

CARBONDALE.

APPENDICITIS VICTIMS.

Simpson Man Objected to the Knife. William Harvey Operated Upon.

Saturday Dr. H. C. Wheeler, a couple of assistants and two trained nurses went to Simpson to perform an operation on Thomas Moyle for appendicitis.

When the surgeons entered the patient changed his mind, jumped out of bed, ran around the room, said he didn't have a particle of pain, declared he was as well as any man could be and positively objected to having his appendix vermiformis removed.

He set his teeth and never flinched when the physicians brought considerable pressure to bear in the region of the disease, and the doctor, who was well and so the patient, who unquestionably had one of the worst cases on record, was left to his fate.

Later in the day he changed his mind and the family made arrangements to have him taken to the Carbondale hospital, where Dr. Gillis operated yesterday afternoon.

The disease was found to have reached the advanced stage and a considerable quantity of pus was taken from the abdominal cavity. His chances of recovery were lessened by the delay, though the physicians hope for good results.

Mr. Moyle is forty-three years old and has a family. Yesterday afternoon William Harvey, a young man of Richmond street, was operated upon by Dr. Wheeler, assisted by Dr. Gillis and J. J. Thompson, M. D.

The appendix contained a collection about the size of a bean. Conditions favor recovery.

DIED ON DEWEY DAY.

James Toolan, of No. 27 Hill street, this city, was injured by the collapse of a stand at the Dewey parade Friday and died in Hudson hospital at half-past five Saturday morning.

He left here Wednesday, accompanied by his brother Thomas and Mathew Flannery. They met Charles Toolan, who resides in New York.

Besides those mentioned in the previous column, Mrs. M. and Mrs. Thomas Toolan, a brother, Patrick, and four sisters, Mrs. John Malone and Misses Mary, Annie and Rose Toolan. The remains were brought home yesterday.

GETTING WATER.

At the Hendrick works the artesian well is flowing about 100 gallons a minute and at the silk mill more than sixty. The first mentioned is 473 feet deep and the second 501.

Mr. Hendrick is also having at his residence property, if successful there, the water of the block bounded by Gardfield avenue, Spring and Wyoming streets and Washington place will combine and put down a well for themselves.

For the past two weeks plumbers have been busy day and night cutting off taps all over the city. It is estimated that more than half the conveniences will be taken out. All pave washes will be abandoned and the indications are that the Consolidated's increased rate, which took effect yesterday, will not yield any more revenue than the old one.

JUMPED FROM THE TRAIN.

Miles Hughes, of Peckville, sustains Serious Injuries.

Miles Hughes, a lad eighteen years of age, son of Mr. Peter Hughes, of the West Side, Peckville, met with a painful accident at about 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon near the Delaware and Hudson depot at Peckville.

Hughes with several companions jumped on the caboose of a Delaware and Hudson train to ride to the station and when at a point near the bridge, just below the station, young Hughes jumped and doing so missed his footing and fell headlong from the bridge to the ground, a distance of twenty feet. He was stunned by the fall.

Several people saw the accident and hastened to the unfortunate boy's aid. Willing hands carried him into a nearby house and Dr. J. B. Sicker was summoned. An examination proved that the lad was badly injured, his right arm was broken at the wrist, the hand mangled. The doctor could not state the extent of his injuries as Hughes complained of being hurt internally and suffered much pain. At a late hour last evening he was resting more comfortably and hopes for his recovery are entertained.

JERMYN AND MAYFIELD.

The pall-bearers were: John, Mark and Ben Davis, Jr., William Rawling, John Culey and Matthew McLean. The flower bearers were: William Westington, Jr., and Thomas Pritchard, who carried an inscribed pillow upon which was inscribed the word "Husband."

The Citizens' band, under the leadership of Professor Elijah Stephens, gave an open air concert outside the Hotel every on Saturday evening and notwithstanding the chilly air the excellent programme was so attractive and the music so enjoyably rendered that a large concourse of people eagerly listened throughout the concert.

The Mayfield council will meet in regular session this evening and is likely to prove interesting. It is understood Councilman Bergan whose seat was again declared vacant at Friday evening's special session and filled by the election of Mr. Charles Gallagher, has placed the matter in the hands of the well known legal firm of Willard, Warren and Knapp, and the case will probably be taken to court.

Three Doctors in Consultation.

From Benjamin Franklin.

"When you are sick, what you like best is to be chosen for a medicine in the first place; what experience tells you is best, to be chosen in the second place; what reason (i. e., Theory) says is best to be chosen in the last place. But if you can get Dr. Inclinatio, Dr. Experience and Dr. Reason to hold a consultation together, they will give you the best cure on a brief visit."

When you have a bad cold Dr. Inclinatio would recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy because it is pleasant and safe to take. Dr. Experience would recommend it because it is a scientific principle, and acts on nature's plan in relieving the lungs, opening the secretions and restoring the system to a natural and healthy condition.

Dr. Reason would recommend it because it is prepared on scientific principles, and acts on nature's plan in relieving the lungs, opening the secretions and restoring the system to a natural and healthy condition.

What a Little Faith Did FOR MRS. ROCKWELL.

[LETTER TO MRS. FERRIS, No. 69, 58.]

"I was a great sufferer from female weakness and had no strength. It was impossible for me to attend to my household duties. I had tried everything and many doctors, but found no relief.

"My sister advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which I did; before using all of one bottle I felt better. I kept on with it and to my great surprise I am cured. All who suffer from female complaints should give it a trial."—Mrs. ROCKWELL, 1209 S. DIVISION ST., GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.

From a Grateful Newark Woman.

"When I wrote to you I was very sick, had not been well for two years. The doctors did not seem to help me, and one said I could not live three months. I had wobbly trouble, falling, ulcers, kidney and bladder trouble. There seemed to be such a drawing and burning pain in my bowels that I could not rest anywhere. After using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash and following your advice, I feel well again and stronger than ever. My bowels feel as if they had been made over new. With many thanks for your help, I remain, L. G. 74 ANN ST., NEWARK, N. J."

PHILLIPS EXETER ACADEMY.

With an interest that is gratifying to both the faculty and the students, Phillips Exeter academy has opened auspiciously for its one hundred and seventeenth year.

Among the scholars enumerated Pennsylvania has twenty-six to her credit. The others are, with the exception of New York state, chiefly from the New England states. The enrollment in all shows 267 pupils.

This town of Exeter is far different from the towns of the anthracite region. The old buildings that have seen the light of the eighteenth century now at the dawn of the twentieth loom up with sombre leaity. There is a more Puritanic atmosphere about the town than can be found in Pennsylvania, still there are signs of push and progress apparent. A street car road connects the town with Hampton Beach and Portsmouth.

There is only one railroad running into the town. There are several churches, one daily paper and two weeklies, two banks, and the near end of progressiveness is brought up with paved streets. The Baptist adherents, through the instrumentality of the trustees, have almost completed their new place of worship, being in fact a magnificent one, and its proximity to the academy grounds gives it an added charm. The dedicatory exercises were held Saturday. The academy buildings are of the most modern plan, Soule and Peabody halls are comparatively new buildings, erected during the past few years. Both of those buildings are fireproof. Abbot hall is the oldest of the buildings. The gymnasium is one of the best equipped in the country. In the academy are innumerable works of art.

The campus is plotted out in an admirable manner for athletics. Sporting about athletics, brings us around to the point from which we can dispassionately view the prospects for the coming year for the foot ball eleven. The team is under the captaincy of James Hogan, who plays left tackle. In the game with the Boston club, with the eleven from Boston college, the eleven from Exeter showed that they could hold their own on the gridiron. James Cooney, of Scranton, who used to play on the eleven of St. Thomas' college and the School of the Lacksawanna, is playing right guard for the Exeter eleven.

The game maintained that tenacity of will and strength which won for him such praise in the Lackawanna valley. The feeling that Cooney will prove a success in scholastic foot ball is plainly apparent. There is considerable dispute as to whether or not the game, the point is whether or not the back gained in the last half by Boston would warrant their being allowed to score, as the Exeter eleven gained the ball as it was still rolling. Both teams throughout the game struggled with the same purpose, but it proved to be of no avail. The ball was fumbled both sides several times, and misjudged punting caused the ball to be sent back to the field from either goal.

The Boston team made several very plays to score, but the ball was generally fumbled by the Exeter boys.

The foot ball team, under the management of Coach William McCormack, formerly of Dartmouth, Thomas Hurley, who hails from Tioga county, was a spectator at the game. He was accompanied by Mr. O'Connor, of Cambridge, Hurley, who used to attend the Mansfield Normal school, is now taking the preparatory course at the Andover eleven. The rooms with Ralph Davis, the captain of the Andover eleven. Davis is also a graduate from the Mansfield Normal school. While there he was used to play left end for the Mansfield boys. Tom Hammett, of Olyphant, was then the captain of the Andover eleven. He has been noted heretofore in the columns of The Tribune. Mansfield should be proud of the people trained on the gridiron at that institution. Wallbridge, Overfield, Bull, Woodruff and Collins are names that are synonymous with good ball playing. The struggle between Exeter and Andover will be held Nov. 11, on the Exeter campus.

The debate, "Resolved, That Abraham Lincoln was a better president than Washington," was discussed at the rooms of the G. L. Soule society last Saturday night. The discussion was one of merit and was carefully opened by the audience. Dean, '99, of Dalton, ably rendered Edward Markham's poem, "The Man with the Hoe."

Brill, who is playing a first-class game as center on the eleven, is from Hazelton. He is also in attendance at the institution.

The following officers have been elected for the class of 1903: President, J. Rossa McCormack, Olyphant, Pa.; vice-president, Fred Shaw, Havorthill, Mass.; secretary, O. M. Burke, New York; treasurer, Ralph Meras, Exeter. The foot ball eleven of the class is managed by A. C. Farrell, of Olyphant.

THEATRICAL.

"My Innocent Boy."

At the Lyceum Saturday night, Orie Harlan made his appearance in a three-act comedy written by George R. Sims and labelled "My Innocent Boy." Mr. Harlan takes the part of Valentine Smith, an architect, who when he was but nineteen years of age contracted a secret marriage, his wife dying after a short period of married life, leaving a daughter. Shortly after his wife's death his father, a sea captain with an irascible temper, retires from service and brings up his son, whom he alludes to as his innocent boy, according to a system of his own.

When the son reaches the age of thirty-six, at which time the play opens, he is about to marry again, no one dreaming he had been married before. He tries to inform his intended wife of his secret through a letter entrusted to a friend, who had been filled with indignation to find an old man thinking the friend is seeking revenge, refuses to read the letter. The marriage takes place without the wife knowing the past, and then the complications begin, following each other in rapid succession.

There is an abundance of fun during the play and Mr. Harlan and his company made the most of their opportunities. In his new comedy Mr. Harlan does a little finer line of comedy than he has heretofore attempted. He is evidently ambitious to add by legitimate methods to the fame he has achieved in the 30-o'clock Hoyt farces with which he has heretofore been associated.

"My Innocent Boy" is not the best vehicle that Mr. Harlan could have obtained, but it is bright and has some claims to cleverness and as presented Saturday night coming and very enjoyable evening's entertainment.

Cameron Clemens Co.

Cameron Clemens, supported by his own superb company of players, will appear at the Academy of Music all this week, opening this evening with that funny comedy, "An Up-to-Date Liar," a play made for laughing purposes only, and the construction is simply a mass of wit and humor, and sparkling fun. Mr. Clemens has spared no pains to make this company one of the best now playing at popular prices and pays special attention to every little detail to give his patrons the best of their money at least, and more, for he represents plays at popular prices that were never played here before for less than 75 cents and $1 a seat. Specialties will be introduced between each act and each specialty will be changed every performance. The popular dime comedies will continue throughout the week, commencing Tuesday.

Gaiety Theatre.

Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, October 2, 3, 4, the European Sensation company will have a three days' stay at the Gaiety with daily matinees. The European Sensation company comprises an olio of vaudeville and burlesque closing with a burlesque introducing 15 wardrobe beautiful ladies in their vivid wardrobe such as not seen at the Gaiety this season.

Jonah and the Whale.

If there is one day in a man's life that he looks forward to with supreme delight it is his wedding day.

It falls to the lot of but few bridegrooms to spend the first instalment of the honeymoon in such a remarkable manner as did Colonel Bullman, the superintendent of police in Jonah and the Whale, which will be seen at the Lyceum Tuesday evening, October 3.

"The Carpetbagger."

It is doubtful if Tim Murphy will ever find a play that will give such complete satisfaction as has "The Carpetbagger," the new comedy which will be played at the Lyceum Wednesday, October 4. An unbroken chain of success has been the record of this play. Both press and public everywhere are of one accord in ringing applause of the comedy and of Tim Murphy in the leading part. The play is described as a political drawing comedy. Political in only so far as it touches upon a phase of Southern politics which prevailed in that section of the country immediately after the Civil War. The story is a faithful representation of the lives of the people of that time, genuine in tone, picturesque in detail and consistent in following the circumstances that directed the course of political and social events.
