FRIGHTENED YACHTSMEN.

Those on the J. Willard Morgan Had an Experience Off Henlopen.

The Philadelphia Inquirer of yesterday contained the following:

"The thrilling experience of a yacht ing party in a northeast gate off Cafe Henlopen on Monday morn'ng before daylight, when seas washed over the yacht and frightened everybody, was related to an Inquirer reporter at the Lafayette Hotel last night by John M. Harris, an attorney of Scranton,

We left Atlantic City on Tuesday veek for a 600-mile cruise to Cape Charles, by way of Delaware and Chesapeake Bays, said Mr. Harris. There were five in the party; New on P. Jackson and myself, of Scranton, and Edward W. Thompson, George W. Pine and W. G. Harraman, of New York. Our yacht, the J. Willard Morgan, was captained by Charles M. Foster, with crew of four men. She is out fift? two feet long and twelve and a half beam but was considered staunch and very sea worthy craft. All went well to Cape Charles, and after leaving here to return at noon Sunday we sailed for Cape Henry. The first we knew of the storm was the rushing of water into our spartments about 5 clock on Monday morning " "The boat rolled and threatened to capsize at any moment. Captain Foster said he had but two mi m'es warning that a storm was aproaching when he was hurled into the midst of it. The situation became so serious that we decided to cut the mainmast and deift but finally determined to head with the wind and put back to Chickofee harbor, where we sought protection. Here we found twenty-seven other craft seeking shelter from the storm. After the wind subsided we determined to start again, but had to put back, after the loss of the jib. I had to return to Scranton, so took the train from Franklin, Md., leaving the remainder of the party to return with the yacht." '

FRANCIS FOUND HANGING BY A ROPE

HE DISAPPEARED FROM HOME LAST THURSDAY.

Three Months Ago He auffered a Sun Stroke and Since Then He Has Been Slightly Demented-Deceased Resided at Green Ridge and Is Survived by a Wife and One Son, Harry E. Francis-He was Stock Buyer for the D. L. & W Company.

The body of James E. Francis, of 1709 Monsey avenue, who disappeared from me last Thursday morning, was found hanging from a tree in a lonely woods eyond Nay Aug park yesterday morning at II o'clock by Flora Lisk and Henry Pilger, two young men, who were out chestnutting. There is no doubt but that his death was the resuit of a very carefully planned scheme on the part of the unfortunate man to put an end to his life.

The two young men had started out on a chestnutting excursion and were tramping through a patch of woods about 1,000 feet beyond a road leading from the boulevard and known as Snook's addition, when they discovered the body of the unfortunate man hanging from a tree, the feet three or four feet from the ground.

There were two trees growing to gether with a space of about two feet between them. The rope, which was about three or four feet long, was tied to a limb running across the space beween the trees and the body hung beween them. A limb about five feet from the ground undoubtedly served as a stand for the deceased while adjusting the rope and from this he must have jumped. The knots were care fully tied, indicating that Francis was perfectly cool and collected while performing this operation.

BADLY DECOMPOSED.

The body was in a bad state of mortification and the stench arising from it was almost unbearable very near it The two young men hurrled to a telephone nearby and notified police headquarters, who in turn notified Coroner Roberts. Officer Sloat was dispatched to the scene and, together with Park Policeman McNamara, arrived at the spot about 12.30.

The coroner started out all right and eached the intersection of the boulevard and the road known as Snook's addition. He left his carriage there and started out for the place where the body was hanging. He did not know the exact location of the spot, however, and had been searching vainly for it through the woods for nearly threequarters of an hour, when he was met by Officer Stoat, who had gone in search of him, and conducted him there. The body was immediately cut down and laid on the ground and a thorough examination of the clothes made. In one pocket was found an envelope addressed to Mrs. James Francis, 1709 Monsey avenue, Scranton, Pa. and some small change and a knife were found in another. The backs of both hands were cut and gashed to quite an extent and the coroner is of the opinion that the deceased had made an at tempt to cut an artery before hanging himself, thinking, perhaps, to kill himself in this manner. The coroner took possession of the knife and will microscopical examination of the blade for any traces of blood thereon.

HANGING SEVERAL DAYS.

He is of the opinion that the body had been hanging there from two to three days, owing to the state of mortification in which it was found. There were no signs of a struggle, and the deceased undoubtedly died almost instantly.

Undertaker Raub removed the body to his undertaking rooms on Spruce street, where it was identified by Harry E. Francis, a son of the deceased, who had been notified of the sad affair by a Tribune man.

Young Mr. Francis said that his father left home last Thursday morning, ostensibly to visit some relatives in Park Place, and that when he did not return that night inquiries were made, but no one, not even the parties he said he was going to visit, had seen him. He undoubtedly killed himself sometime on Thursday. Had it not been chestnutting time, the body might have hung undiscovered for weeks, as that section of the woods is very seldom traversed.

The deceased was up to three months ago employed as general stable boss and stock buyer for the Delaware. Lackawanna and Western company Three months ago be suffered a sun stroke and had not worked since. He had been slightly demented since then, but not enough to cause any alarm and was generally thought to be improving. He gave no warning whatever to anyone that he contemplated taking his life. He was very well known and popular throughout this entire valley. He is survived by a wife and one son, Harry E., an inspector for the Pancoast Coal company. COURT RESUMES TODAY.

It Will Be a Busy Day in the Court House.

This morning the county courts will resume operations after the long sumher vacation. The grand jury will meet, constables make returns and the term of equity court begin. A large number of onlinions will be handed down and the number of motions to be made will keep the court busy for several hours.

It is probable that not less than 900 cases will come before the grand fury for consideration. The two most important will be the Kenny and Gallagher murder cases. John F. Kenny is charged with killing his wife at Simpson near Carbondale, on July 4, and John and Joseph Gallagher, their mother, Mrs. Annie Gallagher, and grandmother, Mrs. Annie Dempsey, who are charged with killing James P Quinn, at Carbondale. The numerous libel cases against the Scrantonian will also be brought to the attention of the jury.

One of the important cases to come up in equity court is the littgation with reference to the Nay Aug park loop of the Scranton Railway company.

LETTER CARRIERS LEAVING FOR HOME

EXPRESS THEMSELVES HIGHLY PLEASED WITH THEIR STAY.

President Parsons Speaking for the National Association Says It Was the Largest, Most Successful and Most Enjoyable Convention the Carriers Ever Had-Many Others Publicly Declare Their Appreciation of the Hospitality of the Electric City-Closing Sessions of the Convention and Installation of

This was the largest, most successful and most enjoyable con-vention the National Association of Letter Carriers ever had. The manner in which the whole city turned itself into a committee on entertainment to make our stay enjoyable reflects great credit on the local carriers for it they were not efficient and popular they would not be able to command so much attention for their guests.

The lady visitors were most cordially and hospitably enter-taired by the Ladies' auxiliary and seem never to tire telling of the many gracious acts of Miss Campbell and her associates. The news-papers are especially deserving of the association's thanks for In no city that the convention has thus far visited have there been such able and extensive reports made of our proceedings. Say the most complimentary thing you can think of about the general hospitality of Scranton and subscribe + my name to it.

John N. Parsons, President of the National Associa-tion of Letter Carriers.

Scranton, it is safe to say, is a very much talked-of city throughout the east today, and before many days have passed there will not be a town of any reportance in the whole United States Thirteenth during the latter part of its but what will be hearing personal accounts of its enterprise, interesting features and hospitality.

The departing letter carriers who have been our guests during the week just closed are most enthusiastic in their praise of the Electric City and her people. The general sentiment finding expression on all sides is one of surprise at the size and importance of the anthracite metropolis, delight at its interesting sights and picturesque surrorundings and unstinted praise at the open-handed hospitality of the people.

Secretary Cantwell was especially olensed with the attendance at the convention and said that geographically Scranton is an admirable convention There were fully one hundred city. and fifty more delegates at this convention, he said, than at any previous

At the morning session the task of revising the constitution and by-laws was taken up and in the afternoon I was completed. Before adjourning the final business session, the convention adopted resolutions thanking the citizen's committee and the local carriers for their hospitality, and the press for its full and comprehensive reports of the proceedings. A resolution was also adopted thanking Bishop Hoban for the the free use of St. Thomas' college hall. The matter of establishing a pension fund was turned over to a committee headed by P. J. Carey of Rock Island, III. with instructions to draft a rethement nill and submit It to the logsiative committee for introduction in the rext congress.
