

WITHIN SIGHT OF CITY OF MANILA

LETTER WRITTEN BY CORPORAL WILLIAM J. ROYCE.

Speaks of His Experience in Crossing the Pacific on the Transport Tanager—Spent Two Days in Honolulu. Routine the Soldiers Have to Observe on Board Ship—Food the Soldiers Get Is Not the Best and Their Quarters Are Cramped.

Corporal William J. Royce, of this city, who is now with Company K, Nineteenth United States Infantry, at Manila, writes interestingly of his trip to the Philippine islands. His latest letter to The Tribune is as follows:

China Sea. Transport Tanager. Aug. 29, 1899.

This Sunday morning finds us near Manila, as tomorrow we will reach the end of our journey. The longest ever taken by a troop of American soldiers, and to say that every one of us will be glad to put our feet on land again, will be putting it in a mild form, as life on a transport is not a very happy life.

I am in good health at this writing, and am glad to say that I haven't had a moment's sickness since I started on my journey five weeks ago. We left Camp Meade on July 17, arriving at San Francisco on July 23. We immediately went on board the transport and left for Honolulu on July 24, arriving there on the morning of Aug. 1. We stayed there two days, leaving Honolulu on Aug. 3, and did not get to Manila until the morning of Oct. 7.

But before another day passes over our heads we will be in Manila bay and getting ready to land at the city we have heard and learned so much about the past two years. Our trip as far as weather is concerned has been a good one, as we have not had any storms to amount to much. Of course, since we have been in the tropical climate it has rained some, but not enough to hurt anything. The storms come up very sudden, and stop very sudden. The old saying of "always carry your umbrella with you when the sun shines," would be a good one to copy in this changeable climate.

We have had some sickness, as in a body of men staying on a boat of this kind for so long a period we could not expect anything but sickness. At Honolulu we had to put off five men on account of sickness. They all had typhoid fever, and there is about twenty more sick on the boat at present. Two men were quite crazy.

A PITIFUL SIGHT

This is the hardest part of the trip, oh, horrors! What a pitiful sight it is to see the men go completely out of their minds. It is simply awful, at the least. But we are lucky on one point, as we haven't had a death since we started and have not had but one accident. That was when the steam pipes burst and scalded three Chinamen who work on the boat.

Now, about our regiment. We have on this boat two battalions, the First and Third, and every company has 125 men, making a total of 1,500 men. We have 225 recruits for regiments now at Manila, so you can see that we are pretty well crowded. Colonel Snyder of our regiment is in charge of the men, and a very strict disciplinarian he is.

As regards my trip, I will write as few words as possible. The rooms the emigrants occupy when en route to our country are better than ours. In fact, they are so good that it is almost impossible to turn around. As a result of this, the men went insane. You can draw your own conclusions as to who ought to be responsible for this state of affairs.

The rations, it is true, we have plenty of, such as the soldiers get, and they are justified in doing so. You may ask, Why do men join the army when they know it is such a hard life? The reason is this: The men in a general rule are all young and strong. They fail to secure employment at their home towns, so they join the army.

That is particularly so in Scranton, as well as numerous other places. I met several men who were out with the Thirteenth that hadn't done any work since they were honorably discharged. There are a number of Chinese on this boat, and it is amusing, indeed, to see them come along with a bag on their backs, yelling "Gang-way" and see them sitting around in groups eating rice with two sticks for a knife and fork. Some of them are very intelligent, and speak the English language fluently.

I will write something about them some other time, as we are now a day ahead of you. Of course, nearly every one knows that traveling West you gain time and traveling East you lose time. Well, when we crossed the meridian four days out from Honolulu we skipped a day; that is, when we returned to our bunks on the 24th we got up on the 25th, or in other words, we went to bed on Monday and got up on Wednesday. It seems rather funny, but such is the case, and when we go back

THE FOOD IS POOR.

The factors are condemning the administration all over the world for the poor food the soldiers get, and they are justified in doing so. You may ask, Why do men join the army when they know it is such a hard life? The reason is this: The men in a general rule are all young and strong. They fail to secure employment at their home towns, so they join the army.

BRACES BODY AND BRAIN.

What Mariant Wine Does to Stimulate, Strengthen and Sustain the System.

Vin Mariant (Mariant Wine) is recommended as a tonic by the medical profession all over the world. It has received written recommendations from more than 8,000 American physicians.

Mariant Wine stimulates, strengthens and sustains the system and braces body and brain. It gives strength and is an aid to health and longevity. Makes the old young, keeps the young strong.

Mariant Wine is especially indicated for all malarial fevers. It gives a sense of buoyancy and vigor.

Mariant Wine is furthermore of special value in cases of Neuralgia, Nervous Debility, Muscular Relaxation, Mental and Physical Depression and Exhaustion, Overwork or Overstrain, Insomnia, Headache, Nervous Dyspepsia, Loss of Appetite, Emaciation and Consumption. It builds up the vital forces and is a powerful rejuvenator. It gives firmness and elasticity to the muscles and richness to the blood.

Mariant Wine is palatable and suited to the most delicate stomach. In case of pale, puny, sickly children it is used with great benefit.

For overworked men and delicate women Mariant Wine gives excellent results.

To overcome Malaria and La Grippe use Vin Mariant in the form of hot grog. Mariant Wine is sold by all druggists. Try it and you will find that it will well sustain its reputation. One word of caution, however—let no representation or explanation induce you to accept a substitute, and thus avoid disappointment.

To every one writing to Mariant & Co., 52 West 15th street, New York City, will be sent, free if this paper is mentioned, an interesting little book containing portraits and autographs of Emperors, Empresses, Princes, Cardinals, Archbishops and other distinguished personages endorsing Vin Mariant.

We will make that day up by having two days the same date.

Our work is as follows: We have reveille at 6 a. m. and then every company is allowed forty minutes for "settling up exercises." We have guard mount at 9 a. m. every day and retreat every night, and on Saturdays we have inspection, so you see we have something to do every day.

We have church twice every Sunday, conducted by our chaplain—a nice, whole-souled little man, who takes a great deal of interest in the men.

I could fill your paper with volumes of adventures and experiences which transpire daily, but my time will not permit, so I will conclude for this time. Largest Furnaces in the World. A special dispatch from Pittsburgh to the Philadelphia Press says:

"The Carnegie Steel company will immediately commence the construction of two blast furnaces, each of which will have a capacity of 2,000 tons per week. These furnaces will be built on the Carnegie Carrie Furnace property at Rankin Station.

"The company will start the erection at the same time of a double track steel railroad bridge across the Monongahela river, connecting the Carnegie Furnace plant with the Homestead Steel Works on the south shore opposite."

"The molten iron will be run into ladle cars and hauled by locomotives across the river in the same condition, with all the furnaces at Homestead, the iron will be run into the open hearth steel furnaces of the Bessemer converters.

"The building of these two furnaces will give Allegheny county a total of thirty-two stacks, with a total capacity of 4,500,000 eggs tons, of which the Carnegie company will own nineteen, with a total capacity of 2,700,000 tons.

"Extensive additions will also be made at once to the Duquesne Steel Works of the Carnegie company, including a large plant for the manufacture of open hearth steel and the construction of a reversible blooming mill.

"The new open hearth plant at Duquesne will consist of fourteen fifty-ton furnaces, increasing the open hearth steel capacity of the company over 300,000 tons per annum, which, with the forty furnaces at Homestead, will give a total capacity of 1,600,000 tons of open hearth steel.

"The estimated cost of the improvements outlined will be between $7,500,000 and $8,000,000.

This and That. The buildings to be used by the nut and bolt works are all under roof.

Work is being pushed rapidly on the superstructure of the new steel mill at Moosey avenue and Poplar street.

VERDICT IS SET ASIDE. Opinion of Judge Acheson in the Walsh Insurance Case.

A decision has been handed down by Judge Acheson in the United States court in the case of Michael Walsh, executor of Patrick Butler, deceased, against the Royal Union Mutual Life Insurance company. The verdict of the lower court is set aside on the ground that some of the answers of the insured in his application were false and known by him to be so.

"The evidence," says the learned judge, is convincing that he was seriously affected (to his own knowledge) with various disorders before his application was made in January, 1898, and delivered Nov. 6, 1898, and the insured died Jan. 11, 1897. The case is extraordinary. The last work the deceased did was in January, 1896, at 85 cents per day. He had no relatives near or remote.

He went to the Luzerne county poor house in January, 1898, and remained there two months, afterwards he lived from hand to mouth. The evidence overwhelmingly establishes that he was entirely destitute of means. This policy was for $10,000. The cash premium was $475. The evidence shows that the policy was had by Butler insured for $10,000, and by will executed after the policy was taken Walsh was made Butler's sole executor and sole legatee. The evidence discloses circumstances connected with the effecting of this insurance, strongly indicating bad faith toward the insurance company. For the reasons stated above, the verdict is set aside, and a new trial granted.
