WHEELMEN PROTEST.

Against the Injustice of Laws and Discrimination.

At a well attended meeting of the Electric City Wheelmen held Tuesday evening, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, in the year 1888 the councils of the city of Scranton passed an ordinance "regulating vehicular traffic, declaring certain acts nuisances and fixing the penalty therefor," and

Whereas, said ordinance is and has been enforced more strictly against the riders of bicycles than other vehicles using the streets of the city, and

Whereas, heavy loads and obstructive loads upon sidewalks and obstructive loads on foot without fear of arrest, some standing two and three abreast on the street without regard to the inconvenience to other vehicles, and others standing in front of the depots before and after train time when not necessary for the convenience of the public, who have equal right to the use of the public highway; and

Whereas, Section 2 of said ordinance provides "All vehicles shall keep to the right of the center of the street," but which seems to be a dead law when heavy vehicles are on the wrong side; and

Whereas, Section 3 prohibits any vehicle, other than a street car, from crossing and set street cars and wagons often come to a dead stop at those points when not necessary; and

Whereas, wagons loaded with broken stone, waste paper, etc., distribute their contents along the streets of our city, without the slightest protest from those in authority therefor; and

Resolved, That we, the undersigned, representing the "Electric City Wheelmen" of Scranton, Pa., do most emphatically protest against the injustice done to a large class of our citizens, viz: wheelmen and wheelwomen, by the strict enforcement of the aforesaid ordinance when they are found on the highway, and of its enforcement against drivers of heavy vehicles, motorcars, etc.

Resolved, We ask no relaxation of any penalty for bicycle riders, except when compelled to ride on the sidewalks on account of bad roads, but we do respectfully ask those in authority to see that the parties here complained of comply with said ordinance, without discriminating solely against bicyclists as has been done in the past.

Signed: Charles R. Beach, chairman; William H. Roe, T. F. Mason, C. A. Eymon, committee. Approved, W. A. Menz, president. Attest: Samuel McCracken, secretary.

A MOVEMENT ON FOOT TO ORGANIZE SUCH AN INSTITUTION.

A movement is being made on the part of the book-keepers and office men of the city to organize a Book-keepers' club for the purpose of promoting the welfare and efficiency of those employed in these lines. It is thought that the formation of such a club will prove particularly beneficial to young men just leaving the various business colleges to engage in the actual life of business.

As the idea of any kind of political or saving of union is most decidedly against the ideas upon which the club will be founded, the movement should receive the hearty co-operation of employers, who can only be benefited by the higher efficiency of their officers, and further in this emphasis is the fact that an employer desiring a book-keeper or other office help can, through the recommendation of the club, secure the services of men who
