ACCIDENTS OF A DAY.

Three Children Sustain Injuries in Runaways and Collisions.

Rose Steinberg and Fannie Blume, two children residing in Raymond court, were injured in a runaway accident yesterday. They had climbed into a wagon standing in the rear of the Lackawanna hospital and the horse attached became frightened and ran away. At Franklin avenue the wagon wa8 overturned and the childron thrown out, both sustaining cuts and bruises. They were cared for at the hospital and afterwards removed to their homes. John Fowler, aged 14 years, of 594 New street, while riding a bicycle along comotery. Wyoming avenue, collided with a dray wagon at the intersection of Linden strat, and was struck in the stomach by the pole and knocked to the ground. The horses were frightened and one of them trampled upon the boy, and he was also run over by one of the wheels.

ness interests for nearly half a century. He was a native of England, having been born in the town of Paulton, Somersetshire, on Jan. 10, 1851. He landed in this country on the steamship Star of the West, after a voyage of thirty days. April 8, 1859. Robert Sharp, who has been secretary for many years, was a fellow passenger. He was an experienced rockman by trade, and coming directly to Pittston, was just in time to participate in the work of opening the coal veins hereabout. His brother, Harry Smith, became associated with him in rock con-tracting, and together they sank one of the Twin shafts, in Upper Pittston. They were also connected with the work of sinking the Ravine shaft. George Smith and his brother were afterward mem-bers of a company that, for a short time during the Civil war, leased and operated the Eagle shaft. Later the Smith broth. ers went to Schuylkill county, where they opened a rich vein of coal at an expense of $20,000, and shortly afterward sold the property for $100,000. George and Harry Smith invested their portion of the proceeds of this coal sale in a tract of coal land in Pittston township, known as the Heidelberg tract, and that section has since been popularly known as Smithville, in recognition of the owners, The coal on this tract is now being The coal on this tract is now being mined by the Lehigh Valley Coal company, and is a source of great profit to the owners. For many years and up to the time of his death. Mr. Smith was a director of the People's bank. For twenty-five years past, he also conducted a hotel in his own building. Mr. Smith was twice married. He was first married in England to Margaret Phoenix, who died in Massachusetts in 1860. Latter he was married to Sarah Finley, of North Ad-ams. Mass., who survives him, as also does his only daughter, by his first wife, Mrs. G. G. Glick, of Pittston, Mr. Smith's only grandchild is Mrs. Albert Shullz, of this city. The functal will be held on Sunday afternoon at 2.39 o'clock, with interment in Pittston cemetery.

Resolved, That a copy of these reso-lutions be presented to the family of the deceased. BANQUET AT PROVIDENCE.

Last evening an adjourned meeting of the Scranton Canton was held in the new Auditorium at Providence, and all the members of the council were present in full dress uniforms. At the conclusion of the meeting a banquet was served and impromptu speeches were made by a number of those in attendance.

The members of the council and the members of the Scranton Canton will take part in a parade this morning in full dress uniform. They will form on Wyoming avenue, right resting Spruce street. The line of march is to be as follows: Spruce to Washington. to Vine, to Jefferson, the Spruce, Washington, to Lackawanna, to the Delaware and Hudson depot.

They will take a train at the latter place for Farview, where they will join the various lodges from Lackawanna. Wayne and Luzerne counties in their reunion, which is to be held at that place. It is expected that 15,000 people will be present to witness the conferring of the degree of chivalry upon a number of candidates. This is a very elaborate ritualistic ceremony and has only been performed twice before in this state. The members of the council present at the sessions yesterday were: Major General Ed. C. Deans, Scranton) General W. H. Cogswell, Philadelphia; Major J. S. Batroff, Philadelphia; Chevalier Eugene Dunning, Philadelphia; General J. B. Andrews, Altoona; Lieutenant Colonel C. Isaac Koch, Reading: Captain Jonas Schmoyer, Reading; Lieutenant Colonel H. H. WALSH FOUND HIS MOTHER. She Resides on Willow Street in Dunmore.

Walter Walsh, who came here from Augusta, Ga., in search of his mother, has found her and both are happy. Mrs. Walsh lives on Willow street, Dunmore, and read in the papers about the arrival of the boy at headquarters. She came for him-yesterday morning and explained that she knew her relatives in Augusta were going to send him here but she had received no word and did not expect them so soon.

Island contract had been finished. He says he has lived up to his part and asks have the stonecutters done the Same

Mr. Carlucci further says that he was told by the leaders of the union that if he resigned from the Builders' Exchange they would return to work. The stonecutters say no such statement was ever made by them.

When asked what he would do if the work in Ft. Wayne was stopped he said: "I will take it to some other town in the west and get it done. The stonecutters say that it will be more expensive on me to have my stone cut out there and pay extra freight rates from there to New York than to have it done in this city. That is not so, peculiar as it may seem, for the reason that the stone I am now using is quarried right in Indiana. By getting it cut there, I save the freight on all the waste stone which is cut off in trimming and which I would have to pay for it if the work were done here." The situation as regards the carpenters' strike is unchanged.

A MAID AND A LOCOMOTIVE.

Investigated and the Train Had to Back Up for the Lost Engineer. From the Detroit Free Press.

It comes in the letter of a Detroit girl to her family. She is engaged in making a stage career and tells this among the variegated experiences encountered in traveling about the country.

"I had grown tired sitting among the sleeply people in our car, and when we stopped at a little way station I persuaded the engineer to let me ride on the locomotive. The monster rocked like a cradle, for it was a cheap branch road, running up into the wilds of North Dakota, but I soon became accustomed to the pitching and tossing. When the bigl engineer laughingly told me to 'stoke up' I sprang down, threw open the furnace door and obeyed orders. It was great sport and kepy stoking, getting black enough for a pickaninny act and ruining a splendid pair of kids. At the next station we stopped for dinner and l had behaved so well that the engineer said I might ride ten miles further with him. As I only wanted a cup of coffee, I was soon back in the cab.

"Desiring to improve my mind, examined the mechanism of the thing and, wishing to know the use of a certain lever, I gave it a pull, just as I had seen the engineer do. Gracious There was an awful puffing and wheezing and snorting, and by the time I could gather my wits we were going across the prairie lickety split. didn't know what to do, but the one order to me had been to stoke up and stoke up I did, frantically and with hysterical strength. "Suddenly I was selzed from behind and thrown right into the coal bin and the conductor, who had crawled in over the tender, without warning me, swore horribly. While we were backing up to get the engineer and fireman I told the conductor what I thought of him and he apologized. I have also written to the superintendent of the road formally demanding a new pair of MEARS & HAGEN, 415-417 Lackawanna Aye. gloves, and if they are not forthcoming I'm going to make trouble."
