NOTES ON THE SITUATION

Little Inland Campaigning Possible Owing to the Rainy Season—Native Forces Scattered, but Encouraged by Reports of the Approaching Overthrow of the McKinley Administration—Help from a Change of Policy by the United States Their Only Hope—Sickness Among Our Troops Increased, but Not to an Alarming Degree.

Washington, June 26.—General Otis in reply to a cable from the war department asking for information regarding the situation and conditions in the Philippines, today called a long reply as follows:

Manila, June 26. Adjutant General, Washington: Rainy season. Little inland campaigning possible in Luzon. We occupy large portion Tamarac country, lines stretching from Iloilo south to San Fernando, north nearly sixty miles and to eastward into Laguna province. Insurgent armies have suffered great losses and are scattered. Only large force held together about four thousand in Tattao province and northern Pangasinana. Their scattered forces in bands of fifty to five hundred in other portions of Luzon; in Cavite and in Batangas provinces could assemble possibly two thousand, though difficult forces. Recent defeat made our progress criticized by insurgent soldiers, desire peace and American protection; no longer flee on approach of our forces, but gladly welcome them. No burning of towns; population within our lines becoming dense, taking up land cultivation extensively. Acted out Manila as much as possible, as city population becoming too great to be cared for. Native southeast Luzon continuing to give trouble, only hope insurgent leaders in United States. They claim our overthrow present administration to be followed by their independence and recognition by the United States. This is the influence which enables them to hold out; much contention prevails among them and no civil government remains; trade with ports in our possession, former source insurgent revenue, now intercepted; not certain of wisdom of this policy, as people in those ports are suffering; and merchants suffering losses; meditate resorting trade privileges, although insurgents may have been driven out of successful operation under direction of able Filipinos. Affairs in other islands comparatively quiet, awaiting results in Luzon. All nations of Europe and United States are calling for American troops received. Am giving attention to Jobo Atupulao and Palawan islands.

Our troops are working the limit of endurance. Volunteer organizations have been called in; replaced by regulars, who now occupy salient positions. Nebraska, Pennsylvania, Colorado, Wisconsin, transports, and sixth infantry sent to Negros to relieve California. These troops in good physical condition, sickness among troops increased lately, due mostly to arduous services and climatic influences. Nothing alarming, of the 12 per cent. of the total force, of whom nearly 800 in general hospital, of whom 3 per cent. have typhoid and 17 malarial fevers; 25 per cent. have intestinal troubles; remainder of these eleven hundred and fifty are in good health, with few wounds, many of which due to wounds inflicted. Many officers and men who served in Cuba break under recurrence of Cuban fever, and are inadequately cared for.

The inadequacy mentioned in the last part of the above cablegram has been remedied by the sailing of the transports Zealandia and Sheridan, carrying a number of officers for regiments in the Philippines. Adjutant General Corbin says that all officers belonging to regiments in the Philippines who are absent on account of a surgeon's certificate are under orders to join their regiments at the return of President McKinley. He also said that General Wheeler would receive no assignment until that time.

D. & H. CANAL SOLD

A Kingston Capitalist Said to Be the Purchaser. New York, June 26.—H. G. Young, second vice-president of the Delaware and Hudson, stated today that the Delaware and Hudson canal had been sold to S. B. Cockendall, who controls the Chester and Delaware railroad.

Port Jervis, June 26.—Information has been received here from a source that is deemed reliable to the effect that the Delaware and Hudson company has sold its canal, the entire distance of 108 miles, running from Rondout on the Hudson to Honesdale, Pa., to Samuel P. Cockendall, the millionaire railroad and steamboat man, of Kingston. Orders were sent here discharging the men who have been in charge of the locks and waste weirs since the company discontinued the running of boats.

The object of the purchase can only be conjectured, but it is believed by well informed people that there is a big railroad scheme back of it and that will be the interest of the Delaware and Hudson company. Mr. Cockendall and this company are on very friendly terms, and it is only recently that he extended his Chester and Delaware road to Onondaga, where it connects with the Delaware and Hudson and the coal of the latter road now finds its way to Kingston by means of this connection. For the past week a corps of engineers and surveyors has been locating and surveying a route on the Moosic mountains from Waymart, Pa., to Edgerton colliery, east of Mayfield, in the company's coal fields. The company secured options for the line some months ago, and by following the line of the canal in part it will afford a short route to tide-water, as well as easy grades. The canal cost over $5,000,000, but in the last report of the company it was wiped out as an asset.

COLLEGE BOAT RACES AT POUGHKEEPSIE

Pennsylvania Wins the Four-oared Race—Cornell Ahead on the Freshman Eight-oared Contest. Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 26.—Two of the college boat races were rowed on the Hudson river this evening. Tomorrow the big varsity eight-oared crews of Cornell, Columbia, Wisconsin and Pennsylvania will contest. The race between the four-oared crews of Pennsylvania and Cornell this evening was won by Pennsylvania by a length and a half.

Pennsylvania took the lead at the start and although Cornell hung close for a while the Quakers at the end of the first mile had a lead of a boat's length. At this point a collision was barely averted. The Pennsylvania boat caught the wash of the Cornell boat and the shell turned almost directly toward Cornell. To avoid a collision the Cornell boat was turned away also. Then the boats after straightening out and from this point to the finish Pennsylvania increased her lead and crossed the line a winner by a length and a half. Official time, 11:12, and the distance, two miles.

The freshmen race of eight-oared crews of Cornell, Cornell and Pennsylvania held her own, but Cornell in front, with the other two hanging on and Columbia seeming to gain on the leader. Cornell here drew further away and at the half mile post Pennsylvania dropped rapidly astern. Columbia held her own, but Cornell with a steady stroke of 25 crossed the line a length and a quarter ahead, with Pennsylvania three boat lengths behind Cornell. Cornell's time, 9:55, distance, two miles. Yale in 1897 covered the same course in 9:10.

RECENT ADVANCES IN JURISPRUDENCE

AN ELOQUENT ADDRESS BY ATTORNEY GENERAL GRIGGS. Delivered Before the Graduating Class at the Seventy-Fifth Anniversary of Yale Law School—Not True That While Progress Has Been Made in Other Directions of Human Activity There Has Been None in the Administration of Justice.

New Haven, June 26.—Attorney General Griggs tonight delivered the address before the graduating class at the seventy-fifth anniversary of Yale law school, taking the text, "Advances in Jurisprudence in the Nineteenth Century." He said in part: Whatever doubts the historians have had heretofore in deciding what particular era of the world's history was the designation of the Golden Age in the history of the Anglo-Saxon people, there will be no doubt that the age of the records are written up to its close, in awarding to this last year of this most eventful of years, the close of the century, a more universal condition of intellectual and scientific advancement, social comfort than the human race ever enjoyed. Regard the education of the people, the improvement of ordinary dwellings, the food on the table, the clothing on the backs, the books that every day, the shortening of the hours of labor, the increase of travel and visitation, the extension to the masses of the privileges of education, the invention of machinery, and the creation of wealth, and everybody will admit without a moment's hesitation that the people are better off in any other period of the world's history.

Let us review the course of jurisprudence, especially in America, and see whether that department of knowledge and civilization has advanced with the general progress of civilized society.

Criminal Law Softened. It has been said by an eminent student of the law that the course of jurisprudence that has failed to keep pace with this material progress and with the increase of scientific knowledge, and that this is the case in our jurisprudence, has proved inadequate as a system of legal protection and redress in reasonable measure for all the new and exacting conditions of modern life, and of civil society that have developed, and the statement may well be challenged.

It, on the other hand, is only meant to assert that those ancient principles of jurisprudence which have formed the basis of our system—the English common law—moulded by the progress of development, have been changed and improved from time to time, enlarged, restricted, and varied, and that the rule of law and equity, and the standard of justice by which we are governed, are not the result of a static system, but of a dynamic one, which adapts itself to the changing conditions of the world.

A Statement Challenged. Substantially our system of jurisprudence remains the same, which our fathers obeyed and administered when the nineteenth century first dawned. With forty-five years of progress, we are still, in the main, governed by the same principles of law and equity, and the standard of justice by which we are governed, are not the result of a static system, but of a dynamic one, which adapts itself to the changing conditions of the world.

LABOR'S BENEFIT AT PITTSBURGH

GOVERNOR STONE REMARKS UPON PHILIPPINES QUESTIONS. An Earnest Appeal for the Support of the Government—Possibilities of Trade in the Additional Territory Acquired During Our War With Spain—Other Speakers That Will Be Present.

Pittsburgh, June 26.—Benefit week of "all organized labor of Western Pennsylvania" at the Grand Opera house has assumed proportions not thought of by the promoters and the affair proved a success in the opinion of the laboring classes in this section than ever before.

A splendid vaudeville entertainment of about two hours duration has been provided for each afternoon and evening, after which prominent speakers have been engaged for the further enjoyment of the audiences.

The week was inaugurated with a large parade in which all the labor organizations of the city participated, escorted by the most prominent speakers of the evening Governor Stone, who, at the conclusion of the vaudeville bill, made a short but heartily appreciated address.

Governor Stone said in part: "Ladies and Gentlemen: I am very glad to meet the representatives of organized labor of western Pennsylvania and to congratulate you on the success of your undertaking. The old saying that 'in ungodly times there is a God' is true in the case of labor. If there is any justification for organized capital there is much greater justification for organized labor. Capital is organized for profit to the stockholders. Labor is organized for protection to the workers. Corporations are capital controlled, but organized capital and organized labor. There should be the greatest reciprocity and good will between them.

The desire of both labor and capital is to create a greater demand for our products. Whenever and wherever you increase the demand for products you increase the demand for labor. Labor is organized for protection to the workers. Corporations are capital controlled, but organized capital and organized labor. There should be the greatest reciprocity and good will between them.

HOWLING FARCE AT LOUISVILLE

The Kentucky Democratic State Convention the Most Unpopular Upon Record—Result of the Ballot. Louisville, June 26.—A continuous performance of howling farce, lasting eight hours, a rare vocal entertainment with solos and a chorus of several hundred voices, and horns tests of lung power made up the programme of the sixth day's session of the Democratic state convention and it narrowly escaped winding up in an exhibition of pugilism and marksmanship. From 10 o'clock until 6 today central music hall contained, without doubt the most original and disorderly body of men that ever gathered together for the transaction of political or other business. Angered by what they considered an arbitrary ruling of the chair, in refusing to allow an appeal from his decision declaring out of order a motion to remove policemen from the hall, over half the delegates set about with all the energy they could command to prevent by deafening noise the transaction of any further business until they secured a vote on this appeal. This plan was successfully carried out until nearly six o'clock this evening, when, principally because of utter physical exhaustion the filibusters allowed themselves to be outvoted and the ballot on nomination for governor, which the chair had ordered early in the morning and he had tried repeatedly to proceed with, was concluded by having the county chairman, or as many as would come to the stage and yell their votes at the clerk, who at a distance of a few inches was able to catch the figures.

Before they fairly realized it they were beaten and a second ballot was reached, this time with less tribulation. These two ballots, both fruitless, represented the day's work of the convention. After they were completed all were glad enough to adjourn until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. Behind this spectacular entertainment the three candidates for governor worked like bees. Today it was clearly a day of action against the field and the Kenton county leader, cold and nerveless as ever, has successfully defied his two opponents to combine and beat him. They may do it yet, but so far they have shown themselves as lacking in ability to their own vote in any one direction or to their silent when their manager seemed it best that no votes be cast. Goebel controls the organization of the convention and through it the state central committee, but at present the fight is as open and as fierce as it has been at any time.

The two ballots taken were the twelfth and thirteenth of the convention and resulted as follows: Twelfth: Goebel 32,143; Stone, 24,112; Hardin, 67. Thirteenth: Goebel, 32,015; Stone, 27,749; Hardin, 89.

THE FRENCH GOVERNMENT APPROVAL

Chamber of Deputies Adopts M. Perillier's Motion. BY A VOTE OF 263 TO 237. Paris, June 26.—In the chamber of deputies today M. Ernest Roche, Socialist, interpolated the government regarding the policy and composition of a government of war and of defiance and violently attacked the minister of war, General Marquis de Gallifet.

Other speakers followed in a similar vein and eight orders of the day were moved, only two of them approving the ministerial statement. M. Waldeck-Rousseau replied to the various interpellations explaining the motives animating the formation of a cabinet of somewhat divergent views, one of the main objects being to reunite all republicans. He added that the ministers had already assumed some responsibility but he thought the lack of the chamber was necessary for further steps and asked what ministry could for a moment tolerate acts seeming to create the belief that the army desired to constitute itself the judge of its policy. He further expressed the hope that it would not be necessary to take more severe measures and said he thought it easy to demonstrate whence came the attacks upon the courts.

Explaining the inclusion of General as minister of war, he said it was because no other general had so spontaneously supported the constitution and it was thought necessary punishment of certain military men could be somewhat relaxed if emanating from such a trusted authority as General de Gallifet.

In conclusion he said: "Our task is heavy. Whatever course the chamber may pursue I have done all my duty." The speech of M. Waldeck-Rousseau was much interrupted. The noise at times was deafening and several members were called to order.

M. Waldeck-Rousseau accepted an order of the day moved by M. Jules Perillier, radical socialist, reading as follows: "The chamber, approving the declarations and acts of the government passes to the order of the day." The chamber adopted M. Perillier's motion by a vote of 263 to 237. An indescribable scene of excitement followed in the lobby.
