OFFICERS AGAIN ELECTED.

Company C Held a Second Election Last Evening.

Company C met last evening in their rooms in the Armory and again elected officers, the election held last week having been declared illegal on account of there being only forty-nine names on the roster at the time. The same officers were elected but this time unanimously. They are as follows: Captain, Edward H. Burkhouse; first lieutenant, Joseph Heiriegle; second lieutenant, Bernard Haggerty.

The following list of non-commissioned officers was given out by Captain Burkhouse, the list given out some time ago being incomplete: Sergeants, Ray G. Smith, Clarence Lathrope, R. J. Bourke, George Schmidt and William Beckman; corporals, James J. Corbett, Henry Angle, Charles Sprangle, Fred Luther, John Malia, William Gawlas, Karl Gunster and Robert Marshall

Order No. 1

The first of the series of schools prescribed in regimental order No. 6 c. s., dated Sept. 18, 1899, will be held at regimental headquarters, Thursday, Oct. 19, 1899, at 8 p. m. The lesson will be D. R., pages 3 to 54 inclusive.

Every officer of the battalion will be required to attend these schools and act as instructor when called upon. Uniforms will not be worn unless specially ordered. By order of

Lieut.-Col. F. W. Stillwell.
W. E. Gunster, Adjutant.

BICYCLE CLUB SMOKER.

First of a Series of Entertainments to Be Given in the Washington Avenue Club House.

The Scranton Bicycle club conducted one of its delightfully informal smokers last evening in its club rooms on North Washington avenue. These affairs will be made features of the coming winter.

The entertainment offered last evening was equal to any vaudeville performance ever given in this city. The first features were Frutchie, the trick bicyclist, who gave a clever exhibition on the floor of the auditorium. Parish, Rooney and O'Neil, who, strange to relate, are a trio of negro entertainers, next appeared and gave a varied programme of songs and dances.

Charles, Hartley, the famous ventriloquist and imitator, gave one of his clever monologue acts, which served to only increase his excellent reputation as a remarkably clever and versatile performer.

He gave perfect imitations of Richard Mansfield, Stuart Robson, the late Thomas E. Keene and a number of other celebrated actors.

At this stage of the proceedings a number of the members of the "Sleeping City" company, now playing at the Academy, put in an appearance and helped out the evening entertainment.

Miss Dell Lincoln, the soubrette of the piece, sang several songs in a clever manner. She was followed by Harry Winsman, who gave a whistling solo. Tom Flynn also entertained with an Irish specialty.

But the cleverest of all these performers were Fred and Nelly Daly, who gave a comedy sketch, assisted by their dog "Finnigan." Miss Daly is a comedienne of marked ability and very well received, in fact, the audience couldn't seem to hear enough of her. She gave an imitation of Maggie Cline that was so perfect that one might close one's eyes and imagine that the robust "Irish Queen" was singing. She also imitated May Irwin in an acceptable manner.

The committee in charge of the affair last evening was as follows: Chairman, C. P. Kreig; F. M. Vandling. At the conclusion of the stage Northup, R. T. Gould and F. C. Wetting. At the conclusion of the stage performance refreshments were served to all present in the gymnasium.

THAT GIFT FOR DEWEY.

Detailed Description of Pennsylvania's Tribute to the Admiral.

Mention was briefly made several days ago of a souvenir gift prepared for presentation to Admiral Dewey on behalf of Pennsylvania by Senator Quay, William L. Elkins, Thomas Dolan, Allen B. Rorke, Colonel J. M. Guffey, Senator J. Henry Cochran, Attorney General John P. Elkins, Horace C. Disston, William Weightman and Congressman Connell. From the Philadelphia Item we cull this description:

The gift comprises two large volumes and a portfolio of 45 water-color facsimiles, containing the recorded achievements of American arms on land and sea, from the time of the Battle of Bunker Hill up to and including the elimination of Spain as a factor in the affairs of the Western hemisphere.

Never in the history of bookmaking has there been produced anything in the line of letter-press, illustrations, or binding that will eclipse the Dewey volumes, in fact they not only mark an epoch in the art of bookmaking, but also establish a precedent that the foremost publishers of the world will find it extremely difficult to follow.

The text of the work is printed upon Imperial Japan Vellum, from a new font of type, especially prepared for this publication, and is illuminated with water-colors by famous artists, depicting the most notable battles on land and sea, which have punctuated the glorious career of the great American republic.

The bindings of the volumes present a rare and beautiful appearance in full blue Levant, polished and tooled. Inside of covers are finished (double) in a rare tint of light blue. National designs of delicate construction are appropriately arranged and are numerous in number; they are one of the striking features of the work. The fly leaves are in perfect harmony with the rest.

Admiral Dewey has been written to with a view of setting apart a time to receive the gift during his proposed visit to Philadelphia some time next month. It is proposed that a dinner will be given to the Admiral, during the course of which the presentation will be made.

The volumes are now on exhibition at the National Export Exposition, in the main building. Here they will remain until presented to the admiral.

These Dewey volumes have attracted so much attention throughout the country that plans have been completed to make a similar present to President McKinley as commander-in-chief of the army and navy of the United States, under whose able direction some extremely bright pages have been added to American history.

DuBree, Philadelphia; Richard Airy, Hazleton; J. M. Steever, Plymouth; Oscar Ridgway, Dunmore; Charles E. Daniels.

MR. SHANNON'S ADDRESS.

An address by Supreme Dictator Shannon, and the reports of officers and committees were the principal features of the morning and afternoon sessions. A visit to the Bellevue mine under the guidance of Foreman John Fern and an open session at A. O. U. W. hall in the evening completed the day's programme.

At the morning session Grand Dictator Allison appointed the following committees:

State of order—George Ridgeway, of Towanda; S. A. McClure, of Sandy Lake, and Alf. Lawton, of Pittsburg.

Appointments and grievances—George A. Du Bree, of Philadelphia; Gottfried Stoehr, of Allegheny, and C. W. Brandt, of Plymouth.

Necrology—Rev. T. N. Boyle, of Pittsburg; W. W. Evans, of Waynesburg, and W. H. Wolfe, of Scranton.

A special committee to examine into the state of the organization and to suggest ways and means for the upbuilding of it in this state was also appointed. It consists of the following: Rev. T. N. Boyle, of Pittsburg; John G. Ransome, of Pittsburg; J. S. Braddock, of Mt. Pleasant; Thomas Lewis, of Philadelphia; John T. Wells of Erie; Oscar Ridgeway, of Dunmore; E. A. James of Johnstown; W. C. Wygent of Greys Mills and Grand Dictator Allison, of Allentown.

All of the above committees will deliver reports at this morning's session and the convention will devote its time in discussing and acting upon these reports.

The election of officers and the selection of the place of meeting in 1901 will take place this afternoon. There is a lively contest on for several of the offices while in other cases the present incumbents will be re-elected without opposition.

There are three candidates for the position of grand dictator. The friends of the present grand dictator, H. W. Allison are urging him to accept a re-election but he has not yet decided to stand. The other candidates for this office are: Past Grand Dictator John G. Ransom, of Pittsburg; Grand Vice Dictator James S. Braddock, of Mt. Pleasant and Thomas B. Lewis, of Philadelphia.

The candidates for the office of state trustee of whom two are to be elected for a term of two years are: James A. Lindsey, of Bradford; Rev. T. C. Boyle of Pittsburg; George Spratt, of Pittsburg. Mr. Allison will also be nominated for this position if he refuses to become a candidate for re-election.

W. W. Evans, editor of the Waynesburg Independent, is the only candidate so far for the office of assistant grand dictator, but dark horses are likely to loom up.

Grand Treasurer W. H. Young, of Pittston, and Grand Reporter Wm. J. Robinson, of Erie, will undoubtedly be reelected to their respective positions.

The next place of meeting will probably be Cambridge Springs in the western part of the state.

A public meeting was held last evening in A. O. U. W. hall on Lackawanna avenue and was attended by a number of the delegates and persons interested in the work of the organization.

Mayor Molr, who is a member of the order, delivered an address of welcome to those present, which he was unable to give at the opening of the morning session. He dwelt upon the unselfish motives of the organization in providing for the welfare of the widows and orphans of its members in addition to extending the freedom of the city to the delegates. His remarks were interspersed with witty stories and jokes and he was very well received.

Supreme Dictator J. W. Shannon, of Atlanta, Ga., who is a typical southern gentleman both as regards his manner and his speech, spoke upon the merits of the organization and told of the great personal interest he took in its workings.

Addresses were also delivered by Grand Dictator Allison, of Allentown; Rev. T. N. Boyle, of Pittsburg; Grand Reporter Wm. J. Robinson of Erie and Grand Treasurer Wm. Young, of Pittston.

PREPARING RECEPTION.

Vice Presidents of the Meeting in This City to Be Addressed by the State Candidates.

Arrangements for the reception of Colonel James E. Barnett and his party of campaigners have been about completed.

The county candidates and committeemen will meet the party upon their arrival at 10 o'clock and escort them to Carbondale for the afternoon meeting there. The return to this city will be made at 6 o'clock and the mass meeting here will be held in the armory at 8 o'clock.

City Solicitor A. A. Vosburg, chairman of the county committee, will open the meeting and introduce the chairman, who will likely be Judge H. M. Edwards. Addresses on general issues will be delivered by Colonel Barnett, Hon. J. Hay Brown and others not yet announced. A. J. Colborn, jr., will speak on the local campaign. RECITAL AT GUERNSEY'S.

Miss Ada B. Dean Introduced to a Scranton Audience.

Before a large and select number of representative Scrantonians a recital was given in Guernsey's hall on Washington avenue last evening. The main purpose of the gathering was to introduce Miss Ada B. Dean, the new teacher of elocution in the Scranton Conservatory of Music to the Scranton public.

Miss Dean in her readings produced a most favorable impression upon her hearers. Her versatility was shown by the fact that her readings ranged from a highly humorous account of an elopement enacted in a Shaker village to selections from Whittier's "Snow Bound." Very pretty also was her rendering of Tennyson's "The Brook," with piano accompaniment by Prof. Pennington.

Miss Grace Spencer sang several selections in a most charming manner. She was vociferously applauded, especially after she had given Donizetti's "O Mio Fernando." Miss Florence Richmond accompanied her on the piano.

The entertainment was brought to a close by the singing in a most pleasing manner of Faure's "Santa Maria" by a trio of young ladies, comprising the Misses Grace Spencer, Edith James and Helen Randolph.

PARK ORDINANCE IS OUT OF THE WOODS

MARGIN OF CITY INDEBTEDNESS PERMITS OPERATION.

After Several Weeks of Figuring Which Was Attended by No Little Anxiety on the Part of the Friends of the Ordinance It Is Found That the $30,000 Issue for Park Improvements Will Come Within the Two Per Cent. Limit and Leave a Margin of Over $4,000.

There was a fear that the ordinance directing a $30,000 bond issue for the improvement of Nay Aug Park would be made inoperative by reason of the contemplated addition to the city's debt exceeding the limit in which bonds can be issued without the consent of the voters. This fear, however, is happily removed. Deputy City Controller Charles A. Hartley, yesterday, completed a statement of the city's indebtedness and to the great joy of the friends of the park ordinance, the margin was figured out to be $41,204.23, or $11,204.23 more than sufficient to permit of the operation of the park ordinance.

No tabulation of the city's debt had been made since 1894 when the bridge bonds were issued and it was guesswork as much as anything as to how much leeway councils still had for issuing bonds without submitting the matter to a vote of the people. The margin was variously estimated at from $10,000 to $50,000. Select Councilman Chittenden, who is the father of the park ordinance figured it out to be $38,000.

FOOTING UP THE BILLS.

The ordinance having been passed and signed by the mayor, the city controller's department with the assistance of City Solicitor Vosburg, entered upon the task of making up an exact statement of the debt, resources and valuation as is required to be filed with the clerk of the courts under oath, before a bond issue is undertaken. These figures were completed yesterday afternoon with the result above stated.

The statement in substance is as follows:

Liabilities—
Bonds outstanding	$640,300 00
Unpaid warrants	11,713 48
Accounts subject to adjustment	25,291 58
Judgments outstanding prior to April 4, 1899	18,249 12
Amounts certified on sewers as city's share of the costs	42,125 75
Total	$737,477 93
Assets—
Cash in general city fund	$ 39,166 54
Cash in interest and sinking fund	112,236 57
Bonds in interest and sinking fund	104,000 00
Delinquent tax and other collectable items	19,500 00
Revenues of the city available within one year to apply on indebtedness	41,278 83
Total	$316,281 94

ENOUGH AND TO SPARE.

Two per cent of the assessed valuation of $23,121,611, or $467,420.22, is the limit of the indebtedness this city can contract without a vote of the people. The present debt according to the figures above is $421,215.99. The difference, $41,204.23 represents the margin.

The bonds will be offered for sale at once and if possible floated before the present year is out. It may be that the whole issue will be taken up by the sinking fund commissioners. There being a clause in the ordinance giving their offer precedence over all others.

DON'T LIKE THE CONTRACT

Courtrights Ask Court to Help Them to Get Rid of What They Believe Is a Bad Bargain.

A bill in equity was filed yesterday by William H. Courtright and Zipha H. Courtright against C. W. Thompson, asking that a contract between the parties be annulled and that Thompson be compelled to furnish an account.

On June 16, 1896, the parties joined in a contract conveying and assigning all the property, real and personal, of William F. Courtright to C. W. Thompson, jr., trustee. The real estate consists of land in Old Forge and Taylor boroughs and Lackawanna township. Thompson has refused to reconvey the real estate assigned to him, although often requested to do so.

It is alleged that the contract was improvidently entered into and that there is no reason why it should not be terminated and they desire that the deed and contract be annulled and cancelled and that the legal estate in the land conveyed to said defendant be reconveyed to William F. Courtright. The petitioners therefore ask: "That a decree may be entered by your honorable court terminating said deed of trust, annulling and canceling said deed and agreement and requiring the said C. W. Thompson, jr., the defendant, to reconvey the legal title of the land transferred to him by said contract of William F. Courtright.

"That the court order and decree that said C. W. Thompson, jr., render an account of the property taken under said deed of trust and pay to said plaintiffs the moneys found to be due and owing from him, said C. W. Thompson, jr., to said plaintiffs."

The complainants are represented by Attorney S. B. Price.
