DUNMORE DOINGS.

Through the Efforts of R. L. Conrad a New Street Has Been Opened and Will Be Presented to the Borough.

For some time past the property owners living in the vicinity of Barnard street wished to have it extended, so as to be able to reach East Drinker street without going several blocks out of their way. The only way this could be accomplished would be to have a street cut through an acre of land owned by Richard Webber, of Harper The residents petitioned th council to buy a street through the land, but the council decided and in formed the residents that they could not buy a street, but would accept the street if the people would purchase it and donate it to the borough. This disheartened the majority of the people. Not so, however, with R. L. Conrad, who immediately set to work and after several months of hard labor, has suceeded in collecting a sufficient amount to allow the street to be made through the plot of ground. This was done last evening and now it is a borough thoroughfare and connects Barnard street with East Drinker street. The street vill be presented to the borough council this evening for acceptance. In accordance with Mr. Conrad's vishes The Tribune willingly publishes the names of those who assisted him in securing the extension of the street. The persons are as follows: Borough Treasurer August Wahlers, heirs of Throop estate, Councilman William S. Jones, Patrolman M. J. Bulger, Dr. C. J. Wilber, of Moscow; James J. Healey, Preston M. Smith, Richard P. Webber M. J. Cartis, Martin Gibbons, H. F. Holcombe, J. C. Gillette, S. J. Knapp, E. D. Latham, D. K. Oakley, Aaron Gillette and Michael Shaughnessy.

from the Household World. To witness Houdin's first perform ance in Algiers the neighboring tribes vere invited. The theatre was speedily filled with them and the French officials, who attended in all their pomp and glory. Interpreters were scattered through the house in order to repeat Houdin's remarks to the natives in their own language. With true Oriental dignity and grayity, the Araba witnessed the first few tricks in stolld silence, but the taking of a huge cannon ball from a borrowed hat aroused great excitement. Then came the great tricks of the evening, especially prepared to astonish the Arabs. "By a wonderful power which I pos-sess," said Houdin, "I can deprive any man of his strength. I invite any one to prove my words."

On this being interpreted to the Arabs a tall, strong man stepped forward on the stage. Houdin held in his hand a little iron box, and, balancing it carelessly on his little finger, he asked the Arab:

'Are you strong! "Are you sure of always remaining

"Lift that box." The Arab did so and asked contemptuously

'Is that all "Wait," said Houdi, making a sot-oun gesture. "Now you are weaker than a woman. Try to lift that box

The Arab seized the handle and tugged again. He could not raise the box an inch from the floor. After many attempts he paused for a moment to brace himself for a final effort. He seized the handle again, but bricked aloud with pain, dropped on his knees, then, rising, threw his cloak around his face to conceal his shame. and rushed from the theatre, leaving his compatriots stricken with fear. The trick was as simple as the result was startling. The box was placed on t powerful electro-magnet, and the current being complete, no man on earth could have lifted it. An electric shock, sent at a signal by Houdia from behind the stage, was what what caused the Arab to shrick and rick had subsided. Houdin announced that he had a talisman which rend-ered him invulnerable, and he defied the best shot in Algiers to kill him. A marabout immediately sprang on the stage, exclaiming, "I want to kill you." Houdin handed him a pistol, which the Arab, examining, pronounced a good one. "It is a good pistol, and I will
