DYSPEPSIA CURE

CARBONDALE.

MUST HAVE SIDEWALKS FIRST.

Postmaster J. H. Thomas has made a noble effort to have our free delivery system extended and that it failed was no fault of his as the following letter from headquarters shows:

Sept. 22, 1899.

The Postmaster, Carbondale, Pa.

Sir: Your letter of June 2, transmitting petitions for the extension and improvement of your free delivery service, was referred to a postoffice inspector, who recently visited your office and made a thorough examination of the condition and needs of the free delivery service. He states that the outlying portions of the town to which you desire to extend the service are not supplied with the public improvements required for the establishment of free delivery, viz.: good sidewalks, streets lighted, houses numbered, and names of streets posted at intersections. Until these are furnished, the department must decline to consider your request. Very respectfully,

George W. Allen,
Acting First Ass't. Postmaster General.

OBSEQUIES OF R. P. PATTERSON.

Final rites over the remains of R. P. Patterson were conducted at the home Saturday afternoon at half past two o'clock by Rev. Charles Lee, of the First Presbyterian church. Surrounding the remains which lay in the parlor were the many floral offerings of friends and relatives, handsome and appropriate for the occasion. The procession that moved from the late home to Maplewod cemetery was a long one and considerably augmented by many out-of-town friends. The pall bearers were chosen from the deceased's neighbors, friends and associates in business. They were: S. A. McMullen, John J. Simpson, Frank Hubbard, Will Hubbard, Edward Hubard, Frank Smith, Frank Hellenbeck, and Horace G. Likely.

NURSES UNION.

Labor agitation and organization have been carired on to a greater extent here during the past year or two than for a deende prior to that time. The mine workers and tradesmen are pretty well united and now comes an extension of the protection principle into a profession—that of the trained nurse. Yes, the professional nurses of Carbondale are going to form a union and only those who have served their time at some recognized institution will be admitted to membership. Among other things the union will fix the compensation to be received by its members and define the duties to be performed by them. The nurses contend that the community will profit as much as they, as it will be protected from incompetents who are not always discovered until it is too late.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

Dr. H. C. Wheeler and Miss Wheeler have returned from a visit to Binghamton.

W. J. Glennon and daughter Mamie have gone to New York. They will remain during the Dewey celebration.

An advertisement published in another column of The Tribune gave many the impression that the Palace Creamery was about to discontinue the retail milk branch of its business. This is not so. The wagons for sale are the old ones which were replaced a few months ago by the bright new ones now seen on the road daily.

PECKVILLE.

On Wednesday next we hope to see every building with the borders of Blakely borough festooned with the national colors. Let none be conspicuous by their absence and let every citizen try and do what he can in giving the veterans of Pennsylvania's Fifty-second regiment a rousing reception. Seldom does it fall to the lot of so small a village as Peckville to enter a Fifty-second regiment reunion. But do not let it be said that we did not accord to the grand old fighters of '61-'65 one of the best receptions since their existence.

Mr. George Gard is visiting friends at Windsor, N. Y.

William Vandervort and family returned Saturday from a week's visit with Gilatt Hollow relatives.

Mrs. John Reese is visiting friends at Philadelphia.

Mr. Louis Martin, aged 66 years, a resident of the Ridge, fell down the cellar stairs at his residence yesterday and was instantly killed, his neck being broken.

Mr. Mart Wittig sustained a badly bruised leg Saturday by a heavy iron pipe falling upon it while at work at Dolph's.

Mr. S. M. Corson, agent for the Delaware and Hudson at Providence, spent yesterday with friends in town.

Mr. Z. P. Tinklepaugh spent yesterday with Avoca friends.

Mr. R. H. Barnes, of New York city, is visiting his mother, Mrs. May Barnes, of Hickory street.

Tax Collector D. J. Williams has returned from a visit to his native country.

Burgess Williams has issued the following proclamation: To the citizens of Blakely borough: We are to have the reunion of the Fifty-second regiment, Pennsylvania volunters on Sept. 27, 1899, in our borough, and, as burgess, I most earnestly beg of all to decorate and make our town appear in holiday attire, so we can show the olds vets of '61-'65 that we have lost none of that patriotism which we are always credited with, and by so doing they will have a pleasant remembrance of us and we can keep the good record we have made. S. B. Williams, burgess.

TAYLOR NEWS.

JERMYN AND MAYFIELD.

There was apparently little interest taken in Saturday's primaries, judging from the light vote cast, which is given in the table elsewhere.

Mrs. Sarah Fox, an aged lady, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John E. Humphrey, of North Main street, at 9 o'clock on Friday night. Deceased for many years was a resident of Carbondale, but for some time past has lived here with her daughter. She was a woman of kindly disposition, never tiring of well-doing, and conscientiously a Christian worker. She was well advanced in years, but old age never changed her amiable nature. She was gentle to the last, though she suffered painful illness that would have made stronger persons complain. She is survived by four sisters, Mrs. John E. Humphrey and Mrs. Amziah Morgan, of this borough; Mrs. H. S. Morgan, of Carbondale, and Mrs. Elizabeth Evans, of Providence. The funeral took place yesterday afternoon. Interment was made in the borough cemetery.

The funeral of Irene, the two-months-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Lutey, of Providence, took place here on Saturday afternoon. The pall-bearers were Ethel Baker, May Jones, Susie Davis and Florence Cumberland, of Carbondale.

Mrs. Emerson Wint, of Wilkes-Barre, is visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. Frank Baker, of Cemetery street.

Mr. and Mrs. Elias Cobb, of Rushbrook street, have moved to Main street.

Miss Mary Hall, of West Mayfield, who has been seriously ill for several days, is recovering.

Richard Rosemorgey, who returned from the Klondike some time ago, has gone to Montana.

Miss Maggie Murphy, of South Scranton, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Michael McDermott, of the East Side.

Mrs. Stephen Whitmore is visiting friends in Benton.

Miss Grace Vail and brother, Lloyd, spent yesterday with Clifford friends.

Mrs. Saulsbury, of North Main street, who has been seriously ill for several weeks, is slightly improved.

Mrs. Emory, who has been the guest of her granddaughter, Mrs. Arthur Day, of Cemetery street, returned to her home at Wilkes-Barre on Saturday.

Eddie Giles' illness has developed into typhoid fever.

BALD MOUNT.

The election of Saturday was not as indicative of as deep interest as is usually the case, but thirty-four votes being polled. The candidates receiving the largest number of votes being Giles Roberts, he having received twenty-seven.

Mr. Joel Shelly is enjoying a trip through the west.

Oscar Van Buskirk is the guest of his sister, Mrs. J. C. Cobb, at Elmdale.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Williams and son and Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Flock and son, of Wilkes-Barre, were guests at the home of Mr. C. Van Buskirk over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Van Sickle, drove to Waverly on Saturday.

Mrs. E. R. Ward is slowly convalescing from her recent illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Snyder, of Dalton, were callers at the Van Buskirk home yesterday.

Mrs. W. L. Speece, of Scranton, visited friends here several days last week.

Mrs. O. Van Buskirk is spending a few weeks at Elmdale.

The enrollment at Newton Centre school numbers fifty-five, with between fifteen and twenty yet to enter. The need of a graded school and more room is very clearly demonstrated.

ARCHBALD.

WHEN CHILDREN SMOKED.

In Charles II's Time They Used Pipes in School.

From the Pittsburg Dispatch.

Every one has read that Hawkins introduced tobacco into England, and that King James inveighed against it. Elizabeth liked to sit on a low stool and watch Sir Walter Raleigh puffing away. Once she bet him that he could not tell the weight of the smoke in his pipe, but the philosopher won. In Anne's reign almost every one smoked. In Charles II's reign "children were sent to school with their pipes in their satchels, and the schoolmaster called a halt in their studies while they smoked."

In 1702 Jorevin spent an evening with his brother at Garraway's coffee house, Leeds, and writes: "I was surprised to see his sickly child of three years old fill its pipe of tobacco and smoke it as audfarandly as a man of three score; after that a second and third pipe without the least concern, as it is said to have done above a year ago."

There were about 470 coffee houses in London, besides five chocolate houses, in Anne's time. Smoking was general in them, and intoxicants could be also obtained, as well as coffee. Bishop Trelawney was much hurt because Bishop Barnett has accused him of getting drunk in one of them on the 30th of January—a day of grief to tories and all good churchmen.

A GOLF STORY.

A golf story which should be added to the already excellent number to which the game has given birth possesses an advantage which cannot be claimed for all of them, that of being absolutely authentic. An enthusiast, who was somewhat of a tyro at golf, though of great distinction at other forms of athletics, had a series of misfortunes with which most people can sympathize. He was playing against a man whose opinion he valued, and he consistently topped his ball, sliced it, pulled it, lifted it into a tree, played a fine cleek stroke into a bunker, and made extraordinarily straight long-distance puts in which the ball hopped genially across the hole into the long grass which skirted the green. At first the player's demeanor was ominously sweet. he seemed positively to enjoy his strokes; then he grew mad, then he grew apparently careless, though his caddie noticed his carelessness was only assumed, as he was pressing horribly. The worst of golf is that you can never deceive either your caddie or your ball. At last, at the seventh hole, he grew wonderfully calm, and marched off to the next teeing ground, remarking to his trembling caddie that he would not trouble to hole out. After an easy preliminary swing or two he topped his ball, which trickled away about twenty yards to the right. Then the man took all his clubs and broke them one by one across his knee, remarking quietly to his opponent that "it is better to break your infernal clubs than to lose your infernal temper."—Daily Telegraph.

THEATRICAL.

"Queen of Chinatown."

One of the strongest attractions that will visit this city this season will be "The Queen of Chinatown," which comes to the Lyceum this and tomorrow evenings. It is from the pen of Joseph Parrow, and is one of the dramatic successes of this season. It opened at the Star theater, New York, the home of melo-drama, where the sign, so welcome to theatrical managers, "standing room only," was nightly displayed. To the Auditorium in Philadelphia, this same sign was carried, and there the play-goers of the City of Brotherly Love were so delighted with "The Queen of Chinatown" that it was found necessary to again put up the sign each night. On the road ever since then the same old sign has nightly been used. On both the New York and Philadelphia engagements the receipts were record breakers.

The play is a strong one, and deals with life in the great Mongolian quarter of New York city. The plot is not fiction, but founded upon fact. Beezie Gerrity, "The Queen of Chinatown," was during her career one of the characters of Gotham, and many were the journeys of men and women of the metropolis to see this woman of Chinatown. Who she was or whence she came no one, not even Danny Driscoll, her lover, and by whose hands she died, ever knew. Suffice it to say that she was a woman of education, cultivation and refinement and ruled over her little Celestial empire with an iron grasp. It is about the closing scenes of her life that Author Jarrow has woven his play, "The Queen of Chinatown."

At the Academy.

Miss Katharine Rober opens a week's engagement at the Academy of Music this afternoon. She will play some of the most popular of the New York successes at popular prices.

The bill tonight will be "Madame Sans Gene;" tomorrow night, "Killarney;" Wednesday night, "Shall We Forgive Her," and Thursday night, "Romeo and Juliet." The daily matinee price is 10 cents for all parts of the house.

May Irwin in "Sister Mary."

For Thursday evening, Sept. 28, the attraction at the Lyceum will be May Irwin, the brightest comedienne on the stage in a splendid production of "Sister Mary." It will be the first presentation in this city of this, her latest sucess, which attracts more than ordinary interest.

As a matter of fact there is no star who comes to the Lyceum who is so universally looked upon as a special favorite as is May Irwin. She is easily at the head of the comedy stars in this country and so has nothing to expect from her save the best. That she will be warmly welcomed with her new play there is no doubt, for she has a tremendous following of admirers in this city.

Miss Irwin is well known as a comedienne of delightful personality and rarely humorous qualities. She has made such striking hits of everything that she has attempted in her stage career that it is reasonable to suppose that whatever the nature of her vehicle supplied by the author the personality of Miss Irwin herself would beam it into success.

New Coon in Town.

If you happen to see a strange face of very dark complexion on the streets the next three days you can gamble that it belongs to one of the members of Tom McIntosh's "Hot Old Time in Dixie" company, which opens at the Gaiety theater for a three days stay commencing with Monday matinee. You will probably see many strange faces, as there are thirty colored people with the show.

For the last three days, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Hoey and Norton's Greatest Twentieth Century Comedians will prove themselves to be a brilliant combination of vaudeville celebrity. They are credited with being possessed of all the essential qualities necessary to gratify the most exacting demands of their patrons, therefore our theater-goers can look forward to seeing and enjoying an entertainment of rare excellence, well worthy of their approval. The performance given by them is styled an ideal immensity of novel perfection. The names of the artists below given will no doubt justify the claim. The great and only James F. Hoey, "Young Mule," a brother to "Old Hoss," a genius of unlimited originality; Emma Krause, the only burnt cork prima donna, assisted by Carrie Godfrey and the original Dutch Pickaninnies; the quaint and humorous Dillon Brothers; Johnson and Dean, the leaders of colored aristocracy; Klein and Clifton, comedy acrobats; Hattie Wells, the volatile danseuse; the Vilona Sisters, the peerless musical trio, and Harvey and Jordan, a European sensation, marvels of muscular development. Many innovations in the shape of novel surprises will be introduced. Matinee every day.
