LVENTS OF DAY IN WEST SCRANTON

LECTURE BY REV. A. E. BOYL AT PLYMOUTH CHURCH.

Took for His Subject "Dr. Jekyl and Mr. Hyde" and Compared Lives of Today with the Dual Characters Gave It with Dramatic Effect. Deaths and Funerals-Testimonial Concert in First Welsh Congrega-Church-Attended by a Large Assemblage-Other Notes and Personals.

Rev. A. E. Boyl, pastor of the Plymouth Congregational church, gave a lecture last evening on the subject of "Dr. Jekyl and Mr. Hyde." The speaker reviewed the book and outlined the famous story, and at times grew very dramatic in his action and delivery. In recommending the story to his hearers, the speaker also suggested the book "In His Steps," as an excellent work.

Rev. Boyl said man is a dual nature, and there is a Dr. Jekyl and Mr. Hyde in every man that lives. One of the two will triumph. Men should abanlon the latter and follow the former. We must have a singleness of purpose.

The man who succeeds must stick to the one idea, and make a specialty of one thing. The man who tries to spread himself over everything accomplishes Beware of the man who knows one book well. The highest aims in life are necessary, but so many have low ideas

Higher aspirations are essential, and the man who does not want to raise Solo himself higher is not worthy of consideration. There must be honesty of purpose, uprightness of manhood, and tobleness of womanhood.

The man who runs in debt for luxuries, for things he can just as well do without, is on the downward path. High aims and lofty aspirations must be coupled with honor and integrity. You cannot lead a double life, as your sins will find you out.

Some day you must face your sin, even in this world or the next. One life before your family and another before the church will not do. It is like a speckled trout in the country and a cod fish in town.

Men are driven out of society in this life by their sins, but the blood of sus Christ will wash all sins away. Any one who has gone 'nto sin and willing to turn away from it will

DUNMORE DOINGS.

Disastrous Fire on Saturday Afternoon Destroyed One Building and Part of Another.

A fire that raged fiercely for two hours Saturday afternoon on Elm street, destroyed $1.500 worth of property before being placed under control. It started in the residence of John Doud and quickly spread to the adjoining building, a three-story one, the basement used for store purposes and the two upper floors as living apartments, owned by Angelo Micco. The former place was burned to the ground and the entire contents consumed. The latter place had the roof, interior and side nearest the dwelling house almost completely destroyed, and will undoubtedly have to be entirely rebuilt if intended for use again.

The fire started in the household apartments of Mr. Doud and was caused by a spark which flew from the newly started wood fire and, before disovery, had gained great headway, naking it impossible to save any of the contents of the building and filling the place with smoke, which poured out in great volumes. An alarm was hurriedly sounded from Box 24, at the corner of Elm and Chestnut streets, but great difficulties were experienced by the companies in responding and the result was that the entire fire department had to be called out. The John B. Smiths were the first to respond and Chief O'Hora with them.

the fire gained. No other company had put in an annearance as yet, so Chief O'Hora sounded the second alarm. Then teams were pressed into service to take the different hose wagons to the fire, John Mahady served the Neptunes, Bert MacCawley the Electrics, while a team of the Keystone brewery did like service for the Independents. When the above companies reached the scene, Doud's house was beyond saving and the other place on fire, and only after hard work was it placed Little or no insurance was carried on the building or contents. Misses Kate and Mamie McGill, of Denue street, have returned from a short visit with friends at Olyphant. Mr. David Jones, of Jermyn, spent Sunday at the home of Burgess Powell, on North Blakely street.
