NEW DEWEY STORY.

The Famous Admiral Nearly Started Another War with Mexico. From the New York Tribune.

Lieutenant F. Winslow, U. S. N., retired, a cousin of the famous commander of the Kearsarge, is at Albemarle, and yesetrday he told a Tribune reporter a new story about Admiral George Dewey.

"In May, 1875, Admiral Dewey was ommander of the old Narragansett," said Lieut. Winslow, "and he was detailed to surveying the Gulf of Callthe Virginius affair at Santiago, and again the centre of interest in the mar-Cubans was none too cordial. The in that stock that gave the market its southern end of the peninsula, and we no sooner got ashore than we heard that an American mining engineer and some Englishmen who owned the mine were prisoners in their mining shankill the Yankee and the Englishmen, too, and the latter were soon obliged to barricade themselves. This siege had been on for several days when we dropped anchor. "As soon as Commander Dewey heard of it he was very much interested. The next day he sent a messenger to the Mexical colonel in La Paz, who had a garrison of 600 soldiers there, asking him what he was going to do to give the American a trial before he was

" 'Oh, he got into the trouble-let him get out,' said the Mexican. "Commander Dewey didn't like this reply, and the more he thought about it the angrier he got. The next forenoon he sent a note to the Mexican colonel telling him that an American citizen's life was in danger, and that the man was entitled to a fair trial. He told the colonel that he would allow him just twenty-four hours to rescue the American and protect the Englishmen. If at the end of that time relief was not on its way to the little mining party he would bombard La Pas and burn it. "When we heard what Dewey had done we were all frightened. "'Does he mean it?' we asked one another.

"As for myself, I was soon satisfied that he meant every word of it. I was in command of the guns. We had only two old howltzers on the Narragansett, the larger guns having been left temporarily at the Mare Island navy yard. "'Get those howitzers ready for tomorrow morning and inspect all the quarters and estimated that of the crew of about 120 we could land ninety able armed men as a storming force. We drilled the men all that afternoon and far into the night. That night, on Commander Dewey's order, we steamed to a point commanding the principal streets of La Paz and trained the howitzers on the town. By next morning we were all ready to begin a second war against Mexico.

"At daybreak a Mexican corporal came on board with a message from his colonel saying that the Narragansett ommander's request would be compiled with. Early that morning we watched 300 armed Mexican soldiers start for the mining camp, and we kept the old howitzers trained on La Paz till the soldiers returned with the American engineer. When Dewey reported to Washington on the matter he minimized the importance of it, and it was passed over as a mere incident. Lieutenants Harris and Wright were on the Narragansett then, and Harris, at least, was with the fleet at Manila. It is somewhat singular that at that time, when we were expecting a declaration of war against Spain on account of the Virginius affair. Commander Dewey had his plans all made to sail the Narragansett to Manila."
