MRS. A. REYNOLDS TRIED FOR FORGERY

CASE HAS SOME VERY UNUSUAL FEATURES.

Defendant Was Positively Identified as the Woman Who Went to the Lackawanna Trust and Safe Deposit Bank and Obtained Money There But She Positively Denied Ever Having Been in That Bank and Succeeded in Establishing a Fairly Good Alibi.

By far the most interesting case tried in criminal court yesterday was that of the commonwealth against Mrs. Almazano Reynolds, of Chestnut street, West Scranton, who was charged with forgery. The forgery consisted of signing her husband's name to a receipt and drawing $75 from the Lackawanna Trust and Safe Deposit company's bank. The husband had an account at that bank.

Mrs. Reynolds was identified by Paying Teller Hummler as the woman to whom he paid the money. She positively denied receiving the money. She had never been in the bank in question. She furthermore produced a number of witnesses who established a fairly good alibi. Reynolds did not seem to be in any wise affected by the position in which she found herself when arraigned yesterday. She sat at the defendant's table all day with her husband and two little daughters and even refused to discard her wad of consolation when she went to the stand to testify. She was very composed and self-reliant when on the stand. The jury retired soon after 4 o'clock and had not reached a verdict up to the hour of adjourning.

COMMONWEALTH'S CASE.

The testimony of the commonwealth was to the effect that on March 21 last the husband of Mrs. Katherine Maud Reynolds had money on deposit in the Lackawanna Trust and Safe Deposit company's bank. On that day a woman went into the bank about 10 o'clock and produced the bank book of A. Reynolds. She said she was the wife of Mr. Reynolds and wanted to draw $50. Paying Teller Hummler, who positively identified the defendant as the woman who called at the bank, told her she must obtain an order for the money from her husband. He made out the form of the order and gave it to her. She said she would get the signature of her husband to the order within a few minutes. Between ten and fifteen minutes later she returned to the bank with the signed order, and he paid the money after she had endorsed the order on the back.

Mr. Reynolds was put on the stand and said he did not sign the order, that it is a forgery, and Prof. M. H. Probst, of the International Correspondence school of this city, gave it as his opinion that the signature "A. Reynolds" on the face of the order and the endorsement "K. M. Reynolds" on the back were written by the same person. About noon on March 21 Reynolds called at the bank and was apprised of the fact that money had been drawn by his wife. He denied giving the order and that afternoon Mr. Hummler went to the Reynolds residence and identified Mrs. Reynolds as the woman to whom he paid the money. She thereupon denied having seen at the bank or having drawn out any money to be charged to her husband's account.

THAT BANK BOOK.

Evidence concerning the manner in which the bank book presented by the woman at the bank could get outside the Reynolds' household was very meagre. When Reynolds was on the stand he said:

"The doctor looked wise and said it was 'nervous indigestion.' But he didn't cure it. So Mr. Thos. G. Leter, of Lever, S. C., wrote to Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., and now Mr. Leter is well. Dr. L. V. Pierce is and for thirty years has been chief consulting physician of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo. During this time he has probably treated more cases of chronic or lingering diseases than any other physician in the world. Invalids from all over the world write to him and receive advice free of charge. During the early years of his practice Dr. Pierce compounded his 'Golden Medical Discovery' which he has used ever since in treating all affections of the lungs and bronchial tubes; for purifying the blood; for toning up the nerves and whenever an honest reliable non-alcoholic tonic was needed. In connection with it, he prescribes what other special medicine may be required in exceptional cases and gives directions as to diet and hygiene. The result is health. Mr. Leter writes:

"I was afflicted with what the doctors called 'nervous indigestion.' Two medicines from my family physician in a week relieved my symptoms and I was able to eat again with ease and an empty feeling in my stomach. I was getting very nervous and suffered a great deal mentally, thinking that death would soon claim me. I was terrible and impatient and generally retained in bed. I could scarcely eat anything that would not produce a bad feeling in my stomach. I wrote Dr. Pierce. He prescribed his 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pelle's' and gave me some directions. I followed his directions and I believe the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pelle's' will cure any case of indigestion, nervousness, or chronic cold. I have been having 'Golden Medical Discovery' for nothing else is 'just as good.'" stand he said the last time he saw the bank book was on March 8, when he went to the bank and drew some money. He usually kept the book in a trunk, but was unable to say what he did with it after he went to the bank on March 8. He has never seen it since. For the defense the husband testified that he was in the house until about ten minutes after 10 o'clock on the morning of March 21. His wife was in the house all morning and he left her there when he went out. He testified that he was in these stores about 11 o'clock on the morning in question. Fred H. Jones and William Faulkner swore they saw her on Chestnut street about the time she was supposed to be at the bank. Mrs. Reynolds went on the stand and denied going to the bank, signing the paper or obtaining the money. She explained in detail where she spent the morning of March 21. After leaving the stand she wrote her signature on a piece of paper for the benefit of the jury. It resembled only in a slight degree the signature on the paper on which the money was obtained from the bank. The accused was defended by Attorneys Vosburg & Dawson and District Attorney Jones prosecuted the case.

Other Cases Considered.

Michael McNulty and John Kilker, the West Scranton youths who were tried in court room No. 2 on Thursday for robbery, were acquitted yesterday. The commonwealth made out a strong case against them and their acquittal was a notable victory for Attorney M. F. Conroy, who defended them in a brilliant manner. Peter Grackie, who was tried Thursday for abiding a prisoner to escape and assisting an attorney, was yesterday returned guilty of the latter offense. Carmine Delmonico was found guilty of assault and battery and his wife was acquitted. A verdict of not guilty was taken in the case against Mrs. Thomas Walsh. The prosecutrix, Mrs. William McCormick, did not appear. A verdict of not guilty was taken in the case of Howard W. Hull, who was charged with embezzlement by George H. Hinkley. It is expected that the indictment was not found until more than two years after the alleged offense was committed. Bruno Gargo was returned not guilty of carrying concealed weapons, the prosecutrix, John M. Hale, failing to appear. Verdicts of not guilty were taken in the cases against John Smith and James Shays, charged by Chief of Police Robling with larceny and receiving. They are old cases and the commonwealth has not moved the evidence at hand necessary to convict. A Grabaszewski was not present to prosecute J. A. Lapinski for enticing minor females for immoral purposes and a verdict of not guilty was taken. The prosecutrix, Mrs. Maud Reynolds, a verdict of not guilty was taken in the case charging P. Dennis with embezzlement. The county will pay the costs. E. H. Snyder was tried for embezzling about $50 from Jane S. Smith, of Waverly. The defense was that the prosecutrix owed the defendant more than the amount alleged to have been embezzled and that the case is one of a dispute over accounts. The jury was out at adjourning hour. When court adjourned for the day, Peter Lutomskey was on trial for assaulting and robbing Michael Lucas at North Scranton on October 6 last.

This is an invitation to "a sheet and pillow case party" that has the swing now at our Cotton Department. Cotton prices have been on the up grade ever since January. A pillow case costs from 3c to 5c more today than it did then, an increase that, in the cotton trade, means a great deal. Yet the prices that we give you today are as low as the low priced record of last January. The explanation? Never mind it. Isn't the fact enough? The cotton used in these is one of the best known makes in America and the very best grade that is made.

Here Are the Prices:

Bleached Pillow Cases—42x36, 11c. 45x36, 12½c. 50x36, 14c. 54x36, 16c. Special—45x36, 11c, Bleached Sheets—63x90, 40c. 72x90, 45c. 81x90, 50c. 90x90, 55c. 90x99, 65c.

These prices rule for the present, but under the existing conditions of the cotton market we cannot guarantee them to last long.
