DISTRESSING ACCIDENT TO GABRIEL SWARTZ.

One of His Eyes Was Literally Torn from Its Socket-Robert Pinckney Painfully Injured While Working at an Emery Wheel in the Scranton Stove Works-Officers of the Epworth League of the Methodist Episcopal Church Elected-Attractions at the Firemen's Fair.

Gabriel Swartz, of Cherry street, met ith a serious and most shocking accident, while performing his duties as a teamster. Wednesday, by having one of his eyes literally torn from its socket. Mr. Swartz was driving through the entrance to the Pennsylvania Coal company's coal chutes, and when nearly opposite the row of chutes, did not observe that some one preceding him had allowed a chute to hang down. Before any realization of his danger had flashed upon him, the moving wagon the edge of the overhanging chute. The obstacle being in a direct line with his face, struck him fully in the eye, tearing that organ out, and lacerating the Medical aid was at once summoned and it is hoped that the serious nature

Kept Open House.

A FTER the parade the firemen of the city kept open house and entertained in a hearty manner the visiting firemen. The Crystals had tables set in the store rooms adjoining their headquarters on Linden street and all during the day, but particularly after the parade they dispensed liquid and solid refreshments to all comers. Their special guests were the members of the Active Firemen's association of Philadelphia,

At the Nay Augs' handsome house on Franklin avenue all of the rooms were thrown open to the visitors and refreshments were on tap in every one of them. The Nay Aug's guests were OF FIREMEN of them. The May Aug. Wilson's of the Crystals of Jermyn; Wilson's of Peckville; Ready No. 1, of Reading; Liberty steam fire engine company of South Bethlehem and the companies of the Wilkes-Barre department. Besides these many members of other companies called during the afternoon and evening.

The members of the Phoenix Chemical company did their entertaining in Blatter's hall on Lackawanna avenue and a merry time they had, special guests were the South Works and the Phoenix companies, both of Catasanqua.

In North Scranton, West Scranton and South Scranton all of the companies entertained in a most hospitable manner. Most of the companies had special guests.

Notes of the Day.

THE Taylor Hose company, of Philadelphia, had four youngsters at-I tired in embroidered white satin in line. They carried the ends of he streamers attached to the company's handsome banner and were much praised all along the line of march. Ex-chief of the old Philadelphia volunteer fire department, George Down-ing, marched at the head of the William Penn Hose company of that city, whose guest he was. Mr. Downing is a veteran, yet he marched the over the entire line of march with a light and active step. He was chief of the "Quaker City" volunteer department for twenty-eight con-secutive years, ending in 1876, when the department was organized on a paid

On the William Penn Hose company's carriage were seated three little boys realistically made up to represent Willlam Penn and two Indians. The costumes were historically perfect.

The Friendship company, of Danville had their exceedingly large mascot mas-tiff "Czar" in line with them and his ferocious appearance caused many an imaginative person to ponder over the dire possibilites if he over broke loose. The youngest company in line was the Junior No. 1, of Statington, whose members range in age from 6 to 8 years. were completely attired in perfect fire-men's uniforms and wore the regula-tion fireman's hat. They also had a min-ature hose cart with them that was an excellent model of the real thing. The oreman of this diminutice company is Walter Osler, aged 8 years.

Perhaps the most amusing feature of the parade next to the Darktown brig-ade, of Pittston, was the appearance of the only ever famous and up-to-date Ben Johnson attired in a complete set of foot ball togs and carrying a sign bearing the unnouncement of a coming foot ball game.
The Third Brigade band, of Pottsville, serenaded Major W. S. Millar, inspector of that brigade, yesterday at the conclusion of the parade at his rooms on Wyoming avenue. The major reciprocated this evidence of good feeling by entertainng the men in the evening at the St.

Officers of the state association and their wives presented Manager Harvey Long, of the Lyceum, with a dinner set at Hotel Jermyn yesterday. The presen-tation speech was made by Chief Green-berg, of Huntingdon.

Alexander's band, of Wilkes-Barre, ten-iered The Tribune a delightful serenade yesterday. It was one of the best of the many fine bands in the parade.

Hon. James Clarency, of Philadelphia, who rods in one of the carriages, is one of the most popular men in fire circles in the entire state. He has represented the Eighteenth district in the house for a number of years and it is mainly through his efforts that the pension bill and other favorable to firemen have been passed. Mr. Clarency is connected with the Phil-

arr. Charency is confected with the Phil-adelphia Evening Star.

Chief Greenberg, of Huntingdon was presented with a gold-lined silver ten-service in honor of the twentieth anni-versary of the association, he having attended every session. In honor of his tenth anniversary as chief he was pre-sented with about 500 articles of tin ware. Nearly all the nearby companies and few of the distant companies returned home last night, but the majority of them waited over until today that they might enjoy last night's entertainments and witness today's tournament.

A screnade was tendered to The Tribone yesterday morning by the Sheridan band of Norristown Pa., which marched at the head of the Union Fire company, No. 1, of Lebanon, in the parade. The Union is the pioneer fire company of Leb-
