DELEGATES CROWDING INTO CITY

conducted a running informal reception all afternoon and long into the evening. As each train arrived it was met by a delegation from the joint committee and any carriers it might have aboard were given the glad hand and made make themselves at home, after which they were escorted to their quarters. When they had refreshed themselves they were taken to the Jermyn to meet and mingle with their brethren and their entertainers.

SUPT. MACHEN HERE.

Superintendent of Free Delivery Machen was one of the noon arrivals and from the time he had finished luncheon till he retired he was the center of an admiring group. It might be said he was compelled to run a continuous reception. No one in the department is more popular with the carriers than he and they lose no opportunity of making him feel so. He is a very pleasant and affable man and in the matter of personal appearance would be picked out of any crowd as a man worth knowing.

He expressed himself to a Tribune reporter as being most agreeably surprised at the size and pace of Scranton and spoke admiringly of the decorations.

The largest delegation to arrive yesterday was from Chicago. It numbered sixty men and included the following officers of the Chicago branch: President, Charles D. Duffy; vice-president, M. W. Williams; recording secretary, Henry H. Shook; financial secretary, F. J. White; sergeant-at-arms, Judson P. Hodges. The delegation was offered as follows: President, Charles D. Duffy; secretary, James W. Murray; treasurer, Fred Wickman.

They started from the Windy City at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon on the Grand Trunk and after spending Saturday at Niagara Falls, journeyed on to Scranton, reaching here at 9 o'clock this morning.

Postmaster Charles V. Gordon was very anxious to come with them, but owing to his being busy with the preparations for the corner-stone laying of Chicago's new federal building had to forego the trip. H. S. Regan, superintendent of the collection department of Chicago, and W. G. Ebens, assistant superintendent of the free delivery system west of Buffalo, were with the Chicago delegation. Mr. Ebens was a former national officer of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and was entertained last night by the general committee of that order on the Lackawanna road, now in session in this city.

DETROIT MEN ARRIVE.

Detroit's delegation arrived at 8.28 last night over the Delaware and Hudson. It was made up of forty men, thirty-five of whom comprise a drill corps which will be a principal feature of the parade. They have been drilling for a long time in fancy marching evolutions and have provided themselves with very attractive uniforms.

Postmaster Dickerson, they reported, will come this morning, bringing with him a determination to capture the next convention in his city.

Of all the delegates who came none received a more hearty welcome than those from the Lehigh Valley association. There were seventeen from Allentown, sixteen from Easton, seven from South Bethlehem, six from Bethlehem and four from Phillipsburg. Accompanying them were Postmasters Milton P. Schantz, of Allentown; Clayton Skinner, of Bethlehem; Clarence Andrews, of Easton, and F. W. Ulrich, of South Bethlehem.

They left on a special Lehigh Valley car, starting from Easton at 10.40 and arriving here over the Delaware and Hudson at 2.15. They will remain until 11 o'clock tonight.

What made them so particularly welcome was the extreme effort they made to come here in full force. The postmasters of the several cities in the association, with the sanction of the department at Washington, announced in the papers that if no objections were received they would suspend all deliveries on Labor day and rely upon the people to come to the office for their mail. Not a kick was made in any city and for the first time in history the free delivery business of a city was entirely suspended to give the carriers a holiday.

ALBANY DELEGATION.

Albany sent a delegation of forty-two. It arrived at 3.45 p. m. over the Delaware and Hudson. Deputy Postmaster Charles A. Ziehlman and Superintendent of Carriers Michael E. Ahearn were in the party. Elibert Evans, of Branch 416, of Troy, arrived with the Albany delegation. He was the first president of the branch and has been a letter carrier for fourteen years. He is one of the leading colored men of that portion of New York state.

Cleveland's ten men arrived at 10 o'clock, after having been on route since 8.30 o'clock the previous night. They had with them James C. Keller, chairman of the committee on constitutions, and F. S. Tropton, of the legislative committee. Postmaster C. C. Dewstoe, they announced, would be here this morning.

Scattering delegations from all over the union kept continually arriving and at nightfall it was estimated that over 500 carriers were already in the city. About 100 of them brought ladies along and those ladies were turned over to the auxiliary committee headed by Miss Mary Campbell and entertained at the W. C. T. U. rooms on Washington avenue.

"Add 300 to that," said Mr. Malloy, "and you will have a fair estimate of the crowd that will be on the New York specials when they pull out of Hoboken."

This does not include Brooklyn, which will send at least 700 marchers, and Hoboken and Jersey City which can be counted upon for 200 more. Newark and the other Jersey towns adjoining New York and not scheduled to come with the New Yorkers will have a big special train on the Lehigh Valley.

To do this the run must be made in three hours and fifteen minutes. Superintendent Daly says it can be done in three hours and forty-five minutes.
