Public Installation-A Distressing Accident-Church ond Other News.

Liberty lodge, No. 188, Knights of Pythias, held a public installation of officers and entertainment in their hall last evning. The members had been preparing and planning for the pleasant event for several weeks past and had left little unthought of that would add to the pleasure and comfort of their guests and as a consequence everything on thep rogramme passed off smoothly. As a social affair last evening's celebration was without doubt the event of the season, The exercises commenced with an address of welcome by George Blake, followed by the singing by the assembly of the Knights Ode: prayer by Rev. Thomas Cook and the singing by a quartette of sweet and low which was very creditable. The officers installed to this town on Thursday evening. Taylor castle, No. 267, Knights of the were as follows: Vice chancellor, Benjamin Morgans: prelate, William Lang-man; keeper of records and seals, George Blake; master of finance, Henry Langman; master of exchequer, Richbusiness was the installation of offi-cers, as follows: Noble chief, Thomas ard Reynolds; master at arms, David Jenkins; master of work, Fred Dawe; inner guard, Thomas Baker; outer guard, James Langman; representative to grand lodge, George Blake. The eremony was performed by District

Deputy Richard Reynolds, Between the installation of the different officers an enjoyable musical programme was rendered by some of the best local talent as follows: Instrumental duet, by Messrs, Donthwaite and Hogarth, which was played with much taste and expression. Miss Marcella Maxwell was most successful in her solo, "The Girl I Loved in Tennessee." Miss Mary Maxwell, of Carbondale, played a violin solo, "Concealment," her tone and execution being admirable. She was loudly applauded and encored. She was accompanied by Miss May Ulmer, John Nazeby, Archie Martin, Henry Langman and John Hogarth each sang pleasing solos, and Professor Elijah Stephens, the well known cornetist, played one of his brilliant solos which was appreciatingly listened to. Mr.

W. S. Davis, our talented young orator, delivered the principal address of the evening and said in part: Our order is the hand-maid of virtue and religion and it must dourish. Its rapid growth is unparalled in the annals of secret societies. He attributed its success to the fact that the order was not built upon beneficial selfishness, but upon Friendship, Charity and Benevolence, and upon the purest loyalty. He endeavored to impress upon the minds of the members that the present world is not the ultimate destination of man but that it is only a passing scone through which we are travelling to a city that will never terminate. He advised them to be faithful to God and if faithful to Him they would be faithful to every obligation they had taken as Knights assumed and their proud Pythian banner with the motto of Friendship, Charity and Benevolence' inseribed upon its ample folds and its waving lines of beauty shall be kissed by the breezes of every clime and shall be as a beacon to the weary pilgrims on life's faithful journey and as a welcome guide to the tempest driven mariner across the troubled waves of human woe to its calm haven of rest.

At the conclusion of the address the quartette sang another glee and refreshments were served. The remainder of the evening being spent in a most social manner. Not a little of the success of the pleasant affair is due o the committee of management. Fred

The Obsequies of the Late Mayor Harding-The Council Will Appoint a Mayor Pro Tem Tonight. Arrested for Forgery-Other News of Local Interest.

The remains of Benjamin Harding, the late mayor of this city, were consigned to their last resting place yesterday afternoon in the Pittston cemetery, in the presence of hundreds of our citizens, who represented every branch of business and every walk in ife. During the time between 11 and o'clock an opportunity was given to those who wished to view the remains. and between these hours, a steady stream of people passed through the residence on South Main street and gazed upon the well-known features of one who when in life, devoted his time and talent for the advancement of the city, and the establishment of a home that today stnds as a monument to his memory., The deceased was a member of Wyoming lodge, Knights of Honor, and Keystone lodge Sons of St. George, and at 2:30 when the members of these organizations arrived at the home of the deceased there were more than two thousand people from every portion of this and Lackawanna counties assembled. The services were conducted by the Reverands N. G. Parke, J. J. K. Fletcher and W. R. Harshaw, of the East and West Side Presbyterian churches. The former who had been for many years on intimate terms with the deceased, gave a brief review of his life. The

The Southern railway, the lealling Southern system, spreading from Washington to the Mississippi river, and gridironing the South, and the only line to "The Land of the Sky" section of western North Carolina, has also issued a publication out of the ordinary, in the shape of an attractive bookles entitled "A Night on Mount Mitchell," by Henry Litchfield West, one of the leading editorial and political writers music throughout the day, which added of the Washington Post, a paper widely and favorably known for the ability displayed in its editorial and political columns. This story is a description of an ascension to the very top of Mound Mitchell, which is the highest mounthe knoll near Russian park, a spien- tain peak east of the Rocky Mountains, and 400 feet higher than Mount Washington, upon which has been erected a monument to Professor Mitchell, after whom the mountain is named, .

The story is replete with inferent, and thrilling in detailing a trip which may be taken by any traveler for health or pleasure, and reminds one of Talmadge's description of Lookout Mountain, when he stood upon its heights and delivered the following oration, which is reproduced for its graphic description of a location fams
