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company, was almost the sole topic of conversation everywhere in this region, yesterday.

No item of news of recent years-war reports possibly excepted - aroused such general interest. The New York morning papers and the local afternoon papers were engerly awaited for possible details of the momentous event and everyone who could possibly be expected to know anything "from the inside" was called upon frequently during the day to add, if he could, something to the information contained in

The Tribune's article. The news-eager public was, however, doomed to disappointment. Only one metropolitan morning paper, the New York Tribune, contained any appouncement of the resignation and the local afternoon papers were unsuccessful in securing any further information than was contained in The Tribune. Hallstead declined to be interviewed on the matter.

POSSIBLE CHANGES.

What changes Mr. Hallstead's resignation would effect could not be learned. One story that received no little credence was that E. G. Russell. | until Thursday. the successor of A. Reasoner, as superintendent of the Morris and Essex division, would be made general superintendent of the entire system and that toona platform relating to the national the duties of Mr. Hallstead's position would be shared by Mr. Russell and President Truesdale. The story that P. McGuire, general manager of the Eric. would be enlisted in the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western service was resurrected by the resignation announcement, but it was at the best a matter of conjecture.

Danville, all to serve for a term of thre years from June 9, 1809. There is no question but that Mr. Hallstead's resignation was wholly voluntary and also that the relations between himself and President Truesdale are not strained, as is attested by their continued exchange of hospitalities both before and after the presentation and acceptance of the resignation, which, it was learned yesterday, ccurred nearly three weeks ago.

The impending trouble between the company and its employes, growing out of the changes inaugurated by the new regime, may have had not a little to do with Mr. Hallstead's withdrawal Colonel and Mrs. H. M. Boles and from the company. His pronounced their daughters, Misses Ethel and aversion to this sort of thing, and his Helen, will leave this morning for New | success in avoiding it during his long York, whence they sail tomorrow on and truly brilliant career as a railto Cherbourg, afterwards visiting any identification with it, now in the

TROUBLE IS IMMINENT.

The meeting of the grievance committee of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen from all the divisions of the road, held last Sunday, and the meeting that is being arranged of the joint grievance committees of all the railroad brotherhoods lends color to this assumption.

The story that Mr. Hallstead had been invited to become the head of the individual coal operators new line to New York, the New York, Wyoming and Western road, was also revived yesterday and quite generally dis-

In certain circles it was very seriously commented upon. These cir-cles were where it became known that not only had their surveyors and engineers sent out again, but that material for construction was actually being distributed along the proposed route.

EVE OF THE CONVENTION. MOUNT LOOKOUT

before tomorrow's state Democratic convention is as much of a puzzle to the party leaders as to the humblest worker. With more than a score of active candidates in the field, it will require several ballots to make a selection. The indications are that the nominee will come from Western Pennsylvania, because that locality has no representative on the supreme bench. The delegates from there be lieve they are entitled to the nomination and efforts are being made to combine one candidate after the first ballot.

There are so many candidates in the east that there it not much likelihood of a combination among the delegates from that locality. Judge Kennedy, of Pittsburg, will probably lead on the first ballot with 65 of the 435 delegates, but after that he is expected to fall back instead of run ahead. Judge Mestrezat, of Fayette, and George A. Allen, of Erie, are regarded as formidable candidates. Superior Court Judge Smith, of Scranton, has a large following and after the first ballot it is thought the friends of Judge Bechtel, of Schuylkill, and Judge Lynch, of Luzerne, will vote for him.

The friends of ex-Judge Krebs, of learfield, claim he has more intructed delegates than any other candidate west of Dauphin county and that his chances are very good.

Charles J. Riley, of Williams ort, will be permanent chairman of the convention and David B. Brinton, of Laneaster, will preside at the temporary organization. Notices of contests have seen filed from Allegheny and Franklin counties and these will be referred to the credentials committee at the preliminary organization.

Representative William T. Creasy, of Columbia, will be nominated for state treasurer. No one is mentioned for superior court judge. This nomination will depend entirely on what is done on the supreme court judge. The convention will convene at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning and may continue

MINE FLOODED

TROUBLE CAUSED BY THE COL-LAPSE OF A LARGE DAM.

Serious Catastrophe at Simpson and Watkins' Colliery-Two Million Gallons of Water Inundate the Mount Lookout Mine-A Narrow Escape-It Was at First Thought the Water Came from the Flooded Schooley Mine-Work Will Be Resumed in a Few Days.

Monday, at midnight, the fire alarm at the Mount Lookout breaker, owned by the Temple Iron company, commenced tooting and the signal soon gathered a crowd. It was soon learned that large volumes of water was pouring from somewhere in the Pittston vein to the different portions of the mine.

Those inside hurried out and reported that the dam which was bricked up several years ago, and behind which was confined two million gallons of water, had burst and was rapidly rushing through the main gangways. The mine officials, in cluding Gilbert Jones, the inside boss were notified and they were soon on the scene. After it was ascertained that the men were all on the surface, orders were issued to hoist the mules, as it was at first supposed that the water came from the Schooley shaft, which is inundated. The huge pumps in and outside of the mine were put to work at their full capacity and last evening the water gradually receded. but it will take a few days before the water can be entirely brought to the surface. This mine is located a short distance south of the Schooley, and if the water had come from this source the accident would have been more serious, for at present the indications are that it will be a long time before that mine can be operated again. It was thought last night that the Mount Lookout will again be able to resume work in a few days.
